COUNCIL PASSES $15,000,000 CUT IN BUDGET, 40-3

Cheer Cermak Plan from Galleries.

The city council passed the pay retrenchment ordinances designed to cut more than $15,000,000 from the 1932 city budget yesterday by a vote of 40 to 4. Ald. James C. Moreland [41st], William Feigenbutz [45th], and Oscar F. Nelson [46th] voted against the economy measures, which were sponsored by Mayor Cermak.

ALD. J. C. MORELAND.

The ordinances as passed differed somewhat from the mayor's original proposals, principally in that they retain the paid vacations which the first plan proposed to eliminate. In order to save vacations, however, the employés must work sixteen more days for the same annual wage than they would have worked under the mayor's plan.

Savings Setup Is Same.

Under the original plan they would have been docked 48 days' pay during the year, would have been laid off 30 more days without pay, and would have had no paid vacations. As amended by the finance committee and passed by the council, the ordinance provides that employés be docked 78 days' pay, the same saving set up to the mayor's plan, and grants two weeks' vacation with pay instead of a month without pay.

Per diem employés will get a maximum of five days' work a week under the new ordinance. All sick leaves, except those of police and firemen hurt in the line of duty, are eliminated.

Members of building trades' unions employed by the city by the day will be paid under the new scale recently accepted by the unions for work for private concerns. This provides a 20 per cent pay cut. Union employés paid monthly, their salaries being fixed on a certain number of hours per month at union scale, will receive the 78 day pay deduction during the year, but their salaries will be based on the old union scales.

Pay Rollers Applaud.

A claque of pay rollers in the gallery applauded lustily when Ald. Nelson attacked the economy plan. However, they applauded later when the mayor told them that the retrenchment, necessary to place the city on a sound financial basis, was for their own good. One spectator cheered when Mayor Cermak mentioned the taxpayers.

"I am glad this mayor and this city council are not following the lead of congress in the matter of economy," said Ald. Sheldon W. Govier [9th]. "I know this mayor and this council have done more to solve the dilemma facing the governments of this country than any other similar group. If we follow Ald. Nelson's course we would have to lay off 2,500 employés."

Calls Plan Necessary.

"This plan is absolutely necessary if we are to live within our revenues," said Ald. John S. Clark [30th], chairman of the finance committee, in presenting the ordinances. We have been as liberal in our estimates of revenue as we could be.

"There are no cuts in basic pay rates, so the reductions are temporary. The only alternative is laying off thousands of essential employés. We have preserved the pension and paid vacation rights of the employés."

Ald. Nelson, in opposing the measures, said:

"I don't believe a reduction of wages will help lift the depression. We should ask for a bond issue, and if the city hasn't enough unexpended bonding power ask a special session of the legislature to change the law. This cut brings city employés wages below the actual cost of living.

Just an Added Burden.

"It is easy to talk to a lot of employés and receive their applause," retorted Ald. Clark, "but bonds cannot be floated, and even if they could be it would mean an added burden on taxpayers."

"Our estimates of revenue," said Ald. Clark, "were made, not by any outside citizens' group, but by the finance committee staff. Taxes can be reduced only by decreasing governmental expenditures."

When he spoke Mayor Cermak di-

Gates at Atlanta Close on Capone.

BY CHESLY MANLY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Atlanta, Ga., May 4.—[Special.]—Chicago's Public Enemy No. 1 became convict No. 40886 when Alphonse Capone disappeared behind the huge gates of the federal penitentiary here tonight.

A. C. ADERHOLD. [Assoc. Press Photo.]

Capone entered at 8:10 p. m., Chicago daylight time, accompanied by United States Marshal H. C. W. Laubenheimer. They walked up the stone steps to the outer gates between the tall Doric pillars, and the keeper within called out:

"Who are you?"

"The United States marshal from Chicago, bringing Alphonse Capone, a prisoner," said the marshal. The gates opened and Capone, trembling with emotion but silent, was taken to the second entrance gate, thirty feet back. Here Warden A. C. Aderhold met them. He shook hands with the marshal and then turned to Capone.

"What's your name?" he asked.

"Alphonse Capone," said the ex-gang chief, his voice broken and scarcely audible.

"What's your sentence?"

"Eleven years," said Capone in a mournful tone that suggested eternity. The marshal explained that only ten of these years are be served in the penitentiary.

Gets a New Number.

"Well, your number will be 40886," said the warden. He then took $220 in currency from Capone, but did not take his handbag at once. He led his new charge down the corridor about twenty feet to the dressing room to the left. And that was the last of Capone seen by the Chicago delegation which accompanied him.

In the receiving or dressing-in room, prison attachés explained, Capone's $125 custom tailored blue suit was exchanged for a suit of blue denim with his new distinguishing numeral—the only name he now has—stitched across the back of the jumper and the legs of the overalls. The things he brought down in the grip, linen and toilet articles, were checked, and Capone was taken to the quarantine section, where he will remain for a week or more.

During this time prison physicians will examine and inoculate him, and prison authorities will question him as to his previous occupation and social background with a view to selecting what work he must do.

Retinue Stopped at Gate.

Deputy Marshal James Nordsieck, Robert Clark of the secret service, Marshal Lewis Crawford of Atlanta, and Chicago newspaper men followed Capone and Marshal Laubenheimer into the opening beyond the first gate, but the prison warden refused to permit their passage through the second gate. The only words spoken by Capone were his name to the warden and "good-by" to the marshal when he shook hands at the second gate.

His demeanor as he entered the prison was in sharp contrast to the defiant, grinning cheerfulness he maintained on the Dixie Flyer from Chicago. He was pale of face and walked unsteadily and the wisecracks were missing.

Even Photographers Polite.

Marshal Crawford met Marshal Laubenheimer at the Union station in downtown Atlanta when the prison train pulled in at 7:46, four minutes early. He told the Chicago marshal to stay on the car for a while.

Then the rear Pullman car was switched back and away on a siding and the rest of the train was pulled up a short distance into the train shed. This was to fool the crowd of five hundred or more waiting in the shed, but they were not fooled when Capone got off. The photographers had the same blazing flares that bade him farewell in Chicago Tuesday night, but they were more abject photographers.

"Please, Mistah Capone," drawled a Georgia voice, "won't you pose just once?"

The two marshals rushed Capone through the crowd to a car in which Deputy Nordsieck and a driver wait-

THE REAL ISSUE IN WASHINGTON

INVENTS MACHINE TO ENABLE BLIND PERSONS TO SEE

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

VIENNA, May 4.—Seeing without eyes is claimed to have been brought within the range of possibility by an apparatus invented by Joseph Gartlaruber, a Vienna architect, and demonstrated today to newspaper men and doctors.

Gartlaruber has been working for years on the theory that vision is caused by "bi-polar equalization of organi electrical tension." He maintains that human beings in principle do not see with their eyes, which are actually only natural electric photographic cells, activated by differences of light intensity. He concluded that persons who were blind because of defects of their eyes or their optical nerves could be made to see artificially.

With the help of a blind physician, Dr. Fritz Guggi, Gartlaruber constructed an apparatus consisting of a sort of small goggle-like mass, that he said would collect electrical waves of light like the lens of the eye and transmit them over the nerves to the brain.

On being blindfolded and donning the apparatus a man with normal vision said he could distinguish when the lights were turned on. A woman who had been blind for forty-eight years said she could distinguish between light and darkness, and another who had been able only to perceive light declared she could see clearly three feet away.

RHODE ISLAND G. O. P. MOVE FOR DRY LAW REPEAL

Providence, R. I., May 4.—[Special.]—A resolution instructing the state's delegation at the Republican national convention to work for a plank urging resubmission of the 18th amendment to state conventions with a view toward repeal was passed by Rhode Island Republicans today at their convention.

The convention in electing eight delegates and alternates to the national convention at Chicago next month indorsed President Hoover for renomination. Although the resolution of indorsement does not bind the delegates to vote for President Hoover at the convention, it virtually assured such action.

Boys Use Auto Trailer in Play; One Is Killed

John Holda, 10 years old, 13427 Avenue O, was killed last night when he was run over by a motor truck trailer which was detached from the truck and was being used for play. With a dozen playmates, John was pushing the trailer up a prairie incline near his home. As the trailer descended the boys piled upon it. John slipped and fell beneath the wheels, being killed instantly.

Auto Owning Jury Convicts Traffic Slayer

A Criminal court jury composed mostly of automobile owners heard the story yesterday of how a 12 year old auto, virtually without brakes, struck and killed a young woman. After deliberating for half an hour the jurors returned a verdict of manslaughter against the driver, Joseph Focht, 19 years old, 1615 West 87th street.

The conviction carries a penalty of one to fourteen years in prison, which will be imposed unless Judge Walter Stanton grants a motion for a new trial this morning.

Victim a Librarian.

The victim of Focht's antiquated automobile was Eleanor Ruvene, 23 years old, 1906 North Karlov avenue, assistant to the municipal librarian. She was killed Aug. 2, 1931, at Western avenue and 79th street. In prosecuting Focht, Assistant State's Attorneys Joseph Orrico and John L. Murphy obtained a jury made up almost entirely of automobile owners. Throughout the trial the prosecutors dwelt upon the poor mechanical condition of the car.

Focht did not testify at the trial, but according to the story he told at the coroner's inquest he purchased the automobile from a fellow worker only the day before the accident. He paid $5 down, he said, and promised to pay an additional $20 "if he had the money." He said he did not know how fast he was going at the time of the crash, because his speedometer was out of order. Nor did he know whether his brakes were in order, he said. He admitted his eyesight was poor.

On Way to Cemetery.

His victim, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Sevina Ruvene, was on her way to visit the grave of her father in Mount Olivet cemetery when she was killed. The young woman had alighted from a north bound Western avenue street car at 79th street, and had turned to assist her mother when the automobile driven by Focht struck her. Some witnesses estimated the auto was speeding at fifty miles an hour.

Miss Ruvene was tossed on the hood of the auto, which careened past 79th street, through a red light, and crashed into a barbecue stand on the opposite side of Western avenue. Despite Focht's efforts to stop the car, it ran on for approximately 400 feet before it struck the stand.

Hear Shriek of Brakes.

All the prosecution witnesses said they heard the shriek of the brakes which seemed to have no effect in checking the course of the car. James J. Reed, a court clerk, who was one of the inquest witnesses, said:

"It seemed like Focht had four wheels on the car, but no brakes. You could hear the shriek of the brakes as they were applied just before the car hit the young woman, but they did not seem to slow down the automobile."

In his final plea to the jury, Prosecutor Murphy said:

"I am depending on you automobile owners to put an end to such recklessness as was shown in this case. It is time to teach citizens of this community that they cannot drive automobiles, which are mechanically unsafe, on the streets and thereby endanger the lives of pedestrians."

Japan-China Sign a Truce in Hospitals

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, May 5 (Thursday).—The Chinese-Japanese armistice officially ending hostilities was signed at 11:40 this morning. It was necessary to take a draft of the treaty to three different hospitals in order to obtain the signatures of the chief delegates, who are suffering from injuries.

Shigemitsu Uyeda, the Japanese delegate, was injured when a bomb was thrown by a Corean, while the Chinese delegate, Quo Tai-chi, is suffering from head wounds after having been waylaid by Chinese students.

The document was signed on the Chinese side also by Gen. Tai Chih of the Nineteenth route army.

Four foreign ministers and four foreign military attachés also attached their signatures to the armistice, which ends four months of hostilities. The British consulate, where the meeting was held, is under heavy guard, but a heavy rain apparently prevented mob disturbances.

Japanese Sailors Killed.

In the Chapei district yesterday [Wednesday] two Japanese bluepackets were killed and another was seriously wounded while examining an artillery shell which, it is claimed, was handed them by a Chinese, who said he had found it. The Chinese disappeared.

The Japanese said they had been unable to find the Japanese marine who was kidnaped in Chapei several days ago by Chinese.

Explain Clash with U. S. Troops.

Japanese naval headquarters tonight issued an explanation of the raid by Japanese marines last night on the sector of the international settlement guarded by the American 31st infantry. It was claimed that the Japanese marines were forced to invade the area because they had been subjected to "unbearable insults." It was charged that Chinese civilians hid behind barricades on the other side of Soochow creek, threw stones and called the Japanese insulting names.

U. S. Guard Strengthened.

Edwin S. Cunningham, American consul general and chairman of the consular body, refused to say whether a protest had been lodged against the Japanese raid, but it is known that the 31st infantry has doubled its guards along the south side of Soochow creek.

C. H. Ahn, a Corean who was arrested April 29 by the Japanese military on suspicion of connection with the bombing in which a Japanese official was killed and five seriously wounded, has been on a hunger strike for six days, according to information from American missionary sources.

It was learned that Ahn had resided in the Riverside section of Los Angeles for 15 years and previously had lived in Honolulu. He has a wife and five children in Los Angeles. The children are American citizens.

BABIES LEFT AT DOORS OF BANKER AND PHYSCIAN

A week old baby boy was left on the doorstep of Judson F. Stone, president of the Wilmette State bank, at 1234 Ashland avenue, Wilmette, last night. Mr. Judson went to the door to answer a knock and saw the baby wrapped in a blanket. There was no note pinned to the blanket. The baby was taken to the Cradle in Evanston.

A baby boy, four weeks old, left last night on the front steps of Dr. and Mrs. Casimir F. Przypyszny, 1041 North Hoyne avenue, might find that address his permanent home. The physician discovered the foundling when he answered the door bell. It was taken to St. Vincent's orphanage. Dr. Przypyszny has two children, a boy and a girl. He said last night that he might adopt the abandoned child to "round out his family."

JUDD COMMUTES SENTENCE OF 10 YEARS IN PRISON

Serve One Hour in Custody of Bailiff.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HONOLULU, May 4.—Swiftly, almost secretly, Hawaii's tangled criminal and political knot was cut today and a horizon of peace began to unfold before the people of this long troubled island.

The first move, made as a result of negotiations and conferences since the jury's verdict last Friday convicting Mrs. Granville Fortescue, her son-in-law, Lieut. Thomas H. Massie, U. S. N., and the two sailors, E. J. Lord and Albert O. Jones, of manslaughter, came this morning. Two days in advance of the time set for the passing of sentence the four defendants were called into Circuit Judge Charles S. Davis' court and sentenced to ten years in prison at hard labor for the killing of Joseph Kahahawai, half caste islander and alleged confessed rapist of Mrs. Massie.

Set Free Forever.

This was followed within an hour by legal moves and executive action by Gov. Lawrence M. Judd which set the naval group free forever. Their sentence was commuted by the governor to one hour and this hour was served partly in the courtroom and partly in the office of Attorney General Hewitt.

Almost at once pressure began to be felt from various sources, led by Clarence Darrow of Chicago, chief counsel for the murder trial defense, to drop the prosecution of the four remaining youths charged with the rape of Mrs. Massie, which was the beginning of all Hawaii's troubles.

This case, in which Mrs. Massie is ready to testify and tell for the third time the story of her midnight assault near Waikiki beach last Sept. 12, is ready for trial and was supposed to begin the latter part of this month. Now Darrow suggests that it be dropped. He has advised Mrs. Massie to go home with her family, forget all about it and refuse to take the witness stand.

Mrs. Massie Agrees.

This appears today the probable outcome. It means a nolle prosequi by the prosecutor if it goes through. Both Prosecutor John C. Kelley and Gov. Judd deny any such deal or arrangement has been made. They say the case is to go on, but it cannot if Mrs. Massie refuses to testify.

The family of the naval officer's wife has been anxious for some time to keep her from this ordeal. Her mother has been urging her not to take the stand, but the girl has been determined to go through with it. She has held to the view that it is her duty to sacrifice her own feelings in order to make Honolulu safe for white women in the future.

Now, however, following the advice of Attorney Darorw, she has changed her attitude and is willing to enter a plea to wipe the slate clean of all criminal action in this case, in view of the clemency extended her mother and husband.

Action a Surprise.

Today's action was a complete surprise. Judge Davis, after the jury brought in its verdict of guilty of manslaughter last Friday, announced that he would pass sentence next Friday. The action of officials in taking up the case this morning without announcement is interpreted as having been a precautionary move in order not to excite crowds.

There certainly would have been a demonstration of some kind had the commutation been announced in a crowded court. The defendants had been informed what was in store for them. They came into the courtroom with their attorneys, Mrs. Helen Ripley, Mrs. Fortescue's sister, and Robert Bell, her brother. Mrs. Massie, in a new dress, looked happier than in months.

Only a small group of officials knew what was going to happen and the first warning of the impending events was a glimpse of the defendants going into the courtroom. The court action was brief and the room was cleared of all except the attorneys.

"Nothing to Say."

The defendants answered in the negative when the judge asked if they had anything to say. Then he pronounced the ten year maximum sentence, as prescribed by the law, leaving the minimum at the discretion of the prison board. The defendants received the sentence calmly. They looked ahead without visible emotion.

Maj. Gordon Ross, high sheriff, served the mittimus and accompanied the defendants to the territorial building across the street, where they strolled about, scanning the portraits of Hawaiian kings, while a petition for clemency was presented to the governor.

The defendants and their attorneys, Darrow, George S. Leisure, Montgomery Winn, and Lieut. L. H. C. Johnson, signed the petition, which "respectfully prayed his excellency, in the exercise of the power of executive clemency in you vested, and further in view of the recommendation of the jury in said matter, to commute the sentence heretofore pronounced."

Then came the announcement by the governor that the sentence was commuted to one hour. As the hour was already over, nothing more was necessary than for the erstwhile defendants to walk out into the sunshine of a new life.

Leave for Quarters on Warship.

The quartet left immediately for Pearl Harbor and their old quarters aboard the warship Allen. When asked what her plans are, Mrs. Massie replied:

"You know as much as I do about it."

Lieut. Massie, when asked how he felt, smiled slightly.

"I feel just as any one would feel in my position," he said.

The quartet posed for photographers with Attorney Darrow and other defense attorneys. Lieut. Massie stood between his wife and Leisure, with his arm around his wife. Later he shifted his cigaret and put his arm around Leisure. The lieutenant said he hopes to remain in the navy.

"If I had a million dollars," he said, "I would still rather be in the navy."

Lose Civil Rights.

There still remains one point which can be cleared up only by an unconditional pardon. Naval men are of the opinion that Gov. Judd's commutation restores the three naval men to their naval status, but Attorney General Hewitt said that their civil rights were not restored and can be restored only by the governor. He said he had not investigated whether the President could grant a pardon, but said he believed this "would be an extraordinary procedure."

"Conviction of manslaughter carried with it the loss of civil rights, and the only way they can be restored is by a pardon from the governor," the attorney general said.

Commenting on this angle, Attorney Darrow said:

"We are pleased with what has been done so far, but we are not satisfied with this commutation. My clients automatically lost their citizenship when they were convicted, but an unconditional pardon will fix that."

Hawaiians Are Displeased.

This is a strange end to one of the strangest criminal cases in history. How it will be received here after the first flush of excitement dies is uncertain, but indications on the streets this morning are that the Hawaiians do not like the action of their governor and that it will take something like the suggested action in the Ala Moana case to quiet them.

"There is no justice in the world," shouted a large, dark Hawaiian as he read an extra paper on the street car. Others agreed with his violent expression. He said if Kahahawai were his son he would go out and "start something."

Scowls and muttered remarks greeted the defendants as they walked out of the courtroom, free at last and smiling happily for the first time in months.

Princess Denounces Action.

The feeling of one section of Hawaiians was shown vividly in a statement by Princess Kawananakoa, Hawaiian leader socially and politically. She is Republican national committeewoman for Hawaii.

"The atmosphere has been so permeated with 'laxity of conditions and strict law enforcement' for the last few months that the belief that justice could only be served by strict adherence to the law has become part of our daily existence," she said.

"With this commutation the verdict of a jury composed of men of intelligence, sound judgment and good character, with the facts and the law before them, becomes a farce and the truth, as brought out by the prosecution, becomes a travesty. Are we to infer from the governor's act that there are two sets of laws in Hawaii, one for the favored few and another for the people in general?"

Dillingham Backs Judd.

Walter F. Dillingham, millionaire financial and commercial leader, who is interested in naval contracts, said

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 4.—[Special.]—Whether Lieut. Thomas H. Massie, who was freed today after serving an hour's sentence in the Kahahawai slaying case in Honolulu, will remain in the navy apparently is up to President Hoover.

In cases where naval officers are convicted in civil courts and sentenced to imprisonment the naval regulations authorize the President to drop such officers.

Hope was expressed by naval officers here tonight that the President would not remove Massie from the naval rolls.

It was indicated that no action would be taken in any event until a final report on the case had been made by the navy department.

Pardon Bill Introduced.

A bill to extend the pardon power of the President so that he might extend clemency to Massie and the three other defendants in the case was introduced in the senate today by Senator M. M. Logan [Dem., Ky.] before word was received that Gov. Judd had commuted the 10 year sentence of the four to one hour's imprisonment. Later Senator Logan stated that he still hoped his bill would be passed to remove any legal doubt that the President's power to pardon and parole extends to United States territories.

Representative Emanuel Celler [Dem., N. Y.] announced that he would oppose the house's passage of the bill recently adopted by the senate to prevent the successive disagreement of two or more juries in a Hawaiian criminal case from acting as an acquittal. Such action, said the congressman, substantially altered the legal rights of the four Hawaiians accused of raping Mrs. Massie as these rights existed at the time of the alleged commission of the crime.

Among members of congress to comment on Gov. Judd's action were:

Senator Kenneth McKellar [Dem., Tenn.]—"That is a concession that Lieut. Massie, Mrs. Fortescue, and the two seamen were illegally indicted, improperly tried, and never should have been convicted. A full and complete pardon is the only way to recompense the defendants if they can in any way be recompensed for all they have gone through."

Senator Hiram Bingham [Rep., Conn.], chairman of the committee on territories and insular affairs—"I think they should have a full pardon. I am not clear what commutation under the Hawaiian law means."

Senator David A. Reed [Rep., Pa.]—"I think Gov. Judd has made a very serious mistake which will turn up to plague the future administration of justice in Hawaii."

Complete Pardon Favored.

In the house word of the commutation of sentence was received with protests that such action did not sufficiently clear the defendants and with demands for a full and complete pardon.

A bill granting the President power to pardon defendants in the territories of the United States was being drafted by Representative Hatton W. Sumners [Dem., Tex.], chairman of the judiciary committee, and will be referred to that committee tomorrow.

Another resolution, calling for a congressional investigation of civil affairs in Hawaii, was introduced by Representative Guinn Williams [Dem., Tex.], chairman of the committee on territories. It would set up a select committee of five members of congress, to be appointed by the speaker.

Majority Leader Henry T. Rainey [Dem., Ill.], in commenting on the case said: "I think it is a very fair settlement of the case. It removes from the President the necessity of interfering in the affairs of Hawaii."

Gov. Judd's action carried out the jury's recommendation for leniency.

"This action is wholly fitting in view of all the contributing factors," he said.

Less prominent citizens, regardless of race, expressed divergent views, some contending that there should have been a complete pardon and other insisting the defendants should never have been convicted.

Still others suggested ironically that the next move would be to issue medals to Lieut. Massie and his companions and open an office where licenses would be issued for naval officers to kill civilians. The entire question remains controversial here.

Public Policy Dictates Decision.

The main body of Hawaiian opinion, however, will likely be lenient, as there was no feeling of vengeance against the defendants, but only a demand for justice. If the Hawaiian sense of justice is outraged by this act of clemency a large part of the intended effect of the trial will be lost.

Gov. Judd's action is seen as a result of mainland pressure, not of local demand. Darrow was the chief mover in bringing this situation about. He had a conference with Gov. Judd and others yesterday and he has been pulling all wires possible to effect the freedom of his clients. But reports that Secretary Wilbur had telephoned from Washington to Gov. Judd proposing a pardon were denied.

Rumors have existed since the verdict that some sort of deal was in the making. This came from navy circles, who were extremely bitter over the verdict. They were rather hopeless for clemency from territorial officials, but put all possible pressure on political lines here and in Washington to get something done to keep the defendants from prison.

The navy could not stand the idea of this disgrace and by virtue of the action today the career of Lieut. Massie in the navy will not be injured by his conviction. He did not enter a prison door.

Capt. Ward K. Wortman, who has been custodian of the defendants, said that Lieut. Massie and the two sailors will go on duty soon and will be assigned away from here. It is thought that the entire group, including Mrs. Massie, will leave soon, possibly with Darrow next Sunday on the steamship Malolo.

Pressure on Gov. Judd from congress and other sources was revealed today. Hundreds of cablegrams came to him urging pardons for the four defendants. Victor S. K. Houston, Hawaiian representative, who has been one of those who talked only of law and order in connection with this case in the past, astonished local friends by a cable to Gov. Judd urging a pardon.

"Since justice seems to have been served in recent findings, may I, as an individual, urge you to exercise your pardon powers at the appropriate time?" his cable said.

Eighty members of congress, including powerful committee members who might have a good deal to do in determining the fate of many Hawaiian bills, wired Gov. Judd as follows:

"We, as members of congress deeply concerned with the welfare of Hawaii, believe that the prompt and unconditional pardon of Lieut. Massie and his associates will serve that welfare and the ends of substantial justice."

Decline to Make Statements.

HONOLULU, May 4.—[U.P.]—When sentence had been passed and the commutation granted Lieut. Massie and the other defendants laughed hysterically, then joyfully. For the first time in months the strain of this drama of the South seas dropped from them like burdensome cloaks. Mrs. Massie, whom the slain Kahahawai had been accused of raping, looked like a girl in her teens.

Mrs. Fortescue almost wept for joy as she penned the following message to her husband in the United States:

"Free to come home, dear.

"GRACE."

She sent a second message to Mrs. Charles Bell, a relative who is with her husband. It read:

"Meet you in California. All love.

"GRACIE."

Mrs. Fortescue sent a third message to her daughter, Marion Fortescue, in Oxford, England. It said:

"Meet you at Wildhome after college. Love. MOTHER."

The effervescent Jones cabled his mother, Mrs. E. M. Jones, New Bedford, Mass., thus:

"Dear Mome: Will be home soon. Keep the coffee hot. ALBERT."

REVIEW OF CASE.

Lieut. Massie, at the trial in which he and his three co-defendants were accused of slaying the alleged attacker of Mrs. Massie, told how scurrilous stories were circulated about Mrs. Massie and the attack. He said only a confession from one of the accused would end the rumors and that he and Mrs. Fortescue conceived the plan of kidnaping Kahahawai. Support of Jones and Lord then was enlisted.

Kahahawai was abducted from in front of the federal building and taken to Mrs. Fortescue's cottage. There he was shot to death. His body, wrapped in strips of tarpaulin, was placed in a rented car and was being taken toward Koko Head geyser when police overtook them on the road.

During the trial the defense admitted that Kahahawai was killed in Mrs. Fortescue's home. Lieut. Massie, himself, testified that he stood over the native with a gun "which might have fired."

He said a confession was obtained from Kahahawai that he had participated in the attack on Mrs. Massie. When the islander confessed, Massie said, "my mind went blank. The next I remembered was being arrested with my mother-in-law and Lord in the automobile with the big one's body."

MAJ. FORTESCUE HEARS THE GOOD NEWS IN CHICAGO

A gray haired man of soldierly bearing approached the desk in the lobby of the Blackstone hotel last night at 7 o'clock and asked if any messages had been left in his name.

"Congratulations, Maj. Fortescue," replied the desk clerk, Joseph Drennan. "Your wife and Lieut. Massie have been freed."

"I can't believe it," the man replied. Then, turning to an elderly woman in black, with snow white hair, who stood nearby, he said, "Did you hear that? The clerk says they're free!"

"No! No! It's too good to be true," she said.

The clerk held out a newspaper with headlines proclaiming the freedom of Lieut. Thomas H. Massie of the United States navy, his mother-in-law, Mrs. Granville Fortescue, and their aids, whose sentences for the Honolulu slaying of Joseph Kahahawai were commuted yesterday by Gov. Judd of Hawaii.

Here on Way to Hawaii.

The man, as the hotel clerk had indicated, was Maj. Granville Fortescue, husband of the woman whose sentence was commuted and father of Mrs. Thalia Massie, victim of the rape that led to Kahahawai's death. The woman with Maj. Fortescue at the hotel desk was Mrs. Charles Bell of Washington, D. C., mother of Mrs. Fortescue.

They had arrived in Chicago from New York at 6:30 o'clock last night, en route to San Francisco, where they planned to sail for Hawaii.

After they recovered from the shock of the unexpected good news Maj. Fortescue and Mrs. Bell took a suite in the hotel, had dinner, and talked by radio telephone to Mrs. Fortescue in Honolulu. They then decided to return to Maj. Fortescue's home in New York, and made reservations on the Pennsylvania railroad's Gotham Limited, which left at 10 p. m.

Before their departure Maj. Fortescue told newspaper men with a smile that the radio phone conversation with his wife "was largely personal." He added that Mrs. Fortescue and Mrs. Massie plan to return to the United States in the near future, and that he will meet them in San Francisco. Before leaving the hotel for the train the major and Mrs. Bell received congratulations from friends via long distance phone.

"I hardly know how to express my delight at Gov. Judd's action," Maj. Fortescue told interviewers. "I am satisfied that the people of the United States and Hawaii feel this case had a humane as well as a legal side, and that the action was fully justified.

Proud of Lieut. Massie.

"Mrs. Fortescue's mother and I are very happy over the final outcome. There are certain details my wife and daughter will have to take care of before they can leave Hawaii.

"I have been exceedingly proud to have Lieut. Massie as a son-in-law. I am sure the navy is proud of him. And I had the assurance of Senator Logan of Kentucky that his state is proud of him, too."

"I think it is perfectly marvelous," said Mrs. Bell of Gov. Judd's action She laughed and talked animatedly while posing for photographers.

"I thought the Hawaii authorities would hold my wife and the others for a short time and then grant them pardon," the major said. "But this is much better. I thought they might be put in prison for three or four months. This solution is very fine."

In answer to an inquiry about his health Maj. Fortescue said: "I feel much better today, I assure you. I haven't quite got my strength back, and the family didn't think I would be able to make the trip, but now I am well again." The major's illness kept him in New York.

EX-DOCTOR AND 5 OTHERS SEIZED IN NARCOTIC RAID

A former physician, three other men, and two women were arrested last night by Des Plaines street police in a raid at 1241 West Adams street in search of narcotic violations. Some drugs were found.

The ex-doctor is Roy J. Juhre, 45 years old. He said that his license was revoked following his sentence to Atlanta for violation of the narcotics law. His wife, Emily, was also arrested. She said that she was an addict and admitted that she gave drugs to her child, Emily, 2 years old, to induce sleep.

GIVE GERMANY A CHANCE! PRINCE PLEADS TO U. S.

(Copyright: 1932: By the Associated Press.)

BERLIN, May 4.—Former Crown Prince Frederick Wilhelm appealed to the American people today to "understand what is at stake in a Germany driven to despair by economic distress and the humiliating limitations on her sovereign rights." This appeal came in the course of an interview, the first granted by the former heir to the crown since his return to his fatherland from exile in 1923. The occasion was his 50th birthday next Friday.

In the first stages of the 40 minute chat, Frederick Wilhelm sat nonchalantly on a sofa, puffing leisurely on a cigaret, but his face hardened and his voice became vibrant as he led the conversation to the subject nearest his heart—the condition of Germany. Pent up feelings from almost nine years of silence seemed to surge within him.

Germany Near End of Rope.

"I cannot close my eyes to our appalling misery, to the constantly growing despair which one encounters on every side, to the evidences of progressive destruction which day after day, with merciless fatefulness, victimizes both small and large economic undertakings, built up and developed through years of painstaking, tenacious labor," he cried.

"We say in Germany, 'Misery teaches one to pray.' Quite true! But when misery exceeds certain bounds, when it becomes so great that further struggle seems senseless, it vitiates the character of men who have been robbed of faith in a moral order of things. Such misery produces despair and despair knows no restraint.

"Hence, I call out to those willing to listen: What has become of our German people who, by their own effort and with unparalleled devotion, held their own for more than four years against a world of enemies, who stood their ground as long as they were opposed by the honest weapons of soldiery and until the moment that subterranean weapons and means against which we Germans were powerless, felled a body that was exhausted, bled white, and starved?

Refutes War Guilt.

"Claims made about Germany's guilt for the outbreak of the war are untrue and have long been disproved.

"What about the thesis with which the United States in 1917 entered the war against Germany—the thesis concerning the necessity of fighting in behalf of the liberty of small nations? What a preposterous, fateful mistake!

"What about the celebrated fourteen points of President Wilson, which Germany accepted and whose fulfillment Germany has a right to expect even today? They were thrown into the discard at Paris.

"And how do the Lansing notes look today — those notes through which the German emperor, my father, was maneuvered into a position between his people and the prospects for a good peace which then seemed as tempting as they were untrue?

Humiliation of Versailles.

"What of the dictates of Versailles, which, erected on the mendacious thesis of Germany's war guilt, forced unheard of humiliation upon us and weighed us down with unbearable burdens?

"Have you proud and free Americans any inkling of what it means to make a proud people submit to special laws and regulations? Is it necessary to point out what it means to take the right of determining its national defense for itself from a people with a history of centuries and with boundaries exposed on all sides?

"I raise these points because they carry us right into the midst of Germany's burning shame and into our horrible misery.

"Perhaps, after reading this, you Americans can understand what it is that is being struggled and fought for so passionately here and why it is that despair is so on the increase.

Asks Relief from Reparations.

"This dictate of Versailles, from which the whole world is suffering, and the spirit from which it emanated, are, in the last analysis, responsible for all the disaster of today. True enough, you Americans did not sign it, but—and you will pardon me for saying this—you have made it possible and you continue to tolerate the impossible conditions created by it.

"I suppose it is no longer necessary to prove that only if an end is put to reparations, and a stop to limitations upon German sovereign rights, can there be restored to our industrious and diligent people its innate creative will and the impetus for placing the life of nations in relation to each other on a peaceful basis. Then, at last, will peace return to Europe.

"Is it really necessary to emphasize that Europe's recovery can be brought about only if in the heart of this continent there is a German people at peace and at work? That only such a Germany will be able, through practical coöperative effort attacking problems upon which depends the restitution of a sane order in this world, also to assist in lifting your American burden?"

VON HINDENBURG BANS GODLESS SOCIETIES OF REDS FROM GERMANY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, May 4.—"To assure the authority of the state" two emergency decrees were issued today by President von Hindenburg empowering the government to dissolve all organizations of a military character and all communist and atheistic societies "which are directed, not only against religion but against the moral basis of the state."

The first decree is a sequel to the one which dissolved Adolf Hitler's National Socialist [Fascist] storm troops and the Fascist demand for a ban on the republican Reichsbanner and the Nationalist Steel Helmet organizations.

The International Organization of Proletarian Free Thinkers is dissolved by the second decree, likewise all of its subsidiary societies.

It was explained that this was necessitated by the activities of these communist bodies in "seeking to undermine Christian culture and morals preparatory to a bolshevist revolution." Under the German constitution religious freedom is expressly placed under the protection of the state.

WILD FLOWERS PROVE TARDY SPRING IS HERE

Forest Preserves, Dunes Season 2 Weeks Late.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

If spring has announced her arrival in the loop only by the blossoming forth of new spring hats she has done so in the woods close to Chicago by no less mistakable signs—the blooming of the wild cherry and plum trees, of dog tooth violets, and wild Sweet William.

Spring's arrival this year is fully two weeks later than usual, according to persons familiar with that paradise of wild flowers, the Indiana dunes country, and with the forest preserves to the west of Chicago.

Woods Clothed in Lavender.

The pink and lavender of the wild Sweet William is lavishly strewn about the woods now, according to Dr Henry C. Cowles of the University of Chicago, who spent last Saturday in the forest preserves.

Although Dr. Cowles reported he found no wild plum or cherry trees in bloom, a fellow wild flower enthusiast, Orpheus M. Schantz of Berwyn, said a cherry tree is in bloom near his home.

The trillium, both the grandiflora, or large white variety, and the smaller red variety which children call "bloody noses," as well as the trillium of pointed petals known as "nodding trillium," for its graceful swaying on its long stem, are beginning to come out, Dr. Cowles and Mr. Schantz found.

Hepatica Flowers Passing.

The hepatica, one of the earliest of spring flowers, is almost gone, although Mrs. Arthur J. Cramp, member of the Wild Flower Preservation society, found some left on the north slopes in the dune country over the week-end. The bird's foot violets are profuse there, she said, while the dog-tooth and the wood violet are more common in the forest preserves. The white dog tooth violet, with its spotted leaves, is called the "trout lily" by some.

In Thatcher woods the marsh marigold is making a brave showing and the June berry, whose blossoms appear before the leaves, was seen. Toothwort and spring cress were seen by Dr. Cowles, and the catkins of the willows are in bloom, he said.

Mrs. Charles B. Cory, president of the Wild Flower Preservation society, said she found blue bells blooming near Thornton. She has seen Jacob's ladder, another flower of sky blue, "ready to burst into bloom," she said.

WOMAN LEAPS TO DEATH OFF JACKSON BOULEVARD BRIDGE

A young woman, identified last night as Miss Jessie Towe, 30 years old, of 7140 Coles avenue, leaped into the river from the Jackson boulevard bridge yesterday afternoon and was drowned.

She was carried by the current to a point three blocks beyond the Polk street bridge, where she was taken from the water by John Dooley, a bridge tender. As Miss Towe floated down the river the alarm was spread from one bridge tender to another. By the time she reached his bridge Dooley was on the river in a rowboat. Efforts to revive her failed.

Nothing in her purse furnished a clew to her identity and her body was taken to the Central Undertaking rooms, 425 Plymouth court. Last night two women and two men identified the body as that of Miss Towe. They declined to give their own names. At 7140 Coles avenue it was said that Miss Towe had lived there a year and that she was a stenographer.

FEINBERG RULING UPHELD IN BAIN CONTEMPT CASE

The Appellate court yesterday upheld Circuit Court Judge Michael Feinberg in his refusal to sign a bill of exceptions presented on behalf of Robert A. Bain, son of the head of the defunct bank chain, after Bain had been sentenced on Nov. 18 last to ten days in jail for contempt of court.

Young Bain was kept overnight in the county jail before Judge Feinberg issued a formal mittimus consigning him there for evasive answers to questions regarding operation of the bank chain.

"We are constrained to hold that a bill of exceptions has no proper place in a record brought to review a sentence imposed in a direct contempt matter," the Appellate court held. Bain was freed on a writ of supersedeas issued by the high court on his appeal from the sentence, after he had spent three days in jail.

ASK 10% PAY CUT FOR STREET CAR AND 'L' WORKERS

Approximately 15,500 street car and elevated lines employes will be asked to take a 10 per cent pay reduction at the expiration of the present contracts on May 31, it was indicated yesterday by company officials. The company is conducting informal conferences with union officers preliminary to the formal wage conferences. No dates have been set for these conferences yet, but it was said that they may be opened next week.

Employes of the steam roads and of the North Shore, South Shore, and the Aurora and Elgin electric lines accepted 10 per cent reductions in January.

POLICE CAPTURE MOVIE BANDIT IN THRILLING CHASE

An exciting chase by two policemen, both of whom used their revolvers, ended last night with the capture of a movie theater bandit. He identified himself as Walter Stelling, 28 years old, of 6149 Kenwood avenue.

Stelling held up Mrs. Marie Kelly, 25 years old, of 7719 Union avenue, cashier of the Grove theater, 7630 Cottage Grove avenue, and forced her to hand over $23. The theater has been held up several times and the owners installed a foot alarm in the box office. Miss Kelly stepped on the alarm.

Policeman John J. Murray dashed out of the theater and after Stelling, firing as he ran. At 77th street and Langley avenue James Dorrigan, desk sergeant at the Wabash avenue station, who had just left his home at 7522 Langley avenue for a stroll, joined the chase. He also fired. Stelling gave up.

AID DENIES THIS IS PADEREWSKI'S FAREWELL TOUR

Ignace Jan Paderewski will return to the United States for another concert tour next year, it was announced last night by the pianist's secretary, Sylvin Strakacz, as the famous pianist's private car passed through Chicago en route to New York.

Reports that Paderewski's current four month tour would be his "swan song" were denied by Mr. Strakacz. "Contracts have been signed for concerts here next year," he said.

Meanwhile Paderewski was seen pacing up and down inside his car, inaccessible, as always, to interviewers. "Mr. Paderewski is preparing his speech for a banquet in New York on May 18," said Mr. Strakacz. "He is going to speak on 'Poland and Peace.'" The pianist is a former premier of Poland.

SENATORS OPEN BATTLE ON COST OF U. S. BUREAUS

Condemn Hamstringing of Economy Bill.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 4.—[Special]—A vehement demand for governmental economy went up from members on the senate floor today as last night's final wrecking of the 200 million dollar economy bill by the house brought the economy fight to a last ditch stand in the senate.

SENATOR J. H. BANKHEAD.

Speeches by Senators M. M. Logan [Dem., Ky.] and John H. Bankhead [Dem., Ala.] put the costly and unnecessary federal employé on the spot. He must be cut from the pay roll, they declared. It was time to think of the taxpayer, not of the bureaucrat.

The issue arose with the taking up of a resolution by Senator Hiram Bingham [Rep., Conn.] to instruct the appropriations committee now cutting the treasury and postoffice supply bill 10 per cent in accordance with an earlier resolution, not to cut the appropriations for the postal and customs services to a point where their efficiency would be lowered.

Would Trim "Un-federal" Bureaus.

"There are too many bureaus doing too many things that the government has no business doing," Senator Bingham declared. "I am in favor of cutting such bureaus."

But he thought it a mistake to cut the postal and customs services.

Senator Tasker L. Oddie [Rep., Nev.], chairman of the postoffice committee, bore him out, asserting that a 10 per cent cut would mean the discharge of thousands of employés from these services.

There was debate over the postal subsidies for ocean and air mail.

Then Senator Logan took the floor.

"There seems to have grown up an opinion, and some of the senators appear to hold that opinion," said Senator Logan, "that the heads of the departments are the equals or even superiors of the United States senate.

"I disagree with that conclusion. They are the servants of the senate. When they so far forget themselves as to become ward politicians and attempt to control the votes of senators through some form of threats I resent it."

Assails Bureau Propaganda.

It had got to the point, said the senator, where facts and propaganda had become almost inextricably mixed.

Senator William H. King [Dem., Utah] interrupted to furnish a case in point. Representatives of the Indian bureau, he recalled, had demanded an increased appropriation to cover a 25 per cent increase in salaries and an increase of a thousand employés in that one bureau during the last year and a half.

"Of the entire appropriation ostensibly for the Indians," said Senator King, "fifty-two and eigth-tenths per cent went into the pockets of employés of the Indian bureau.

"For the year 1916-'17 the entire appropriations of the government were $1 036,000,000. For this fiscal year ending June 30 the salaries for federal employés will amount to $1,367,000,000. In other words, it costs more to pay the salaries of the federal employés for this year than it cost to run the entire government in 1916-'17 by nearly a quarter of a billion dollars."

It has become largely a government by departmental experts who resent being questioned by legislative laymen, Senator Logan resumed.

Taxes Eating Nation's Wealth.

Last year the total cost of local, state and national government in the United States, the senator explained, was $15,090,000,000. Of that sum the cost of local government was $8,292,000,000. The cost of state government was $2,364,000,000. The cost of the federal government was $4,434,000,000.

"If we take the entire assets of the nation," he said, "and convert them into cash at their full value and invest that cash in bonds at four per cent, the total income will not be the cost of government in the United States."

"I have seen men on this floor almost shed tears in contemplation of the probable separation of a federal employé from his job," Senator Logan went on. "I am thinking of the people who support these federal employés. They are men who go to work early in the morning and who labor throughout the long day. There is no quitting at 4:30 in the afternoon for them, there is no beginning work after 8:30 or 9 o'clock in the morning for them, but they work from sunup until sundown.

"As a result of their labor they find they are unable to feed and clothe their families and educate their children. They find that the interest on their mortgages cannot be paid, that they are unable to pay their debts. In addition to that, on the shoulder of every one of them as he goes back and forth about his work, there is a little invisible federal employé resting who reaches into his pocket and plucks out from its grimy inside every dime that he puts in there."

Employés Influence House.

Could he have his way, said Senator Bankhead, he would not be content with a 10 per cent cut in appropriations, but would slash the running expenses of the government 50 per cent. To reduce the total cost of the government next year to 2½ millions, he said, would bring a "sigh of relief from the people of this country."

The Alabama senator described how federal employés had brought pressure on the house during its consideration of the economy bill, which was passed last night with more than three-quarters of its economy knocked out.

"It was easy in war times, with the treasury bulging," he explained, "to add new bureaus and commissions. Today, as a result, congress is almost helpless in the hands of this group of federal employés. It is time for congress to realize the issue that exists between organized federal employés on the one hand and the unorganised American taxpayers on the other.

"The very argument made, that to cut the treasury and postoffice bill 10 per cent would mean the elimination of employés, is an argument in favor of the cut."

House Failure to Cut Budget Alarms Nation; Tax Eating Bills Linked to Sag in Business

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 4.—[Special.]—Overshadowing all other topics of discussion in the capital today are the multiplying signs of public alarm at the record of irresponsibility and incapacity of the house of representatives culminating in the fiasco of the omnibus economy bill last night.

The renewed sagging of the stock market in the last few days, the fall in quotations of government bonds, revived withdrawals of gold from this country, and the depreciation of the dollar abroad are being directly linked to the developments in the house, beginning last Monday.

Rush Through Doubtful Bills.

On that day the house passed two measures regarded as disquieting by the more conservative element of the house. One was the Goldsborough bill directing the federal reserve board to restore the higher commodity prices of 1921-'29 by manipulation of credit and the volume of currency tantamount to inflation. This measure of vast import was passed with less than two hours' debate and received the votes of an overwhelming majority of the members, few of whom understood its provisions.

The other bill provided for the pensioning of the widows and orphans of world war veterans at an estimated cost initially of 100 to 150 millions in the next five years and eventually of 100 millions a year for two generations or more.

New Classes of Beneficiaries.

The bill, which was passed overwhelmingly with less than an hour's consideration, creates three new classes of beneficiaries:

First—Widows of men who wore a uniform for ninety days, providing the widow married the veteran five years before his death and providing that in addition to her earnings she has a net income of less than $250 a year.

Second—The children of veterans until the age of 16 or until they marry, provided the child does not have an actual net income of $400 a year.

Third—Any child of a veteran for the whole of his life if that child is permanently incapable of self-support by reason of mental or physical defect.

Reject 160 Millions in Economy.

On top of these measures for inflation and increased government expenditures came the rejection by the house of 160 millions of the 200 millions of economies provided for in the omnibus economy bill under circumstances indicating that the federal bureaucracy is firmly in the saddle in the legislative forum and is turning a deaf ear to the appeals of the taxpayers for relief from the staggering burden of the cost of government.

These events stand out prominently against a background of other incidents in the career of this congress which have given rise to much disquietude. The house started out with the policy, to which it is still adhering, of cutting appropriations only 5 per cent.

Fail to Make Real Cut.

The senate started out to eliminate even this 5 per cent saving but eventually was constrained by a revolt against its leadership to decree a 10 per cent reduction below the house figures. But at no time has either house considered a wholesale scaling down of the 1 billion dollars of waste in the 4 billion dollar federal budget.

The house ran amuck on the billion dollar tax bill, knocking out the sales tax which had been framed jointly by the Democratic and Republican leaders and substituting a "soak the rich" program, which the senate finance committee in its deliberations so far has made even more drastic.

In the midst of much declamation on the necessity of economy the house passed a bill proposing to hand out to the states an additional 132 millions for construction of highways and the progenitors of the measure are only waiting for a favorable opportunity to push it through the senate.

Furthermore, the house rejected the Beck-Linthicum resolution for return of liquor control to the states and all proposals for legalizing 2.75 per cent beer and placing thereon a tax which it was estimated would yield the government not less than 500 millions of revenue a year. Enactment of such measures, according to a widespread opinion in and out of congress would do more than any other one thing to end the depression.

Now there is in the offing the bill for cash redemption of the veterans' bonus at a cost of 2 billions 400 millions which it is proposed to finance by an undisguised inflation of the currency. Encouraged by the overwhelming rejection by the house of the 48 millions of economies in veterans' benefits which constituted a major provision of the economy bill the leaders of the veterans have been inspired with new confidence of their ability to get the bonus bill through congress.

Both Parties to Blame.

For the making of this record Republicans have been no less responsible than Democrats, but inasmuch as the Democrats are in the majority in the house, have named the speaker and have organized the committees they are the chief recipients of such brickbats and bouquets as the public aims at that body. There is no end of comment to the effect that the Democrats have made a mess of their control of the house.

There are scores of Democrats in congress who are plunged into the depths of gloom by the record their party has made on legislation up to date. They are consumed with misgivings that their party performance has already cost them the confidence of the country to an extent that jeopardizes their chances of winning the presidential election even in a time of economic depression such as invariably have spelled the doom of the party in power.

TARIFFS ON OIL, COPPER, LUMBER, COAL ARE VOTED

Senators Wrangle Over Revenue Bill.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 4.—[Special.]—Log rolling was taken up seriously in the senate finance committee today and hours of heated wrangling, with senators jumping hither and yon giving a push here in return for a push there, found not only the coal and oil tariffs back in the new revenue bill but tariffs on lumber and copper as well.

As an illustration of the difficulty with which some of the line ups were negotiated it took five ballots before the oil tariff was restored by a vote of 10 to 9. The rates were fixed as follows:

Crude petroleum and fuel oil, ½ cent a gallon; gasoline, 2½ cents a gallon; lubricating oil, 2 cents in addition to the 2 cents a gallon tax the bill places on domestic lubricating oil; paraffin and other petroleum wax products, 1 cent a pound; asphalt, 10 cents per hundred weight.

Vote on Oil Tax.

Those who voted in favor of the import tax on oil were: Republicans—Watson, Reed, Shortridge, Bingham, Thomas [Idaho], Jones, Metcalf, and Smoot. Democrats—Connally and Gore.

Against: Republicans — Cousens, Keyes, and La Follette. Democrats—Harrison, King, George, Walsh [Mass.], Costigan, and Hull.

Tariffs of $3 per thousand board feet on lumber were adopted, 11 to 8; of $2 per short ton on coal and coke, by a vote of 11 to 8, with exemptions which will act to exempt Canada; and of 4 cents per pound on copper, by a vote of 12 to 8.

Make Many Changes.

In addition to putting the tariffs back into the revenue bill, the committee restored the 1½ per cent penalty on the consolidated returns of affiliated corporations which it had previously struck out; it removed the previously voted $5 exemption in the 2 cent tax on bank checks; it removed the 2 year time limit which the house set on the new excise taxes; it approved a 4 cent tax on bond transfers; it struck out the proposed 10 per cent tax on jewelry; it lowered the tax on pipe lines from 8 per cent to 3 per cent of transportation charges; it lowered the taxes on grape concentrates from 44 cents to 20 cents per gallon, on grape juice from 11 cents to 7 cents per gallon and on fountain syrups from 9 cents to 7 cents per gallon.

The committee also voted to include in the revenue bill a 5 per cent tax on the amount paid for leased wires, 5 per cent on telegraph tolls, and 10 cents for each cable or radiogram.

Calls Bill Monstrosity.

Members were in a ruffled mood when the committee finally broke up. Senator David A. Reed [Rep., Pa.] termed the bill as it now stood a "monstrosity." He said it fell many millions short of the sum necessary to balance the budget, and he declared he would carry on the fight to restore the sales tax.

LINDBERGH REMAINS ON YACHT USED IN SEARCH OF HIS BABY

Norfolk, Va., May 4.—[Special.]—The yacht Marcon returned to her berth at the submarine base at the naval operating base late tonight. Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and John Hughes Curtis apparently remained on board, but Edwin B. Bruce of Elmira, N. Y., and Lieut. George L. Richard came ashore and Lieut. Richard called on Dean H. Dobson-Peacock at the latter's home and conferred with him for about an hour.

None of the men would furnish newspaper reporters with any definite information, but it was admitted the yacht would sail again soon, probably this morning.

Dean Dobson-Peacock tonight had said it "would not surprise him if the yacht Marcon returned to port any time with the Lindbergh baby on board."

GIRL ATHLETE MISSING; NOTE LEFT IN HOME

Chicago police were asked yesterday to look for Teallie Wilson, 18 years old, athletic star at New Trier High school, who disappeared Tuesday night from her home at 116 Central avenue, Wilmette, after leaving a cryptic note pinned to the pillow her bed.

"We must be parting," the note stated. "We don't know where we are going, but don't worry. We will be all right."

Her mother, Mrs. Edna J. Wilson, a divorcée, said that she did not know whom her daughter included in the reference to "we." The girl had no steady "boy friend," the mother said.

Mrs. Wilson told police that her daughter had suffered occasional dizzy spells since she injured her head in a fall several years ago. Her daughter, who was a member of the girls' basketball, swimming and baseball teams at the high school, was wearing riding breeches, an athletic sweater bearing the school monogram, and a felt hat when she left home, Mrs. Wilson said.

Policeman Who Killed Friend Held for Murder

South Park Policeman Frank Gorman, 31 years old, was held to the grand jury on a charge of murder yesterday at an inquest into the death of James Mahoney, 31 years old, 853 East Marquette road, on March 11. Mahoney, a friend of the policeman, was shot by Gorman when he attempted to act as peacemaker in a quarrel between Gorman and Ernest Deckard, colored owner of a barbecue at 5544 Indiana avenue. Gorman had been drinking.

Woman, Despondent Over Mate's Death, Hangs Self

Mrs. Georgia Ostrand, 61 years old, hanged herself yesterday in the attic of her home at 6452 South Maplewood avenue. She was despondent over the death of her husband several months ago, police were told.

BUILD UP NAVY, WAR MAY COME, HALE'S WARNING

Parity Fleet for U. S., Is Urged by Senator.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 4.—[Special.]—The declaration that "it is folly not to recognize that war may be forced upon the United States at any time," was made on the floor of the senate today by Chairman Frederick Hale [Rep., Me.] of the senate naval affairs committee in launching the fight for immediate enactment of legislation building the American fleet up to parity with Great Britain and the treaty ratios with Japan.

Calling attention to what he termed "the melancholy spectacle now going on in the east" where Japan and China are at each other's throats, the Maine senator asserted this indicated clearly that the Kellogg pact, the world court, and the league of nations have so fallen in prestige that they cannot be depended upon to maintain peace. He asserted that this country's only recourse if it desires to avoid ignominious defeat if forced into war is to reverse its policy of the last ten years and build a fleet strong enough to insure national security.

Sees Loss of Prestige.

The naval committee chairman charged that the United States had given up a chance to obtain real security from attack by signing the Washington naval conference pact. Since that time he said the prestige and strength of the American navy has steadily depreciated until today we are rapidly becoming not "one of the two great and equal naval powers of the world, but a poor and trailing third rate power."

The Hale bill, for which the Maine senator fought today, authorizes all warships needed to bring the United States fleet up to the tonnage limits permitted by the London and Washington treaties. It also authorizes the modernization of the five newest American battleships. The bill will provide for building from 100 to 200 warships, depending upon the date when parity with Great Britain is attained. If the fleet is built to London treaty levels by 1936 the cost, Mr. Hale said, will be approximately 800 millions, if the building is spread over ten years the cost will be approximately 1 billion, while if the building is spread over twenty years the total cost including replacement of all ships in the navy will be about 2 billion dollars.

Urges Passage of Bill.

The naval committee chairman urged his colleagues to pass the warship authorization bill and in that way serve notice on the other powers that this country intends to keep up a proportionate degree of preparedness with the rest of the world. He asserted that this country should make it plain that if other nations insist upon keeping up the full warship tonnage allowances granted them by treaty the United States will do the same.

Such a policy, Mr. Hale said, will strengthen the hands of the American delegation at the Geneva arms conference because it will make it plain to the powers we really intend to maintain the treaty ratios which we have talked about and insisted upon.

By failing to keep up the American fleet and by engaging in the "experiment of attempting to bring about world peace by limiting armaments," the senator added, "this country has cut down the form of national defense which we particularly need, lessened our military importance, lowered our prestige and influence in world affairs, and at the same time enormously added to the importance of powers which maintain land armaments. He termed the American attempt to effect limitation by example "a melancholy failure."

Must Depend on Ships.

In support of his contention that peace treaties have proved a failure and that the United States must depend in the future on steel ships rather than paper pacts for national security, Senator Hale referred derisively to the attempts made by the United States, Great Britain, and other powers to prevent hostilities between Japan and China. He called attention to the peace efforts and the tense situation which marked the attempts of the powers to stop the conflict at Shanghai as evidence that it is folly to believe that this country may not be dragged into war.

"If a country actually gets into war every armed ship and every trained man that it can command will be of advantage to that country in bringing the war to a successful conclusion, and it can only be because of confidence that it will not be called upon to use its armed forces that any self-respecting country having the resources to keep up an armed defense neglects so to do," said Mr. Hale.

"The melancholy spectacle now going on in the east, where two great countries, both members of the league of nations, both signatories to the Kellogg peace pact and both members of the world court have been against the protests and warnings of the civilized world, at each other's throats, indicates very clearly that in spite of the lessons of the world war the age of warfare has not passed and the millenium has not arrived.

"The treaties in which we have placed such implicit confidence have utterly failed of immediate effect and with their prestige damaged may not be relied upon with any degree of safety as guaranties against future war.

"Under existing conditions it is folly not to recognize that little as our people want to go to war a war may very well at any time be forced upon us and with the tremendous interests we have at stake there can be no excuse for not being prepared to protect those interests."

QUIZ GIRL ABOUT MAN'S STORY OF TRIPLE SLAYING

Memphis, Tenn., May 4.—[U. P.]—Miss Mary Sunshine Walker, pretty 26 year old divorcée, was arrested today for questioning in the ax slaying of Mrs. Stanley Puryear and her 8 year old daughter, Aurelia Zenia.

Police said they had located her "out of town" and officers had been sent to return her here.

Puryear was held in county jail on a charge of slaying Will Jamison, 27, Negro, shot after Puryear's wife and daughter were beaten to death with an ax Monday. Puryear said he caught the Negro wielding the ax.

Police said Miss Walker was "known to have been friendly" with Puryear, portly, partly bald automobile salesman. She left the loan office where she was employed yesterday.

The Negro, before he died, denied he killed Mrs. Puryear and her daughter. He said a man, whose description fitted Puryear, hired him to come to the house and when he arrived shot him.

VISITING MAYOR AND GOVERNOR URGE ECONOMY

Two distinguished visitors in Chicago yesterday emphasized the acute need of governmental economy. They were Gov. George H. Dern of Utah, who is said to have the unified support of western states for the Democratic nomination for vice president, and Mayor William B. Harrison of Louisville, Ky., the city whose municipal government costs less per capita than that of any of the 24 other largest cities of the nation.

Gov. Dern said he favors Gov. Roosevelt of New York, candidate for the Democratic nomination for President; that he strongly favors economy in government and reduction in taxes; that he is classed as a dry, but is anxious to see a referendum vote, "in order to determine the will of the people, which should be followed."

Mayor Harrison spoke at a luncheon of the Association of Commerce in the La Salle hotel on "Municipal Management Takes the Rap." He declared that a true budget must be restricted to actual cash collections and must be revised from time to time on the basis of collections.

DU PONT STOCK COUNTERFEITING PLOT IS FOILED

Suspects, Printing Press Are Seized.

New York, May 4.—[Special.]—A plan to print and sell $2,000,000 worth of counterfeit certificates for common stock in E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co. was frustrated today, according to announcement by Police Commissioner Edward P. Mulrooney, with the arrest of four men and the seizure of the printing plant in a loft on West 43d street.

The four prisoners were described as Jack Cohen, 30 years old, and Abe Richman, 23; John Fitzgerald, 40, an engraver; Tony Pittala, 34, an inker. Police questioned the men for hours, but in vain. They would make no statements.

Other Fake Stock Issued.

About six or seven months ago, the commissioner recalled, another gang printed and distributed a great quantity of counterfeit certificates for General Motors stock all over the country. In New York alone approximately a half million dollar's worth was passed. But the plot to print and distribute the Du Pont stock, he said, was nipped before a single counterfeit got out.

"The raid was made just in time," said Capt. Michael McDermott of the raiding squad. "They had 550 unfinished certificates off the press when we broke in. By night they would have knocked off about 2,000, each supposed to have a face value of about $3,000."

On Trail for Weeks.

A tip that the plot was under way reached Capt. McDermott several weeks ago. The source of the tip was not divulged, but ten men of the raiding squad were put to work on it with instructions to center their activities around some of the hotels on the west side of midtown. They learned within the last few days that the gang had hired a loft at the West Forty-third street address.

Detectives shadowed the four suspects night and day, occasionally to other cities, according to their story and obtained information that led them to believe the plotters were planning to flood the east with the certificates by offering them to banks as collateral for loans.

Suspects Submit Quietly.

This afternoon the stage was set for the raid. Capt. McDermott's men surrounded the three story loft building, guarding all entrances and exits and a number of them started up the stairs to the printing loft. When they broke down the door they were prepared for resistance, but there was none. The four men submitted quietly.

In the loft were found 550 unfinished certificates calling for 100 shares of common stock in E. I. Du Pont de Nemours & Co., and worth, according to Commissioner Mulrooney's estimate about $3,000 at present market value. Two hand presses, a quantity of vari colored inks, five plates for printing the face and reverse side of the certificates and a stock of paper were seized.

Summon Dr. King as Arbiter in Dispute Over Milk Price

BY PAUL POTTER.

Chicago milk dealers and officers of the Pure Milk association, bargaining agency for 18,000 dairy farmers supplying the metropolitan area, announced last night that they had summoned Dr. Clyde L. King of Philadelphia to arbitrate the proposed cut in the price of milk paid to farmers. Dr. King is head of the Wharton School of Finance of the University of Pennsylvania.

Twice before Dr. King has arbitrated price disputes between the dealers and farmers, once at the end of the 1929 milk strike, and again in January, 1931. The dealers and the dairymen have a standing contract to call Dr. King as arbitrator when they are unable to agree on prices.

Ask Farmers to Take Less.

Members of the dairy association are now paid $2.01 per hundred pounds for all milk retailed to consumers in Chicago and 47 nearby cities in Illinois and Indiana. The dealers asked a reduction to $1.76 last Monday to enable them to cut the retail prices one cent a quart. Milk is now retailing at 13 cents a quart and 8 cents a pint.

The decision to arbitrate came during a conference between representatives of the dealers and the dairymen yesterday at the Hotel La Salle. Dr. F. D. Walmsley, president of the Borden's Farm Products company, and Don M. Geyer, manager of the Pure Milk association, stated that the two groups differed so widely in their positions that this means of settlement had been taken.

Refuse to Take Cut.

The dairymen, in a recent series of meetings in 26 counties of Illinois, Indiana and Wisconsin, have voted to reject any reduction in price of raw milk. The farmers have taken three cuts, a total of 25 per cent, since 1929, which with a small reduction in the dealers' margin between costs and sales, resulted in two drops of 1 cent a quart each in retail prices.

Wagon drivers last week voted approval of a pay cut of 14 per cent and the inside dairy workers' union meets tomorrow to vote on a similar wage reduction. These reductions resulted from negotiations opened April 3 between the dealers and union labor, at which time the dealers stated that any savings in cost of labor would be passed along to consumers in reduced retail prices.

WARDEN WON'T FREE FALL UNTIL FINE IS SETTLED

Santa Fé, N. M., May 4.—(AP)—Warden Ed Swope of the New Mexico state penitentiary said today he would not release Albert B. Fall on May 8 unless Fall paid a $100,000 fine or swore to a pauper's oath, or without specific instructions from the department of justice in Washington.

Swope's statement said while the warden had authority to release Fall at the expiration of his term, May 8, he would not free the prisoner unless one of the three conditions was met.

Department of justice officials in Washington said Fall's one year sentence would be completed May 8, considering time off for good behavior.

Fall was sentenced to prison for a year and fined $100,000 after his conviction of taking a bribe in connection with leasing naval oil reserves. Edward L. Doheny, accused of giving the bribe, was acquitted.

When you count your money in advance

Don't forget the dentist. Particularly if you have not been protecting your teeth against pyorrhea

So much for rent, for food, for clothes, for recreation. Perhaps you had better count out something for the dentist, too. Your teeth are in perfect condition, you say. That's fine, if you're sure. Perhaps you had better see your dentist twice a year anyway. Then you will be sure.

Do you know that half the adult teeth lost are due to pyorrhea? Do you know that pyorrhea may be undermining your teeth for five or ten years, even longer, and you may not realize it? Do you know that four out of five people past the age of forty are finally forced to realize the presence of pyorrhea—when it starts to take their teeth? All facts, nevertheless.

Why not face this pyorrhea business frankly? There is no use in putting off the dentist until you think you need him. Visit him twice a year and make a point of it. That is prevention and sensible prevention, too. There is no use in making believe that white, shining, "clean" teeth are either safe or sound. Nobody believes that any more. The gums must be considered as well. Forhan's Toothpaste is the double-duty toothpaste that does both halves of the job. Originated by Dr. R. J. Forhan, for 26 years a pyorrhea specialist. Save pain, expense and humiliation. Start the whole family today with the big brown tube of Forhan's. All druggists.

SCHOOL BOARD'S BACK RENT MAY BLOCK ECONOMY

Suit Is Filed to Enjoin Moving of Offices.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The school board, with its $90,180,000 budget, appears so debt ridden that it may be unable to move its administrative offices in order to save an estimated $68,061 a year in rent.

The board owes more than $100,000 to the Steuben building, 188 West Randolph street, where its business offices now are. It hasn't paid its rent in ten months. So the attorneys for the co-receivers of the structure, the Foreman State Trust company and Louis J. Krensky, petitioned for an injunction yesterday to prevent the board from moving until it paid its back rent. The petition was filed with Judge Stanley Klarkowski who set it over until tomorrow.

Has Two Other Offices.

Besides its offices in the Steuben building, the school board has offices in the Kelly building at 460 South State street and in the Foreman Bank building. If the receivers for the Steuben building succeed in their injunction plea, the owners of the other two buildings are also expected to block the board's moving from them until the rent is paid.

For the offices in the three buildings the board has been paying $244,851 a year in rent. It has leased quarters in the Builders building, 228 North La Salle street, for $176,790 a year for all offices. With current liabilities of more than $127,000,000, the board signed the new lease promising to "pay $14,732.50 a month in gold of the present standard weight and fineness," and also to pay in advance each month. If the board is prevented from moving, it will be obliged to pay $421,641 rent a year to four buildings instead of saving $68,061, as claimed by concentrating its offices in one building.

Fail to Talk Economy.

The promised discussion of economy at committee meetings of the school trustees yesterday afternoon proved a dud. The subject was not mentioned. It was later explained that under the rules it was improper to introduce a new matter at a committee session. It must first be presented at a board session, which President Lewis E. Myers said he will do next Wednesday.

Representatives of teachers' organizations were on hand yesterday to protest against any salary reduction. Practically every proposed purchase was deferred.

Mrs. Guy H. Luster, representing parents in the area south of Jackson park, protested against the proposed erection of two junior high schools in that area costing $1,500,000 each.

"The public has not asked for them and I do not believe it wants them," said Mrs. Luster. "What we do need is a regular high school—not a junior affair."

VEHICLE FUND EXPENDITURES CUT $854,442

Mayor Cermak yesterday produced figures showing that the expenditures out of the vehicle tax fund during the first four months of this year were $854,442 less than for the corresponding period of 1931. The expenditures for the two periods, respectively, were $506,528 and $1,360,970.

The comparative expenditures by months were:

Month.	1931.	1932.
January	$ 236,939	$ 49,657
February	225,862	79,600
March	451,826	199,886
April	446,823	186,745
Totals	$1,360,970	$506,528

The expenditures for the first three months of 1931 and most of the expenditures for April of that year, can be charged to the previous administration, the mayor said. He expressed curiosity as to what streets the former administration had repaired during the winter months.

ADOPTS EVANSTON BABY

MIRIAM HOPKINS.

Miriam Hopkins, blond motion picture actress, yesterday adopted a baby boy from the Evanston Cradle society in a brief hearing before County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki. She expressed irritation over the interest of reporters.

"I hate all this publicity about a simple thing," she said. Her divorce from her playwright husband, Austin Parker, was revealed at the hearing when she testified that she was unmarried. She said she would care for the baby as her own and had set aside a trust fund for him.

Mrs. William B. Walrath, superintendent of the Cradle society, said Miss Hopkins had not yet taken the baby from the home. She does not expect the actress to call at the home for several days, Mrs. Walrath said.

Dispatches from Hollywood last night said that Manuel Ruis, Miss Hopkins' attorney, admitted he had obtained the actress' divorce at Juarez, Mexico. The charge was incompatibility.

rected his remarks to the employé packed gallery. He talked in an earnest voice and frequently whacked his desk for emphasis.

"I listened to the applause from the galleries," he said, "and I wondered if any one there is paying as much rent as he did before the depression. The owners of property are not receiving as much rent, so they can pay less taxes. With reduced taxes there is nothing for the council to do but retrench.

"You city employés are better off than your brothers, sisters, and other relatives who are out of work. I am for you and I hope conditions will improve.

"I am interested in the employés, but also in the taxpayers. It means ruin if we don't live within our revenue."

Most of the employés will be docked for Sundays and Saturday afternoons when they do not work, which in a year will total the 78 days. In the case of the police, who have only 52 days off during the year, members of the department will be asked to sign waivers of claims for pay for the days that they work but are not paid.

The waivers will protect the city against suits such as the recent one which invalidated a large part of the economy program instituted by the county board.

COUNCIL URGES SAVINGS CLUBS TO AID TAXPAYER

Banks Are Asked to Help Establish Them.

Establishment by Chicago banks of savings clubs to assist taxpayers in accumulating money to meet their tax bills was urged yesterday in a resolution by Ald. John Toman [23d], which was adopted by the city council.

The resolution directed the city controller to establish the clubs with the cooperation of national and state banks in the city. The clubs would be operated on the lines of Christmas savings clubs, the taxpayer making weekly deposits over the period of a year, and receiving his money and 3 per cent interest when taxes become due.

Will Advertise Plan.

The resolution instructs the controller, after arrangements for the savings clubs have been made, to prepare a communication describing the plan, which would be inserted in all water, special assessment and tax bills sent out by the city and county.

Ald. Barnet Hodes [7th], a leader in the campaign to depress the tracks of the Illinois Central's South Chicago suburban division from 71st street and Stony Island avenue to 92d street and Baltimore avenue, was the author of another resolution passed by the council. It instructed the corporation counsel to inquire whether the federal Reconstruction Finance corporation will lend the railroad the money for the improvement.

Another resolution passed was submitted by Ald. John F. Healy [6th], directing the local transportation committee to consider elimination of one man street cars on the 71st street line from Cottage Grove avenue to State street.

Calls Special Election.

The council approved a call for a special election June 21, in the 22d ward, to fill the seat of Ald. Joseph Cepak, who died recently. A bill empowering Mayor Cermak to fill the seat by appointment failed to pass in the legislature.

Mayor Cermak presented to the Harrison Technical High school band the Cermak cup, emblematic of the school band championship of the city, before the council meeting. The Harrison band has won the city championship for the last three years. Ald. Toman, whose daughter, Lucille, is a member of the band, introduced a resolution commending its members and instructors.

1930 Tax Collections Drop to a New Low Mark

The collection of 1930 taxes dropped yesterday to $576,164, of which $492,200 was on real estate, County Treasurer McDonough announced. The amount was the least received on any day since the collections started. The city controller yesterday was given $5,000,000 by the county treasurer. $2,401,582 of it in tax warrants. The cash amounting to $2,598,418 can be used only to retire tax warrants held by the public.

CICERO FACING TIEUP; HOLDOVER TRUSTEES BALK

3 Republicans Won't Attend Meeting.

A deadlock in the municipal affairs of Cicero is threatened by the three holdover Republican trustees. Last Monday the three failed to appear at a meeting of the town board, summoned for the purpose of naming Mrs. Rose Cuchna to the post of town collector to succeed her husband, Frank Cuchna, who was killed in an automobile accident on April 25.

MRS. ROSE CUCHNA

The board of trustees is composed of six members. Three Democrats were elected in the landslide which carried Joseph G. Cerny in as president to end the dominance of the Republican machine, which had controlled the suburb for 15 years. Under the town charter the president can vote only in case of a tie.

Fail to Get Quorum.

The Democrats had expected to appoint Mrs. Cuchna with Cerny's vote over the dissenting votes of the Republican trustees, Fred Loyda, Frank Kveton, and J. Sedlacek. But when none of the Republican members appeared the board was forced to adjourn without action because four trustees are necessary for a quorum.

President Cerny yesterday summoned a special meeting for tomorrow night for the purpose of electing Mrs. Cuchna. Notices of the meeting were sent to the Republican members by registered mail.

The action of the absentee members was interpreted in the suburb as the first indication of the Republicans' strategy in combating the rule of the Democrats which rests in the power of the president to break a tie.

Graham Goes into Action.

State Senator Richey V. Graham, son-in-law of Mayor Cermak and acknowledged Democratic leader of the suburb, said he believes the Republicans can be mandamused to appear at the meetings. He took a plane from Springfield for Chicago when he was appraised of the deadlock. He will confer with President Cerny today.

Republicans in the suburb hold that the fight can be won even though the three members are forced to appear at the meetings if the members pass their votes. It is contended that three passed votes could not be considered as "no" votes so that the president could not exercise his voting power.

Wife Granted a Divorce from Harry J. Powers Jr.

Mrs. Dorothy S. Powers, 5510 Sheridan road, obtained a divorce yesterday in Superior Judge Joseph Sabath's court from Harry J. Powers Jr., son of the owner of the Illinois theater. She charged desertion. Mrs. Powers asked no alimony, stating that she is the beneficiary of a trust fund established by her own relatives which yields her $20,000 a year. She was given custody of three children, Doris Ann, 13; Harry III., 12, and Cecille, 7 years old.

FATHER OF EIGHT SEEKING JOB IS KILLED BY AUTO

Victim Overseas Veteran; Car Speeds Away.

A world war veteran, father of eight children, was struck and killed almost instantly last night by a hit and run motorist as he was trudging home after a day spent in a fruitless search for work.

The victim was James P. Etchingham, 37 years old, 4231 Fillmore street. Two men were riding in the small green sedan which struck him at Lake street and Kostner avenue, and sped away. He died on the way to the Garfield Park hospital.

Papers Show War Service.

He was identified by his army discharge papers, which showed that he had served in France with company H of the 132d infantry. His pockets contained no money, and apparently he was walking to his home, more than a mile from the scene of the accident. His widow told police that he had been out of work for months and left home early yesterday morning in the hope of finding a job.

One of Etchingham's brothers, Charles, is a traffic policeman; another, Arthur, is a city fireman; and a third, Thomas, retired from the police department several years ago and now lives in Salt Lake City.

This death and one other increased the 1932 Cook county toll to 372. The victim:

John P. McDonald, 4 years old, 6856 Dorchester avenue, ran out of his backyard and was struck by an automobile driven by Charles Morgan, 6922 Dorchester avenue. He died a few hours later at the Jackson Park hospital. Morgan was not held.

$100,000 LIQUOR CARGO CAPTURED BY COAST GUARD

New York, May 5.—[Special.]—United States coast guards made two seizures off the New Jersey coast today. One was the rum runner Whichone, a speedy craft that has come under the federal eye before, and the second was a small and swift cruiser marked K25235, which contained Charles [Vannie] Higgins, a well known "lobster fisherman."

The Whichone, said by officials to be the mother ship of a rum running fleet, was brought in and anchored off Red Hook flats, where treasury agents questioned the crew as to the presence of 1,600 cases of liquor found on board, valued at more than $100,000. The vessel was held for libel action and the crew of ten men were taken to the federal building for arraignment.

Higgins, whom federal officials charge with being a beer runner, was finally released with two companions after hours of vain questioning.

Higgins told the treasury agents all about his "lobster business," which, due to the bad times, must be pursued assiduously these days.

Housekeeper Wins Delay on $226,000 Theft Charge

Mrs. Sophia Paul, 56 years old, 4227 North Hermitage avenue, obtained a continuance until May 18 yesterday when she was arraigned before Judge Howard Hayes on a charge of stealing $266,000 in securities from her former employer, Harry C. Wirsing, 76 years old, 1521 Juneway terrace. Wirsing charged that Mrs. Paul, his former housekeeper, took the securities from a deposit vault. Attorney W. W. O'Brien said Mrs. Paul was entitled to the securities under the terms of a marriage agreement which was not carried out. The attorney said, however, that when his client went to the vault where the securities were supposed to be they were missing.

U. S. GRAND JURY VISITS $250,000 RAIDED STILL

The federal grand jury, escorted by Deputy Prohibition Administrator Al Aman, made an inspection yesterday of the old Citizens' brewery at 2760 Archer avenue, where raiding prohibition agents last Saturday found a $250,000 distillery, reported to be the largest illegal alcohol plant on record.

An agent accompanying the inspection party intimated that the distillery, first believed to be owned by the Capone syndicate, may have been financed by legitimate Canadian liquor interests. Frank J. Parker, known in Chicago as the millionaire airplane bootlegger, who began his career as an automobile thief and rose to be head of Dominion Distilleries, Ltd., of Montreal, is known to have once held title to the property.

Much Capital Needed.

"It took large capital and mechanical skill of a high order to convert the old brewing machinery into the model distillery you now see," the agent remarked. "It took ingenuity to construct the labyrinth of tunnels, air shafts and ventilators, which permitted 150 workers to enter the place unseen every night and work unhampered in the musty, remote cellars of the brewery.

"We are informed that Capone handled the local distribution of the plant," he continued, "but we believe the financing and operating work was directed from Canada. It looks like the work of Frank Parker."

Parker Back in Chicago.

Chicago police partly corroborated suspicions of the agents. Parker, they said, quit Montreal last January after becoming embroiled with the dominion government in connection with the bankruptcy of Dominion Distilleries, and has since been in Chicago. The conjecture among the police was that Parker had returned with hopes of replacing the imprisoned Al Capone as dictator of the midwestern liquor traffic.

Prohibition agents raided the brewery once before, on July 19, 1926, when the plant was turning out wort.

ed. They drove away through the business section of the city and out South boulevard to the industrial and residential section southeast of town. This drive goes directly into the right end of the circular drive in front of the prison, which terminates with huge square arches at each end.

The prison is an imposing structure with a sheer white stone façade sixty feet high and 600 feet long. The stone walls, thirty feet high, stretch away at each end and extend back beyond the prison grounds, where the twine and shoe and mail pouch factories are located. Capone may be given a job in one of these plants.

Marshal Laubenheimer left without getting a "receipt" for his prisoner, the return papers on his mittimus, but this will be done tomorrow. He did not wish to cause any delay in the checking in of Capone. The mittimus he gave to Warden Aderhold explained that Capone's term in the penitentiary is ten years, and that when this is served he must be returned to the Cook county jail for another year, on his sentence for conanother year, his sentence on a misdemeanor count in his conviction.

Cheerful During Trip.

Capone kept up his jaunty, grinning spirits all the way into Atlanta. He got the best laugh of the trip in Estes, Ga., watching a portly woman of about 40 years. Standing with a crowd alongside the train, she saw Deputy Thompson, a man about Capone's size, but with blue eyes and light hair. She ran forward gesticulating and shouting, "Hello, Al! I'm from Miami, I'm from Miami." Capone saw all this from his drawing room window back of the section occupied by the deputy.

Vito Morici, Capone's companion on the journey and upper berth fellow, with whom he was handcuffed and leg-ironed during such sleep as they got, bade him good-by just before they left the train. He was taken to the city jail by a local deputy marshal for the night, and today he will go on to Florida for trial on a Dyer act charge. Capone wished him luck as they parted.

Marshal Laubenheimer and the guards who came with him made it plain that they were weary and very much relieved when the gates had clicked shut on Capone. Although the journey was made without a rumor of an attempted delivery or any disturbance whatever, they kept up their vigil to the end, catching catnaps between watches.

Gets Sample of Heat.

A temperature of 92 in the Capone drawing room as the train passed through Tennessee tree clad hills today was a forerunner of the heat the gang chief may expect during the summer. He mopped his brow as he gazed over the gleaming trees and remarked about the heat.

"I can stand that, though," he said, "but I'll miss my beer."

The mental burden of facing eleven years imprisonment seemed to bear heavier upon Capone as the penitentiary drew nearer, and he began to talk about being "the goat" of political aspirations. To the guards sitting with him he said it was "funny justice," that puts a man in prison eleven years for not paying his income taxes.

Expects to Be Campaign Issue.

"I'll be made an issue in the next presidential campaign," he said.

"'We sent Capone to the penitentiary,' they'll be saying. It wouldn't seem so bad if they didn't use the income tax law for political purposes. There's a lot of big men in Chicago who beat the government out of most of the taxes they ought to pay and they get away with it. I tried to settle with the government and they used it against me. I don't think that's playing fair, but they've got me and I'll have to take the medicine."

The talk turned to conditions in Chicago and Capone was off on a favorite theme—his altruism. His booze business was a good thing for Chicago he said for he took hundreds of men away from their pursuit of violent crimes and put them to work driving trucks, tending stills and breweries. To let Capone tell it, none of his men ever indulged in violent crimes, such as bombings and holdups, and killing, of course, was undreamed of.

The gangster said Robert Isham Randolph, organizer of the Secret Six, came to him in Florida and appealed for aid in the efforts to stop industrial and commercial bombings. He told of a proposition he said he made to Mr. Randolph and he couldn't understand why it was not accepted. All Capone wanted was a free hand in the booze business and he would cooperate with the Secret Six in stopping bombings. He'd run down the bombers and put them to work in his booze organization.

"I laid my cards on the table and asked him to lay his," said Capone. "Well? What do you think I got?" he shrugged his shoulders and turned to the window with a gesture of futility.

Capone also informed the guards that the profits of his booze business had been greatly overrated by the government experts. His best times, he said, were under the previous city administration and his best months were 5,000 cases of whisky. With overhead, payoffs, loss of goods through raids, and putting up bonds for his men, the net profit could never exceed $10 a case, he said. He didn't go into the beer side of his business, which the government experts who brought about his indictment for conspiracy say brought in ten million dollars a year.

Sees Return of Beer.

With reporters Capone limited himself to small talk most of the time, but he ventured the prophecy that legal beer will return in four years.

"We'll have to get a new congress first," he said.

"The Literary Digest poll is encouraging," observed the gangster. "Their polls are always representative and the three to one wet vote, with only two dry states, shows the sentiment is going against prohibition."

In response to questioning, Capone said he had no idea what sort of work they will put him at in the penitentiary and that he had no profession.

"I'll take what they give me for two reasons," he said. "One is, the only way you can expect to get a pardon is to go along and be a good prisoner. The other is, I won't have any say about it."

But an indication of what he hopes to do was given in an observation to the guards. He had been talking with Vito Morici, his fellow prisoner whose father owns a spaghetti factory in Chicago, and he mentioned that he is an excellent cook of Italian dishes.

"I hope the warden likes spaghetti," he said.

One Display of Temper.

Capone was in a genial enough mood for a man facing eleven years' imprisonment, laughing at times at the crowds assembled at the stops and talking volubly with the guards. Only once since the train left Chicago at 11:30 p. m. Tuesday did his temper give way to snarling rage. This was shortly this side of Danville, Ill., when he called for Marshal Laubenheimer and complained about the leg irons with which he was manacled to Morici in an upper berth. He asked that the leg irons at least be taken off, if the handcuffs had to stay on. The marshal said he was sorry, but could take no chances and he turned out the lights as he left the room and closed the door.

"Thanks," snarled Capone.

All down the line the crowds gathered at the stations. In the larger towns they reached several hundred. They pressed alongside the Pullman cars and peered into windows. Capone answered their waves with big smiles and a gestured handshake. In some of the small towns little Negro boys stood well back from the train and pointed at the car in which they thought Capone to be, seemingly afraid. But at Evansville, Murfreesboro, Nashville, and the other larger places, the curious were more intrepid and were restrained from getting on the train only by the special railway police on hand at all stops.

GANGS SEEN BROKEN

With Al Capone in prison, spectacular leadership in the Chicago underworld has come to an end, United States District Attorney George E. Q. Johnson said yesterday.

"Chicago will no longer know gangs in the form we have known them for the last ten years," he said. "I do not look for any more spectacular leadership, for gangsters and their leaders will know that such leadership will make them shining targets for prosecution.

"However, we will continue to have gangs in one form or another until the city, county, and government forces unite to make an attack on all violations of prohibition, gambling, and vice."

The Capone investigation, it was stated, cost the government approximately $100,000, with the actual cost of the trial being added to the $50,000 fine imposed upon Capone. But the campaign which sent him and others to prison has brought more than $1,000,000 in collection of delinquent taxes in the Chicago area alone, Mr. Johnson said.

Assistant United States District Attorney Jacob I. Grossman, one of the prosecutors of Capone, said Capone may be freed in 6½ years with full time off for good behavior. The law provides 10 days may be counted off each month for good behavior.

The presence of Robert C. Clark, a secret service agent, on the Capone train stirred comment in the federal building. The duties of secret service men are to trace counterfeiters and guard the President. It was understood Clark's presence was asked by United States Marshal Henry C. W. Laubenheimer.

"Clark's trip with Capone has no official significance," said Capt. Thomas J. Callaghan, head of the unit here. "Records show he is on a 3 days leave of absence."

McGurn Is Denied New Hearing; Gets 20 Day Stay

A 20 day stay was obtained yesterday by "Machine Gun Jack" McGurn and his wife, the former Louise Rolfe, under sentence for violation of the Mann act. The stay was granted by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, which earlier in the day overruled a petition for a rehearing. McGurn is under sentence of two years and his wife four months.

Advantageous Buying

Men who fully appreciate quality merchandise expect to pay in accordance with its cost of production which is necessarily higher than that for medium grades. Those, however, who assume that our prices are "high" either do not discriminate between qualities or have an erroneous impression due to thinking only in terms of "how much".

With the advantage of our Paris and London Shops we are in daily contact with the pulse of the world's greatest sources of the finest materials from which we produce our exclusive merchandise. We are too capable as merchants to overpay in our buying, or to overcharge in selling. Piles Go Quick
Without Salves or Cutting
Thousands of sufferers from itching piles have learned that quick and permanent relief can only be accomplished with an internal medicine. Neither salves nor cutting remove the cause.
Bad circulation of the blood in the lower bowel causes piles. The veins are flabby, the bowel walls weak—the parts almost dead. To end Piles an internal medicine must be used to stimulate the circulation, heal and restore the affected parts.
Dr. J. S. Leonhardt was the first to discover a real internal Pile remedy. He called his prescription HEM-ROID, and prescribed it for 1000 patients with the marvelous record of success in 960 cases, and then decided every Pile sufferer should be able to get HEM-ROID tablets with a rigid money back guarantee.
Dr. Leonhardt's HEM-ROID has an almost unbelievable record of success right in this city. So why waste time on external treatments or worry about an operation when Walgreen's invite every Pile sufferer to try HEM-ROID with guarantee of money-back if it does not end their Piles, no matter how stubborn the case?

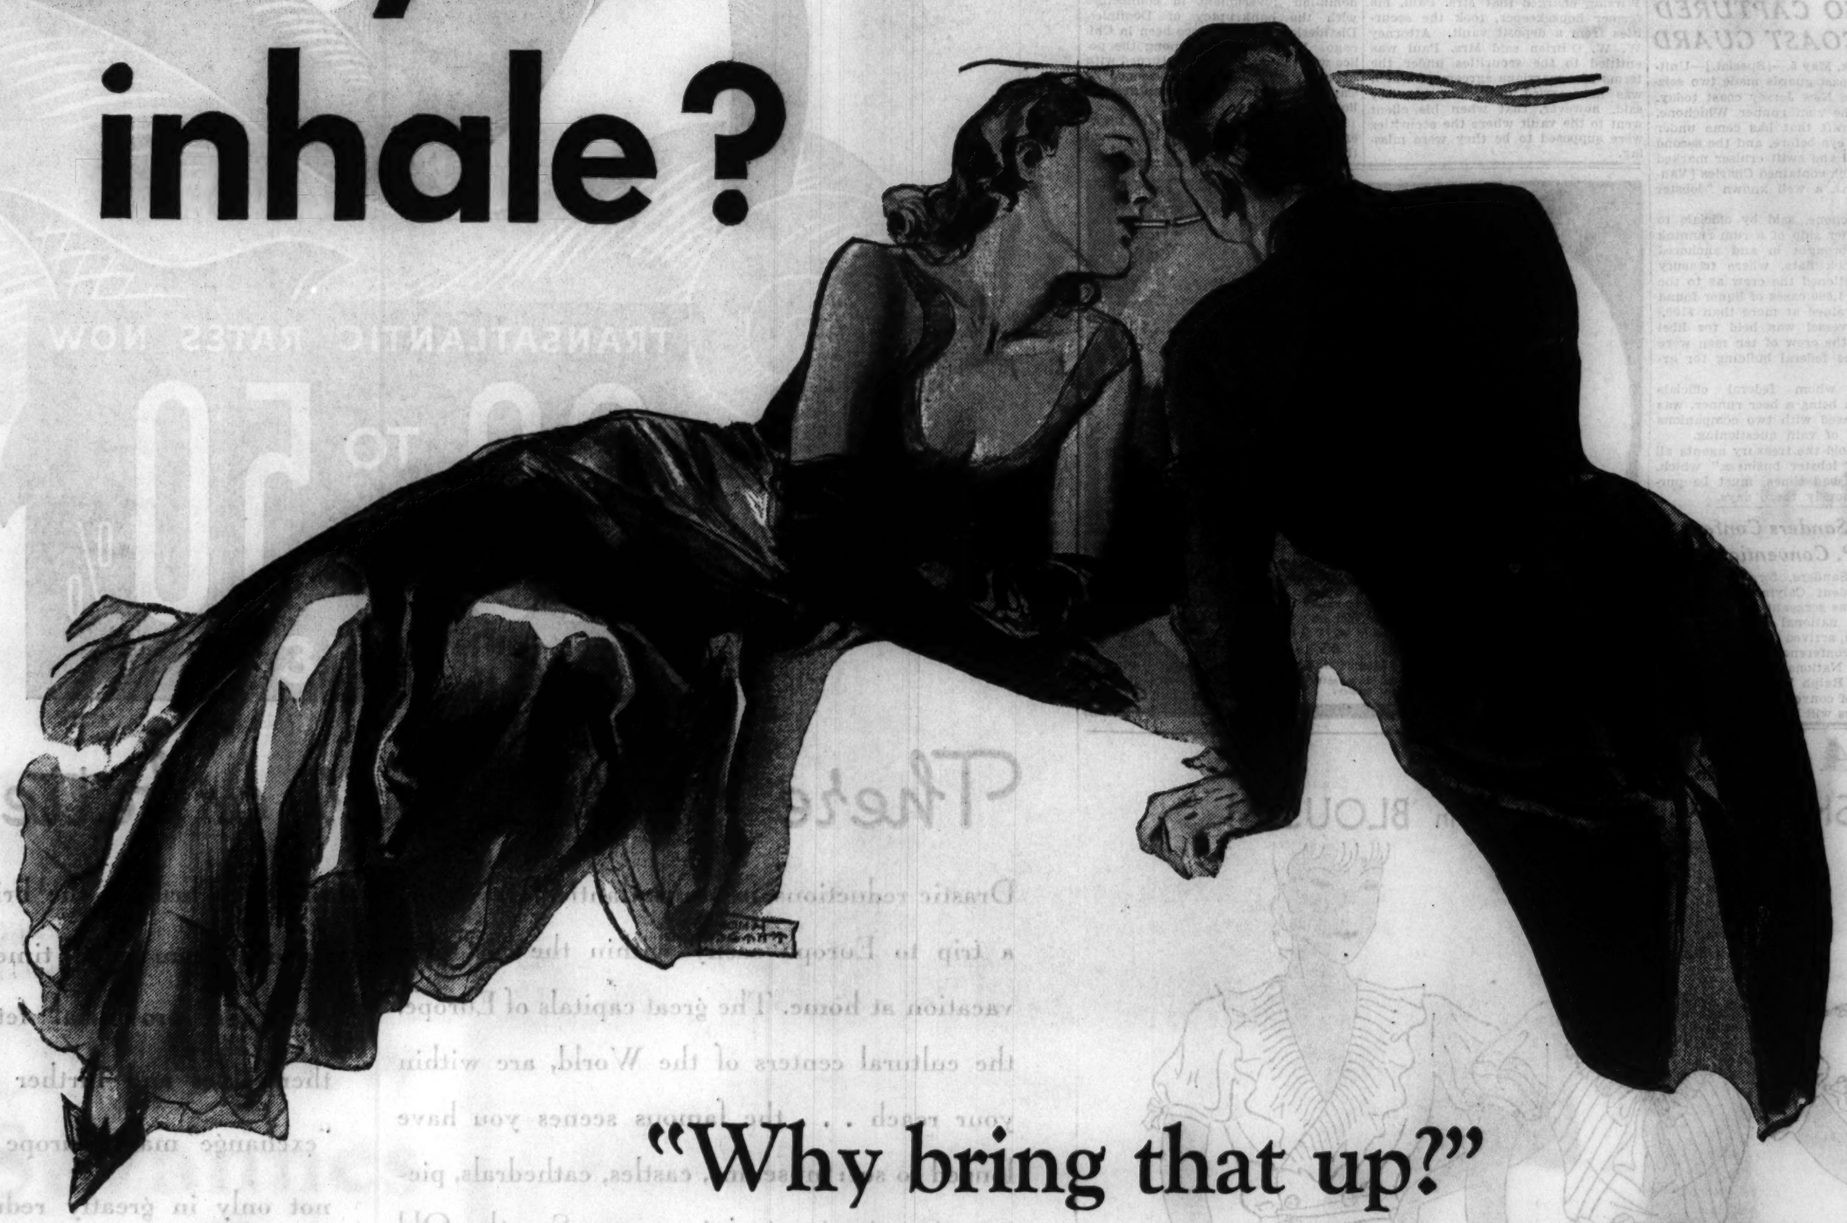
Do you inhale?



"Why bring that up?" —the cigarette trade asks!

FOR years there has been generally a striking avoidance of the word "inhale" in cigarette advertising. Why? Goodness only knows! For everybody inhales—knowingly or unknowingly! Every smoker breathes in some part of the smoke he or she draws out of a cigarette.

That's why it's all-important to be certain that your cigarette smoke is pure and clean—to be sure that you don't inhale certain impurities.

Lucky Strike has dared to raise this vital question—for it has solved the problem! It gives you the protection you want . . . because certain impurities concealed in even the finest, mildest tobacco leaves are removed by Luckies' famous purifying process. Luckies created that process. Only Luckies have it!

"Fifty million smokers can't be wrong!" So whether you inhale knowingly or unknowingly—safeguard your delicate membranes!

GARNER WINS CALIFORNIA'S 44 VOTES BY 45,000

Smith Trails Roosevelt by 31,000 Margin.

San Francisco, Cal., May 4.—(AP)—California Democrats elevated Speaker John N. Garner from the ranks of favorite sons in yesterday's presidential primary by giving him a smashing victory over Franklin D. Roosevelt and Alfred E. Smith in the contest for the state's 44 votes in the national convention.

With all save 524 of the state's 10,271 precincts reported, and the missing ones largely isolated mountain sections, the Texan had a lead of 44,797 over Roosevelt and 75,032 over Smith. Smith trailed Roosevelt by 31,135.

The totals from the 9,747 precincts were:

Garner	211,913
Roosevelt	167,116
Smith	135,981

President Hoover, running unopposed, piled up a vote of 622,113 in 9,522 precincts, exceeding by approximately 55,000 the vote cast for him in the primaries of 1928 when he also was unopposed.

Roosevelt Winning in Alabama.

Montgomery, Ala., May 4.—(AP)—Although returns were incomplete, Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt tonight appeared to have won Alabama's 24 votes for the Democratic national convention in yesterday's primary.

Returns from 1,134 of the state's 2,126 ballot boxes gave him better than a 2 to 1 lead over an uninstructed ticket for delegates at large. While district returns lagged far behind, in practicaly every instance Roosevelt pledged candidates poled a similar majority.

Third Roosevelt Setback.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 4.—[Special.]—Hopes of the promoters of the "stop Roosevelt" movement in the Democratic party flamed high today with news of the reverse suffered by the New York governor's presidential candidacy in the California primary yesterday. Roosevelt ran second to Speaker Jack Garner of Texas, and Al Smith third.

This is the third setback encountered within a week by Gov. Roosevelt in his canvass for the Democratic nomination for President. He expected to obtain 60 out of the 76 delegates in Pennsylvania, but apparently can not count on more than 40, the others going to Smith. He also expected 10 of the 36 delegates in Massachusetts, but got none.

First Jolt in West.

The reverse in California is the first the governor has experienced in the west, where he has been running like wildfire, up to date. His opponents are encouraged to believe that the tide has now definitely turned against him.

Dry Democrats hailed the victory of Speaker Garner, although Mr. Garner has withheld all comment on the prohibition issue since he was pitchforked into the scramble for the Democratic presidential nomination. With California's 44 delegates added to those of Texas the speaker will enter the Democratic national convention with a block of 90 delegates pledged to him.

This is a sizable block of delegates, probably more than any other candidate will have, except Roosevelt and Smith.

But with Roosevelt losing California it was clear that favorite son candidates would become encouraged, believing that the chances for a deadlock on the early ballots of the convention would force a compromise, with both Roosevelt and Smith out of the picture. In the end, however, the Roosevelt supporters insisted, their candidate would be the choice of the Chicago convention.

Travels to New York Alone

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

BREMERHAVEN, Germany, May 4.—No ship's arrival here for many years has created such a sensation as the return today of the Leviathan for the first time since the world war to the country whose flags she flew when she was the Vaterland, the Hamburg-American line's crack liner and Germany's pride of the sea.

Just as the Leviathan was steaming up the channel the Europa, Germany's new pride of the sea, bound for America, was standing out to sea, and the two vessels dipped their flags to one another. Members of the Bremen senate, governing body of the old Hanseatic city, had come here to greet the Leviathan.

The Leviathan was launched on April 3, 1913, and as the Vaterland she plied to New York until the world war came, and she was tied up at a Hoboken dock, later to pass into the possession of the United States.

Here Three Months

Bobby Congress, 3½ years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur G. Congress of New York City, left Chicago alone yesterday on the Broadway Limited of the Pennsylvania railroad to return to his parents. He came to Chicago with them three months ago on a visit to Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Kasselberg of 3520 Sheridan road. The parents were called back to New York suddenly, and Bobby remained. Pullman employés and several passengers volunteered to care for the boy on the trip east.

INDIANA VOTERS NOMINATE WETS FOR CONGRESS

Anti-Saloon League Loses Ground Over State.

By an overwhelming vote citizens of Lake county, Indiana, brushed aside two dry candidates seeking nominations for congress in Tuesday's primary, according to late tabulations last night. All the other candidates for congressional nominations in Lake county were wet.

Republican voters of Porter county wrecked the hopes of Judge Grant Crumpacker of Valparaiso for renomination to office by giving Charles W. Jensen, his rival, a winning majority. Judge Crumpacker presided at the trials of Virgil Kirkland in the Arlene Draves slaying.

"Dry" Areas Vote Wet.

These were the high lights of the primary in northern Indiana. Elsewhere a number of avowed wet candidates were being nominated in districts heretofore considered rockribbed dry territory.

The dry candidates for congress who were defeated in Lake county were Miss Ora Riggs of Grimth, Republican, and the Rev. Fred B. Osborne of Gary, Democrat. Both were supported by the Anti-Saloon league, whose members voted solidly for them. Returns indicate that Miss Riggs would finish fourth or fifth in a field of nine candidates, and that the Rev. Mr. Osborne would be at the bottom of a similar field. Neither got more than 1,000 votes.

Oscar Ahlgren of Whiting, world war veteran, apparently won the Republican nomination for congress with 7,452 votes from 151 out of 160 precincts. Oliver Starr of Gary was behind him with 4,514 votes, and Mayor R. O. Johnson of Gary was third with 4,376. In the Democratic column, William Schultz, Hammond labor leader, led with 6,537 votes from 152 out of 160 precincts. Frank R. Martin, also of Hammond, was next with 6,378, and Ora L. Wildermuth was third with 5,061. All are wet. They are candidates in the new First Indiana district.

Wets Gain in State.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 4.—[Special.]—Wets made a distinct gain in the Indiana state primary of Tuesday, returns showed tonight. Incidentally, the Democratic vote was quite heavy in some sections.

Among the new nominees on the Republican ticket is William Henry Harrison of Indianapolis, lawyer and grandson and great-grandson of two former Presidents. He is a wet. The Democratic nominees include James I. Farley of Auburn, described by rivals as a "dripping wet." A liberal, French Clementsen of Evansville, a state senator, was nominated by the Republicans in the Eighth district.

Mayor Porter, Los Angeles, Defeats Recall by 52,000

Los Angeles, Cal., May 4.—(AP)—Mayor John C. Porter has won his fight against recall. The final vote stood for recall, 144,750; against recall, 196,517.

He also won the nomination for the office with a final vote of 180,546 to 77,731 for Charles W. Dempster, his closest rival. Eight other candidates received only a scattering vote.

BRITISH DEPLORE SUBMARINES IN DISARM DEBATE

France and Japan Line Up in Opposition.

BY JAY ALLEN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, May 4.—The naval commission, which with the companion air and land commissions bears the responsibility of keeping up appearances until the statesmen return to get down to the real issues of this disarmament conference, today extended their debating proclivities to submarines.

The French and Japanese, who had just finished labeling air craft carriers and before that capital ships as frightfully aggressive, thus were stepped on. The procedure for commissions is that everybody states his position, the theme being that the weapons you count on are offensive and the weapons I count on are defensive.

The lists were hardly declared open on the possibly aggressive character of submarines when the British jumped to their feet and earnestly urged abolition as a humanitarian measure. Senator Claude A. Swanson, American delegate, always alert, looked his sympathy, but held his fire.

The British did, however, break a precedent of the conference by failing to restate their old position entirely. They offered as a compromise the suggestion that submarines be reduced to 250 tons, which would put them clearly in the catagory of coast defense.

The French, after restating the esteem in which they hold submersibles, answered the British offer by saying that France could only sacrifice her larger submarines and after disarmament if other nations made an equivalent sacrifice in the classes of ships which are dear to them.

Before the French and Japanese were asked to hear of the horrors of submarines the Japanese described the danger of aircraft carriers. They said that if aggression were not the object a fleet of aircraft carriers would not be necessary.

They contested Senator Swanson's claim that abolition of aircraft carriers would disturb the treaty balance and his argument that they are essential to protect a fleet against submarines.

PASCHEN PLEADS $200,000 IN BANK WASN'T INCOME

Defends Failure to Pay U. S. Tax in 1927.

Two hundred thousand dollars of the large trust fund which Chris Paschen maintained in 1927 was not income, but merely represented a transfer of funds and thus was not taxable, defense attorneys contended yesterday in the former building commissioner's trial for tax evasion before Federal Judge John P. Barnes. The defense held that there were no new assets included in the $300,000, which, they said, represented a bank account in existence since 1925.

CASSIUS POUST.

Cassius Poust, Paschen's chief counsel and a former assistant district attorney, made the attack on the $200,000 income figures. He played this as his principal card in a day of uninspiring testimony just after his major opponent, Assistant United States Attorney Dwight H. Green, had introduced a pile of bank records of the trust account in the Foreman State National bank, since absorbed by another bank. The government believes it amounted to at least $300,000, perhaps more.

On cross-examination of the witness who handled the trust for Paschen, Miss Alma Alfoth, an employé of the bank for 17 years, Mr. Poust promptly took the same records and, through Miss Alfoth, showed large transfers of money from the trust account to the Chris Paschen company account and the politician's private savings account in 1927.

The total transfers showed that $146,500 had been placed in the company account and $51,619 in Paschen's private savings account, an aggregate of $198,119.

During a recess Mr. Poust told reporters: "This was a transfer from a trust fund, 'an agency account,' it was called, in existence since 1925, when it was created. This portion of it was transferred to other accounts in 1927, but it did not represent new income." The defense lawyer likened the transaction to the shifting of money from one pocket to another.

Pays No Income Tax in 1927.

Paschen paid no income tax in 1927 and only $818 in 1928. The government alleges that his income in 1927 was taxable to the extent of more than $43,000, and that instead of $818 in 1928 his income tax should have been more than $71,000.

Mr. Green did not seem much perturbed at the defense contention. Asked if he intended to show, through some of the 50 or more witnesses yet to be called, that the transfer actually represented income gained in 1927, he smiled and said that "the question might be one I'd rather not answer now."

Miss Alfoth was on the stand most of the afternoon. Preceding her was a string of employés and former employés of Russell, Brewster & Co., stock brokerage concern at 112 West Adams street, and the Foreman bank.

Stock Deal Pays $40,000.

Much of their testimony bore on the fact that Paschen had an account with the brokerage firm and made purchases from time to time. The principal item shown was the purchase of 600 shares of Union Carbide and Carbon corporation stock in 1921 for which he paid $31,665. It was later sold for about $72,000, the government holds, and on this profit in 1927, no tax was paid.

This stock was in and out of his possession for six years, sometimes with the company and sometimes at the Foreman bank. For a few weeks it was in the possession of Clayton F. Smith, county recorder of deeds, and a relative, by marriage, of the defendant. Paschen told Mr. Poust that he "believed he had loaned the stock to Smith for a few weeks for some transaction."

Bar Evidence of Losses.

The trail of the stocks was traced by Albert Arndt, cashier for Russell, Brewster & Co., in 1926. Harry Lincoln, the firm's head bookkeeper, testified to the purchase. Poust sought, through Miss Alfoth, to go into the matter of any losses that might have affected the trust fund but was denied this, on Green's objection, because it was not proper cross-examination. He promised to recall the woman as a defense witness.

Most of the defense tactics during the afternoon were designed to show that a great many of Paschen's deposit slips in the Foreman bank accounts showed money gained from interest, not income. At the close of court, Mr. Green was reading items deposited in the trust fund at its creation. He will continue this morning.

Loop Merchants Say Ban on Parking Costs Millions

BY HAL FOUST.

Downtown property owners are seeking to rescind the loop parking ban, contending that the present restrictions are causing a loss in their business of $75,000,000 to $80,000,000 a year. D. F. Kelly, president of the Fair, said the merchants will try to lift the parking regulations in time to encourage shopping during the political conventions in Chicago next month.

D. F. KELLY.

"The city council will be asked to hold a public hearing on the proposal," said Mr. Kelly. "I believe that evidence will disclose that the loop is being strangled by these inequitable, uneconomic and unreasonable traffic rules.

Urges Use of Idle Curb Space.

"Take a look out of this window,' he continued, pointing down to State street. 'There's a towel wagon that will stand at this curb for the next hour. Watch that policeman. See, he won't let that sedan stop. There's probably a customer for some store in that automobile.

"The lane of pavement next to the sidewalk is of no use to traffic because of that towel wagon. Why couldn't some customers be using the curb space that is now idle?

"Of course, there are plenty of parking lots near the business district for those who want to shop. But they don't take care of the man or woman who can't afford to pay a 50 cent storage fee for an automobile.

"I think the city council can be convinced that at least a fair trial should be given to regulations permitting thirty minutes parking in the downtown area."

Rich Charges Discrimination.

A. H. Rich, president of A. Bishop & Co., said the parking ban was suppressing downtown business for the benefit of outlying community centers.

"The aldermen who enacted this ordinance," he said, "are interested in the growth of business in their respective wards. The parking ban is keeping shoppers out of the loop. Business downtown could be increased 15 per cent by permitting thirty minute parking.

"Under the present system private cars and taxicabs cruise round and round the block because they are not permitted to stop at the curb for a few minutes. This blocks traffic and interferes with pedestrians more than would parking."

Engineers Uphold Ban.

The present regulations were upheld by Leslie Sorenson, city traffic engineer, and Dr. Miller McClintock, director of the traffic research bureau of Harvard university. Dr. McClintock, in 1926, made a survey of Chicago's traffic for the Association of Commerce and it was on his recommendation that the city passed an ordinance, effective Jan. 10, 1928, prohibiting parking in the loop during business hours. He is now making a second survey here for the city council.

"Street cars, trucks, and passenger cars have been speeded up," said Mr. Sorenson, "and there is less hazard to pedestrians since loop parking was prohibited. The streets look like they don't have as much traffic as they formerly did because there is less confusion from automobiles pulling into and away from the curb and circling the block looking for a parking space.

"Actual counts, however, show that with no parking we are getting more persons into the central business district than before."

McClintock Recalls Past.

"We're forgetting what conditions were really like before parking was banned," said Dr. Clintock. "The available curb space was so small that a motorist was unusually lucky to find a place to store his car for a few minutes. The streets were jammed, traffic was blocked, and no one could make any time through the loop."

Sorenson and McClintock referred to a survey of the department of public works showing that in a typical May day, 203,916 persons entered the central business district by automobile in 1931 as compared with 166,367 persons in 1926 and 196,573 in 1928.

They also referred to a report prepared by themselves and Robert Nau, Association of Commerce traffic engineer, and E. J. McIlraith, Chicago Surface Lines traffic engineer. This purported to show that the parking ban has increased the speed of automobiles 25 per cent; of street cars, from 15 to 40 per cent, and of trucks, approximately 25 per cent.

Before parking was prohibited in the loop it was restricted to thirty minutes in the daytime except between the hours of 7 and 10 a. m. and 4 and 6 p. m.

AUSTRALIA AIMS LAW AT PREMIER OF DEBTOR STATE

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

CANBERRA, Australia, May 4.—Both houses of parliament today rushed through a bill imposing a fine of $5,000 or three years' imprisonment on any state official impeding the commonwealth government in the seizure of state revenues to meet defaults upon the state's foreign debt service.

The measure empowers the federal treasurer to require any person to answer any questions or to produce relevant documents. This, it is believed, will enable the commonwealth to deal personally with Premier J. T. Lang of New South Wales, who has been obstructing the government.

Recoveries from New South Wales to date under the financial agreement enforcement act authorizing the commonwealth to seize state revenues, amount to about $1,625,000, leaving about $10,112,000 outstanding.

STATE TO CLOSE TODAY IN TRIAL OF SERRITELLA

More Witnesses Tell of Short Weight Sales.

CRIMINAL COURT.

William Busch, burglary, sentenced to 1 year in Pontiac reformatory by Judge John Prystalski.

The state today will close its case against Dan Serritella, former city sealer, and Harry Hochstein, former chief deputy city sealer, who are charged with conspiring to defraud Chicago housewives of millions of dollars through allowing merchants to short-weight patrons.

PROSECUTOR KEELE.

At the end of yesterday's session Assistant State's Attorneys Harold Keele and Henry Seyfarth informed Judge James J. Kelly that they had four or five witnesses left and that their testimony would be brief.

Would Introduce Court Records.

The state also desires to put in evidence court records showing that all the violations of the ordinances against short weighting which had been discovered by the state's investigators had been prosecuted. The jury in this case has been shown evidence of hundreds of purchases made during the investigation in which merchants gave short weight, and the state seeks to prove that these merchants were prosecuted and convicted.

Judge Kelly, however, indicated that he would bar the evidence on the ground that action by any other court in cases to which Serritella and Hochstein were not parties could not bind the defendants in this trial.

More Buyers Take Stand.

Four of ten women who were employed by Mr. Keele to make purchases were on the witness stand yesterday. They described their procedure and identified records of their purchases, which showed cheating by various merchants ranging from 2 cents to 50 cents on each article.

The women testified that while there were a fair number of instances in which correct weight was given there were only a few in which the merchant gave overweight. Each of the women was employed 20 days and made 20 or more purchases daily.

Miss Rose Harris, 4707 Malden street, testified that she had encountered less than three cases of overweight in her purchases, and Mrs. Dorothy Fox, 6015 Calumet avenue, found only one purchase overweight.

BRITAIN ORDERS GARRISONS FROM AMERICAN POSTS

Will Move to Cyprus to Watch Turks.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 4.—Acting on the advice of the imperial general staff, the British government has decided on sweeping changes in the organization of its Mediterranean forces. The reorganization will involve not only a shift in the garrisons at Malta and Gibraltar, but also heavy transfers from British posts off American shores.

Officers, men, and heavy batteries at Bermuda and Jamaica will be moved all the way to Cyprus. It is estimated that a $10,000,000 saving will be gained by the movement.

Under Civil Command.

A civilian high commissioner of the Mediterranean, who will be located at Cyprus, is to be appointed. He will be assisted by a brigadier general and an air force marshal. Military governments at Cyprus, Malta, and Gibraltar therefore will be abolished. Military garrisons stationed at Malta and Gibraltar, with the exception of gunners, will be moved to the Cyprus headquarters, where will also be established an air base made up of one-third of the Egyptian complement of men and planes.

The commander in chief of the Mediterranean fleet will be ex-officio governor of Malta, which will be without infantry, with the exception of the recently revived local militia.

The move was prompted, according to informed circles in London, by the Turkish aerial construction program which would make Turkey supreme in the eastern Mediterranean in three years.

PURCHASE PLANES ABROAD.

Dictator Mustapha Kemal Pasha has taken progressive steps in the last seven years in building up Turkey's military and commercial air services. Purchases have been made of German controlled, Italian, American, and French companies. Also arrangements have been made for foreign training of Turkish air students.

An order for 50 planes from Rohrbach's Danish factory in 1925 was followed by an order for 80 fighting planes to Junkers' Swedish plant in 1926. In 1930 a 20 year mail and freight contract was given the German Lufthansa. Italy received an order for 28 Savoia-Marchetti planes in 1930 to be used for policing the coast against smuggling and illegal immigration.

STAMPS
are fascinating

There is something very fascinating about stamps. On them the nations record their political and historical events, mark their prominent rulers and statesmen, voice their aspirations and send news and warnings to other nations.

It is easy to keep up with the stamp news. Every Saturday in The Sun there is a feature called The Stamp Collector, which illustrates and describes the new stamps, points out their national and international significance, reports the stamp exhibits and the doings of the stamp clubs.

If you are interested in stamps, you'll like The Stamp Collector. For $1.50 you may have the Saturday issues of The Sun containing this feature sent to you every week for an entire year . . . and in addition to the stamp news in the Saturday Sun you will have much valuable information through such special pages and features as Gardens, Music, Antiques, Art, Books, the Theater and Boating. You will have also the popular feature, It Happened This Week, which gives in five brief columns a summary of the world's events.

MAYOR ASKS BAR TO START PROBE OF JUDGE GREEN

Cites Case of Court Which Freed Hunt.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Mayor Cermak publicly appealed to the Chicago Bar association yesterday to investigate Municipal Judge Thomas A. Green, who turned loose Sam Hunt on April 28. Hunt had been arrested with a .38 caliber revolver in his pocket while walking in front of 6831 Jeffery avenue by Lieut. William Cusack and his detective squad. Judge Green suppressed the evidence in this case because the police did not have a search warrant.

JUDGE GREEN.

"I asked the policeman," explained Judge Green yesterday, "if he knew Sam Hunt and he replied that he did not.

"I asked the policeman if Hunt had a record and he replied that Hunt did not have a record. The Supreme court has repeatedly held that such a search is illegal and I followed the law in the Hunt case."

Known as Capone Ally.

Hunt is known as a gangster allied with Al Capone. The police claim he admitted that connection when arrested on May 28, 1930. That was in connection with a shooting in front of 5301 North Ashland avenue, where Chief of Detectives Stege counted 18 pocks in the brick and stone façade of an apartment doorway which had been chipped out by two shotgun blasts, heard by the neighbors.

Hunt was arrested at the scene holding a shotgun in a golf bag. It was at that time that the police said that Hunt claimed he was employed by Mike [Bonbon] Allegretti, Ralph Capone's manager at the Cotton club. At that time, police charged, he was also carrying a .38 caliber revolver.

Seized After Shooting.

On Sept. 21 last year Hunt was arrested as he ran from the scene of a shooting affair in Grant park near the Art institute. Five bullets were found imbedded in the upholstery of the auto near the scene of the shooting and there was blood upon the front seat, but the victim was not found.

With Hunt at the time of his arrest was James Fawcett, alias Red Forsythe, another gangster. Neither had a gun, but one was found on the ground near the spot they were captured from which the number had been obliterated. Judge Mathew Hartigan sentenced the pair to 90 days in the House of Correction for defacing the number on a firearm. Hunt and Forsythe appealed to the Appellate court, which reversed the Hartigan decision because the evidence did not show that either gangster had the revolver.

Cermak Takes a Hand.

Mayor Cermak criticized Judge Green for setting free such a character, and the judge replied by suggesting that the "mayor attend to his own business." So the mayor set about to attend to his business, one part of which he conceives to be the arrest of persons violating the law. Then he went a step farther to see what Judge Green had done with the persons the mayor's police had taken before him.

"In January, February, and March of this year Judge Green has disposed of 1,847 cases," said the mayor yesterday. "He is sitting in the jury court, yet there were only 19 jury trials in those three months, of which nine resulted in convictions. Why so few jury trials in a jury court?

"The police have been trying to clean up gambling. Listen to what has happened to the cases taken before Judge Green. He discharged 826 in the three months, fined 40, and sent 10 to the House of Correction.

"The danger to the citizens comes from the guns of gangsters. Nineteen persons were taken before Judge Green for carrying concealed weapons. Eight were discharged, seven were sent to the Bridewell, two were nol prossed, one was discharged for the want of prosecution, and one was placed on probation.

"I do not think that Sam Hunt was in that number. He has been given his freedom since. He was not only given his freedom, but Judge Green suppressed the evidence after part of it had been presented. That, I am told, prevents a successful prosecution of Hunt by the state's attorney, because it can be claimed he has been placed in jeopardy twice for the same offense, if he is now indicted.

"Take the cases of assaults with a deadly weapon which have been heard by Judge Green. Twelve were discharged, one fined, four placed in the Bridewell, four nol prossed, seven discharged for want of prosecution, and two were placed on probation.

No Incentive for Police.

"The bar association could do much to clean up such a situation," continued the mayor. "If crime and criminal intent are to be treated in that fashion, what incentive is there to the police? They should be encouraged; they should have the coöperation of the courts.

"Some lawyers were disbarred for what they did to the sanitary district. The bar association should get after certain lawyers in the Municipal court. If we could get rid of them we could make some real progress."

The mayor indicated that he will further "attend to his business"—as advised by the judge—by having the police report in the future the decisions of Judge Green where they believe that the public does not get the protection against the offender which the evidence justifies. That system applies to all judges sitting in police cases.

Judge Green Replies.

In reply to the mayor Judge Green said: "I would welcome an investigation by the bar association and the crime commission. So long as I am judge I will do my duty and will not stand for indiscriminate and illegal searches.

"When the mayor was president of the United Societies, an association of saloon and soft drink owners, he made his campaign cry, just after prohibition came in: 'No searching of saloons or soft drink parlors without a search warrant.' Now he appears to have changed his mind, and thinks it is all right to enter a gambling house without a search warrant."

APPEALS COURT O. K.'S GUN TOTER'S ARREST WITHOUT WARRANT

The Appellate court yesterday upheld the right of police to arrest a gun toter without a warrant. Its decision was given in confirming the one year sentence and $300 fine imposed by Chief Justice Harry Fisher of the Criminal court on Genero Roberta of Chicago Heights, an alleged slugger, on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon.

Roberta was seized during a raid on a disorderly house in Chicago Heights. One of the women inmates pointed him out to police as a slugger. Police searched him and found a gun. In his appeal Roberta contended that he had been arrested without a warrant and searched illegally. The Appellate court opinion, written by Justice Oscar Hebel, held that his presence in a disorderly house justified his arrest, and that the search for a gun was incidental to the arrest and valid.

Three Negroes were given one year sentences and fines of $300 each yesterday by Judge Alfred O. Erickson in the Fillmore street court on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon. The gun was found in their auto, a stolen car. The trio sentenced were Elmer Reid, 23 years old; Levie Pearson, 26, and Willie Jackson, 22.

DR. STEVENSON TELLS OF LOSSES IN ALIMONY PLEA

The financial tribulations of a Gold Coast physician during the depression were described to Judge Sabath yesterday in the Superior court by Dr. Alexander F. Stevenson, 1510 North Dearborn parkway. He is seeking to have the alimony payments to his ex-wife, Mrs. Karen Neilsen Stevenson of Santa Barbara, Cal., reduced from their present level of $300 a month.

Dr. Stevenson testified that he lost $16,000 in the 1929 stock crash, and that his present stock holdings, after deducting loans made on some of them, are worth only $899. This, he said, is exclusive of property which he has placed in trust to pay premiums on $28,000 worth of life insurance payable to Mrs. Stevenson, who divorced him in 1930.

Fred O. Mason, attorney for Mrs. Stevenson, accepted the offer of Attorney George L. Schein, representing the physician, to inspect Dr. Stevenson's books and verify his assertion that his present income is only $10,000 a year, as compared to $30,000 a few years ago. Judge Sabath continued the case to Saturday for final disposition.

DECLARES RUSSIA PLOTS TO WRECK WORLD FINANCE

Inside details of soviet Russia's financial manipulations were given to members of the Illinois Athletic club in an address yesterday by James H. Watt, Chicago engineer, who returned some months ago from a stay in Russia on contract with the soviet government.

"Russia is putting out duplicate rubles in vast amounts, Mr. Watt declared. He exhibited two one ruble notes given him in part payment of his salary. Both notes bore the same number—6307283—and thousands of government notes are similarly duplicated, the speaker declared. This practice of inflation is still being followed, Mr. Watt said he was informed by an associate who returned recently from Russia.

"Russia's industrial plan is an attempt to establish huge credits with the leading nations of the world," Mr. Watt said. "Likely, Stalin and his associates have in mind to get every one so deeply involved as to preclude the possibility of withdrawal of aid or a declaration of war by any of the leading nations. At the same time, the policy looks to the ultimate destruction of financial and industrial institutions of other nations.

"We should investigate our school teachers, many of whom are inculcating soviet ideals in our children. We should also investigate our lecturers who are contributing a flood of soviet propaganda; our congressmen, many of them unwitting aids to the soviets, and our clergymen of all denominations, who, some wittingly and others unwittingly, are advancing the cause of world revolution.

"America is sound asleep while the cause of the world revolution is being advanced steadily each day."

Prices
Record-breakingly Low!

Never in Goodyear experience—never in all tire history—have the prices of Goodyear Tires been so low as they are today. Don't try to guess them by what you last paid for tires. They're 50% lower than they were five years ago—30% lower than in 1929. And your money today buys the handsomest, toughest, longest-wearing Goodyear All-Weather ever built. Think of that, and ask yourself: Why buy any second-choice tire when first-choice costs no more!

"DON'T LET 'EM KID YOU"

ONE of the two main reasons why more people ride on Goodyear Tires than on any other kind has always been safety.

Other tire-makers know this. They know it so well that in their natural eagerness for sales they are tempted to claim safety too.

But there's a long jump between claiming safety on paper and building it into rubber.

Ridges, grooves, knobs on the side of a tire may be ornamental, but they're about as useful as the buttons on a coat sleeve.

IF YOU want grip instead of slip in the tire you buy, there's just one place to look for it.

Look at the center of the tread, where it contacts the road.

That is where Goodyear puts the big, thick, deep-cut, sure-gripping blocks of the All-Weather Tread.

MARK this difference well—for it can mean to you the choice between coasting helplessly into an accident—or stopping safely when you want brakes and tires to grip tight and hold fast.

This year, Goodyear has made the world's best known safety tread even better, by combining safety and silence in the new Noiseless Non-Skid All-Weather Tread.

Don't let anybody kid you. If you want safety in the tires you buy, get safety you can see.

THE BONUS AND ITS FRIENDS.

Washington is full of propagandists for the bonus. They are of two varieties. There are those who expect to reap a political advantage from the agitation. And there are those who are sincerely desirous of doing something for the many thousands of veterans who are unemployed and destitute.

There is no use wasting words on the professional friends of the veteran. They smell four million votes and they are not going to be persuaded away from that rich scent. The secretary of the treasury can present the most telling figures to show that the payment of the bonus will retard business recovery, but his argument will be of no avail with men whose ambitions will be served if the bonus bill is passed.

Happily, these racketeers, in and out of the Legion and other veteran organizations, are relatively few in number, though they are making most of the noise. The real strength of the movement comes from those who are genuinely concerned to save men who wore the American uniform from destitution. That is a worthy cause, but the plan raises a number of questions.

The first is whether the payment of the bonus will turn the trick. The average value at maturity of the insurance certificates is around $1,000. The veteran who is destitute has borrowed $500 already and can receive only $500 more. The first $500 is gone, without leaving a trace. Unless business picks up and provides employment, the second $500 will go the same way. In a few months the needy veterans will be as bad off as they are today.

As bad off, and worse. The overwhelming majority of experienced business men believe that if the government now goes into the money markets to borrow the billions required to pay the bonus, or if the government turns the printing presses loose manufacturing money with which to pay the veterans, confidence in the stability of the government and its money will be so shaken that today's hardships will seem enviable. The number of the unemployed will be enormously increased and the hope of a business revival will be indefinitely postponed.

What will it profit a needy veteran if the price of his temporary relief is unemployment for years to come? Who would willingly accept permanent misery in exchange for a few weeks of temporary comfort?

The bonus advocates have fallen victims to some of the commonest of human errors. They think that wishing is the same as having. It is not. They think that green apples are better than nothing for a hungry man. They are not. They think that governments can make no mistakes which must be paid for. That is perhaps the most dangerous of errors. Individuals pay for their mistakes as individuals, but when the government makes mistakes we all pay for them with compound interest.

PARTIES UNDER THE LAW.

A majority decision in a divided United States Supreme court opinion holds that the Democratic state executive committee of Texas lacks the power, even if conferred by statute, to prescribe the qualifications for party membership and consequently for participation in the party primaries. The specific point at issue was the barring of Negroes. A state law disqualifying them had been declared invalid in a decision several years ago. Now the party itself is held to be without authority to delegate such power to a committee. Any right the party has to determine its own membership resides in the convention. The minority opinion holds that a political party may limit its membership as it sees fit.

There was not much question of this right before the states undertook the regulation of primary elections for nominations. Political parties were of the nature of clubs. Being managed by gentlemen wanting office, they accepted a willingness to vote for them as the qualification for membership in most cases, dealing occasionally with political heresies but only as they affected club members who wanted office and did not want to be regular. The origin of English parties was in clubs. It was a natural manner of association for men having common cause in advancing ideas or seeking preferment. Clubs had their part in the formation of American parties. The Know Nothings, for instance, got their name from the secrecy they endeavored to maintain regarding their purposes.

The anti-Masons hit on the scheme of proportionate representation by congressional districts in their delegate conventions, but the workings of a party were regarded as entirely the concern of the party itself until reform took hold of the nominations. The direct primary laws prescribed how the nominations must be made and the state assumed the expense of conducting the primary elections. Now the idea prevails that the citizen is vested with certain rights with respect to parties and cannot be deprived of them at the wish of the party management.

Minor associations of citizens for political purposes may pursue their own self-determining courses, but when they acquire legal standing as parties and thus assume definite responsibilities and are granted certain privileges they become recognized instruments of government, regulated by the state, and rights of citizenship prevail against some of their own decisions. Something of the club idea still pertains to the conventions, but government regulation has the party system pretty well in hand as it has about everything else.

SELF-HELP IN RELIEF.

Whether or not it becomes necessary to call a special session of the legislature in August, when the present emergency relief funds, it is estimated, will be exhausted, the interim should be utilized for developing other and better means of providing for the unemployed. There is a limit to the raising of charitable relief, either by private or public agencies, and we are very near that limit, if indeed we have not passed it. There is also a reluctance on the part of the public either to tax itself or to donate for funds distributed as a gratuity without service from recipients.

While the emergency required such payments on a huge scale and while the fund managers no doubt did what they could to prevent abuses, it was and is inevitable that the opportunity should be exploited by the unscrupulous and increasingly while the distribution continues. Where public aid is free it is the conscientious and self-respecting who get least and the shirker most. This is the evil of any dole. The newspapers during the last snowstorm told of the refusal of a roomful of unemployed at a relief shelter to volunteer for snow shoveling. No doubt as compared to the whole number of recipients of relief these men were a small minority, but not so small as the inexperienced well wisher would suppose, and their action was significant of the general tendency of gratuitous aid. What is needed to cope constructively with destitution is the organization of self-help.

This is a difficult task, but essential to wise relief. The effort begun in Chicago to organize gardening for the unemployed promises excellent results. The Association of Commerce favors it and the county board gave it immediate help. Property owners have offered land, and if the work is carried forward promptly and energetically thousands of unemployed will be able to contribute to their own support by a self-respecting and wholesome labor. Another effort is being carried on throughout the country by the American Legion, the American Federation of Labor and other bodies to find jobs and occasionally work for the unemployed.

Too little has been done along these lines. The raising and distributing of free relief has seemed the simpler and easier way, but it involves evils to be avoided, and in any case is reaching the end of its resources. A certain amount must continue, but it must be more and more supplemented by other forms of relief. And the floater and constitutional shirker must be separated from the deserving needy and compelled to help themselves.

POLITICAL LIGHTHOUSES.

One of the first duties undertaken by the federal government at its founding was the maintenance of lighthouses and other aids to navigation. From that day to this the costs of the service have been borne largely by general taxation with the result that a good many stations are maintained—how many it is difficult to say—primarily for their political values.

A good deal of money could be saved if the costs were levied directly against shipping in the form of heavier port dues and tonnage charges. No one knows better than the ship owner and the marine insurance companies the value of lighthouses at strategic points, and it may be safely assumed that if shipping had to pay the costs of maintaining the lights none of value would be dispensed with. Those which would go would be the useless ones.

The same principle should apply to numerous other services of government. Those who benefit from the service should pay for it in full. The fact that the farmer does not pay the full cost of what he gets from the department of agriculture and the business man does not pay for what he gets from the department of commerce encourages the beneficiaries to place new burdens upon the general taxpayers. Nothing will serve more speedily to reduce the bureaucracy to reasonable dimensions than a transfer of the costs of maintaining the bureaus to those who benefit from their existence.

Editorial of the Day

[New York World-Telegram.]

That labor union despots hereabouts owe no small part of their power to the friendship and protection of politicians is no new charge.

It was made in the case of Sam Kaplan, president of the Motion Picture Machine Operators' union, local 306, who is under indictment for conspiracy based on alleged intimidation and persecution of minority members of the union who opposed his policies. Kaplan is said to have been a close friend of former Sheriff Thomas M. Farley, whom the governor removed from office.

A similar charge is now made against officers of local No. 3 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers and against the international president, Howell H. Broach, already defendants in a court action brought by a minority group.

Affidavits allege that these officers made no secret of their claim to "enormous political influence," sufficient to "have any prosecution quashed" or even to "fix cases in the courts." The political protectors named are former Sheriffs Thomas M. Farley and Charles W. Culkins and James Hines, Tammany leader of the 11th assembly district, all three of whom are said to have been frequently in and out of the union's headquarters.

Where a labor union can be shown to link up with a political leader or public officeholder in this city the Hofstadter committee has jurisdiction. Having earlier interested himself in the alleged Kaplan-Farley connection—with what result has not been made public—Counsel Seabury should pursue this line of investigation in the light of the affidavit in the electrical workers' case.

Political protection of labor czars has an important bearing on the conduct of the district attorney's office, integrity of the courts, suppression of racketeering, and, indeed, on the whole "system," the purpose of which, according to Counsel Seabury, is "to retain and control jobs and perquisites."

The Hofstadter committee should take a close look at these charges. Clean government and pure administration of justice—no less than the good name of organized labor—are involved.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. By E. A.

"WHAT THE COUNTRY expects of this congress," declaimed Representative Simmons in the house, "is immediate economies." Ah, nay, nay, Representative Simmons, the country expects nothing of the kind. The country is pretty wise by now and it expects of this congress naught but baloney, hooey, hot air, backing and filling and boop-boop-a-doop. That's what the country expects of this congress. And, Mr. Simmons, it looks from this distance as though it was not going to be disappointed.

In and out
Against the shutter.

I like my house,
But in a minute
If this keeps up
I won't be in it!

NEW YORK is boasting of a fellow citizen who has lived near Broadway all his life (and he's eighty-three) who has never seen a movie, ridden a trolley car, or been in the subway. I shall not burn pine needles
At your feet,
Nor crown your hair with sparkling
Drops of dew;
I shall not bring you nuts

But in some distant night
Of mellow moon,
When darkness holds the earth
And sky apart,
You'll feel my fingers fumbling
For a tune
Upon the silver harp strings

FEEDING BABIES AND MOTHERS AS WELL.

MOTHERS know about as much as they need to about feeding of babies six to twelve months of age. The sickness rate from digestive disturbances in babies of this age is very low. Furthermore, it is falling so evenly and continuously that we can trust the natural course of events to take care of whatever need arises.

The same cannot be said of babies less than six months of age, and particularly of those less than a month old. Since nearly all young babies are breast fed, the need is for a different diet for nursing mothers.

Dr. S. Maurer, who has been working on this question for years, is of the opinion that the source of great harm is a dietary deficiency in vitamin B complex. Since this group of vitamins is no. stored in the body, he thinks that all child-bearing women should eat plenty of these foods at all times. They should increase their intake of them during pregnancy and especially during the last half thereof, and they should continue them at least as long as they are breast feeding.

Furthermore, when babies less than six months old are weaned, foods rich in this vitamin should be included in the diet. When a baby is born it is expected that he will eat no food or get practically little values from what he eats during the first three days of life, and not very much during the remainder of the first week of life. Since vitamin B complex is not stored in the body, babies do not start life with enough of this vitamin stored to last three days or a week. This is one reason why so many babies die when less than a week old and for no definite reason. Somehow they seem not to get a good start or a good hold on life.

The best source of this vitamin is the germ of grains, though yeast is about in the same class. However, there are many other foods that supply the deficiency and we are far from being without choice.

A standard diet for an adult that supplies the minimum amount of this vitamin required is given by Davidson and Gulland as:

3 ounces orange juice.
4 ounces apples.
16 ounces milk.
1 ounce butter.
Whole meal bread.

Changes in an ordinary diet to make it adequate in this vitamin as set forth by Dr. Goldberger are:

Butter from .6 ounce to 1.5.
Wheat flour decreased from 14.4 to 12.9.
Cornmeal increased from 5.3 to 6.3.
Lard and substitutes decreased from 1.4 to 1.3.
Fresh fruits increased from .5 to 20.3.

The principal changes that Dr. Goldberger asked for were increases in fresh meats, salt pork, eggs, and fresh fruits.

If the mother will eat a fair amount of yeast or foods made from it, and grain germs, or foods made from them, she can get along with less of some of these items.

INFLAMMATION OF BONE.

Mrs. M. M. writes: What is osteomyelitis? What is the cause?

REPLY.

Osteomyelitis is an inflammation of the bone. If this inflammation is in the inner part of the bone the canal and marrow in that region are especially involved. If the outer zone is the principal site of the inflammation, periostitis is the term used.

Osteomyelitis may be acute or chronic. It may be caused by mechanical injury or by infection with tubercle bacillus, some pus coccus, the syphilitic microbe, or some other microbe.

The disease has been known a long time. Some say King Tut had it. Certainly many of his subjects did. Among the old fashioned names for it are: White swelling, necrosis of bone, surgical tuberculosis, and, maybe, Pott's disease.

USING WELL WATER.

Mrs. D. C. writes:

1. I am going to a place where there is well water. It has not been tested, but it is cold. Do you think I should boil the water before drinking it?

2. What is the cause of night sweats and chills?

REPLY.

1. It would be safer to do so, or to sterilize it by chemicals, or by heat short of boiling. A water is not safe because it is cold, or clear, or sweet. However, a proper answer should be based on analysis and a sanitary survey.

2. Among the many causes are: Malaria, tuberculosis, sepsis, sleeping in a badly ventilated room, or under too much cover.

TROUBLE WITH EYES.

Mrs. E. D. G. writes: What are the symptoms of granulated eyelids. Occasionally my lids have a meallylike substance on them right where the lashes grow out. Also my lashes are brittle and come out easily.

REPLY.

The condition you describe physicians call marginal blepharitis. Probably you need to wear glasses. Exposure to heat, glare, or to dusty air are other possibilities. It is possible that one form of granulated lids may be the next step in your case if it is allowed to progress. Some other forms of granulated lids are due to infections and still others to nutritional conditions. Magnify your symptoms, say one per cent, and you have those of granulated lids.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

MAY 5, 1916.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The capital again has been thrown into a ferment of anxiety by unofficial dispatches from Berlin regarding the attitude of Germany toward President Wilson's ultimatum to reform the conduct of submarine warfare or suffer a rupture with the United States. According to press dispatches, Germany in the note delivered to Ambassador Gerard today agrees to conform the submarine warfare in the waters around the British isles to the rules governing cruiser warfare on commerce but under certain prescribed conditions, the most important of which is that armed merchantmen shall be treated as warships and therefore will be sunk without warning. If the official text of the reply bears out this version the consequences may be serious. Administration officials did not conceal the gravity with which they view the matter.

BERLIN.—Germany handed Ambassador Gerard its reply to the American submarine ultimatum. Several concessions have been made by the kaiser and some perturbation is expressed over what effect they will have on public opinion here. Despite the concession Germany stands firm on the theory that armed merchantmen shall be regarded as cruisers and will be treated as such by the submarines. The answer is courteous but firm.

BUDAPEST.—Military critics here believe 500,000 Russians are to be landed in France. It is likewise prophesied that Russia is preparing another mighty attack on the eastern front.

PARIS.—The French forces about Verdun continued their recent advances according to two official reports. One says that Gen. Joffre's men obtained a foothold in one of the German advance posts south of Dead Man's Hill. The other says that in the Argonne French artillery shelled the enemy organizations in the Cheppy wood. West of the Meuse the bombardment was violent in the region of Hill 304.

LONDON.—James Mark Sullivan of New York, formerly American minister to Santo Domingo, has been arrested in Dublin on the charge of complicity in the Irish rebellion and has been brought to London, where he is held.

CHICAGO.—This city faces another "milk strike." This time, however, it is the drivers, and not the farmers, who have threatened to tie up the supply. "Not a drop delivered Sunday morning, May 7, unless we get $21," is the ultimatum which the drivers have handed the dealers.

CHICAGO.—Six indictments were returned against Guy Biddinger, former Chicago detective sergeant. Four of them charge bribery and two the operation of a confidence game. In all cases he is accused of using his position on the police force to levy tribute on men engaged in illegal practices. He was arrested in New York last night.

CHICAGO.—Forty thousand dollars—the largest contract price ever arranged for the production of a single motion picture in a single theater—will be paid by Jones, Linick & Schaefer for the rights to Miss Billie Burke's appearance in THE TRIBUNE'S film, "Gloria's Romance."

CHICAGO.—Mr. and Mrs. John William Kendrick of 1312 North State street issued invitations for the marriage of their daughter, Helen Elizabeth, to Xavier Vigeant, son of Mrs. Marie E. Vigeant of 1216 Astor street, on Tuesday evening, May 23.

Every Man's University

Questions and answers prepared by members of the faculty of the University of Chicago outline what they consider a well educated person ought to know. Today's instructor, Arthur Pearson Scott, associate professor of history.

TODAY'S QUESTION:

How were the Egyptian hieroglyphics deciphered?

[This question will be repeated and answered in this space tomorrow.]

YESTERDAY'S QUESTION:

What elements of permanent value to later times were contributed by ancient Egypt, Mesopotamia, and the near east?

ANSWER:

So far as we know it was somewhere in these regions that the use of metals and the invention of writing were added to the discoveries of the stone age to produce the earliest civilizations. Organized governments and codes of law, dealing, among other things, with the inheritance of property, marriage, and divorce, and business transactions were developed. Other features developed in the ancient orient were architecture in brick and hewn stone, with the pillar and arch as fundamentals, the beginnings of mathematics, astronomy, and medicine, and such religious ideas as a future judgment based on moral conduct in this life. Our present calendar is based on the one invented in Egypt at least as early as 4241 B. C., and our divisions of twelve hours, sixty minutes, and sixty seconds and of the circle into 360 degrees all go back to Mesopotamia.

GAMBLING DEVICES EXCLUDED.

Chicago, May 1.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Is it possible to copyright anything of a gambling nature? For instance, a system of playing horse races and other such devices? B. A. C.

"On the ground that the law will not lend its aid to protect the author or the owner of an unlawful production, no copyright can be acquired in a work which is of an indecent or immoral character, or which is otherwise illegal, as a libel, a blasphemy, or a mere gambling device or instrumentality." [C. J. No. 13, page 1016, paragraph 99.]

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

AUTHORIZED BY PERMIT.

Chicago, May 1.—[Friend of the People.]—We have complained to the police in reference to a department store in our vicinity using the sidewalk to sell their merchandise, with a cash register set up and the sidewalks cluttered with all sorts of merchandise. No action was taken by the police. Can't something be done to enforce the law? A. B. M.

Investigation discloses that a permit was issued on April 15 and expiring May 31, 1932, to the department store in question by the department of compensation which permits the sale and display of merchandise and that the requirements of permit as to limitation of space are being fully complied with. JOSEPH J. BUTLER,
Superintendent of Streets.

COLLECTING INHERITANCE.

Chicago, May 1.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I employed an attorney who has offices in the bank that holds the money left to me by a will. The attorney informs me that it has to be on probate for a year and that I am unable to draw on it. I am in need of money. Is there some way in which I can draw on the account? C. S.

The administrator is under no legal obligation to give you the money until the end of the year, but of course he could make advances if he so desired. Conceivably you might be able to borrow money upon your interest. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

BACK TO THE LAND.

Chicago, April 27.—This writer, a civil engineer, was raised on a farm, has tried small scale suburban farming, and may retire later to this way of living. Farming is a business made up of a multitude of highly specialized details. A city man without knowledge and experience runs the risk of quick and practically certain failure. No man should undertake it who does not have a certain amount of health, capital, and a love for that kind of life.

Before undertaking this enterprise the inexperienced city man should spend at least one season as a farm hand. From his work and the farm atmosphere in which he will live he will glean a beginner's knowledge, to be had in no other way. At the end of the season he will have some ideas about crops, live stock, poultry, bees, soils, fertilizers, fruit, weather conditions, farming implements, and farm conditions. If the city man intends to go in for a specialty, such as gardening, chickens, bees, etc., he should spend a second season employed at such a specialized place. In the meantime he can gain considerable book knowledge by reading the Farmers' Bulletin, published by the United States department of agriculture. These cover every conceivable subject and are the best textbooks in print. They may be obtained for a few cents each from the superintendent of documents, Washington, D. C. That office will mail a list upon receipt of a postal card request.

Ten acres of well chosen land, if well managed, will support a small family. Such a baby farm will be all that one man can easily manage. On such a farm he can keep a plug work horse, a cow, a pig, a couple of hundred chickens, a few swarms of bees, etc. The farm will provide food and shelter, a very limited amount of necessary merchandise, and the taxes. The improvements may be on any scale desired. In the west people live in houses built of logs, sod, baled hay, adobe bricks, and all kinds of combinations. Whatever else there is there should be a big shade tree with a swing, a sand pile, and a mud puddle for the baby ducks, pigs, kids, and pup to play in.

SANDERS VAN AUKEN.

CITY BRED.

Chicago, April 27.—Being an unemployed daughter of an unemployed father, both Chicago born and bred, I will state simply our status so as to show reason for opinions on this subject. I am well educated toward a profession, unable to complete because of depression; my father a conscientious and up to now successful plumber. My mother is an earnest and good wife and mother, my sister of thirteen is about to graduate from the elementary grades with ambition for a commercial career.

We are city people inside and out, with a taste of the farm from a three year experience 18 years ago, and have been in constant touch with it since, through relatives who are farmer bred. So my parents know what it is to farm. I was too young to remember much of my parents' real hard working farming on a small farm of eighty acres, but we realized barely enough for our own needs and not enough to furnish an income to keep up the various expenses, and they are many on the farm. We had what you might call an ideal spot, a little pasture, a little corn, wheat, and oats, two horses, two cows, a few pigs, hundreds of chickens, a large vegetable garden and apple orchard, as the latter were the source of our income. But we could not say that we kept entirely safe from starvation nor were we able to preserve self-respect. In those three years my parents learned much, but had a great deal more to learn, and, too, prices were better by far and the demand greater for products of the soil then.

The work in this day must be doubled or more to gain half the returns of those days. My parents are no longer young and could not withstand the pressure; I, in the first place, am not strong enough nor have I the ability or liking for such a life. It would kill us, mentally and morally, if we were taken away from our accustomed environment and ambitions.

And, too, why give to starving farmers more competition? Haven't they, who love and know the soil, enough to worry about? Why should we city breds make a mess of such an attempt? No, I say rout out the farmers that are now in the city taking the honest city man's place, not because they can do the job but because they will work cheaper and longer hours. They care nothing for the rules and regulations in keeping a good city. Send them back and give us a chance. They can do better on the farm and we can do better in the city.

STANCH CHICAGOAN.

UNCONSCIONABLE HYPOCRITES.

Chicago, May 2.—We are unconscionable hypocrites, all of us—including newspapers. If a black man had attacked a white woman down in Alabama, and white men had lynched him, there would be a big hullabaloo about upholding law and order, and demands that the state redeem itself by bringing the lynchers to justice. But when a half-breed in Hawaii commits the same offense and a white man shoots him, the hoorah is all the other way about—the island should redeem itself by acquitting him. Why the difference? If I were Massie I should probably have done the same as he did, and if I got caught I should say it was well worth a year in jail, and I'd do it again at that price; just as I might take a poke at some guy that insulted or injured me and feel that a fine or a few days in jail was a light price to pay for the satisfaction of doing it. However, that's not the point. The point is, why the difference of public sentiment on law and order as between the south and the Hawaiian islands?

T. G. ATKINSON.

MAJOR AND MINOR CRIMES.

Chicago, May 1.—Four American citizens, three of them members of the navy, have been convicted of killing a half-breed in Honolulu who raped an American wife.

Had this same half-breed been shot by one of our Anti-Saloon league snoopers for having a pint flask of liquor on his hip the federal government would have stepped in, taken the case away from local authorities and turned the murderer loose, on the grounds that it was justifiable under the circumstances.

This brings vividly to us the fact that possession of a flask of liquor is more of a crime than the raping of an American wife. J. H. R.

A TRAVESTY.

Chicago, April 30.—Just a word to say that in my opinion the white men who served on the jury of the Massie case, in addition to Prosecutor Kelley, have evidently lived in Hawaii so long that they have become yellow through and through. This great travesty of justice shows man's inhumanity to man.

TWO STENOGRAPHERS.

HE LIVED THERE.

Milwaukee, Wis., May 2.—Please permit me to express my deep and sincere commendation of your editorial, "The Massie Verdict." The astounding verdict against Lieut. Massie, Mrs. Fortescue, and the two United States sailors is utterly incomprehensible and not understandable to a white American. Regardless of the abortive opinions of a lot of cracked brained women, American womanhood must be protected, even if law and justice does not protect them. There is no justice in the politically ruled Hawaiian courts. Native politics govern the islands. I know; I have lived there.

W. S.

JUST TOWARD ALL.

Apple River, Ill., May 2.—The editorial of May 2 on the Massie verdict is highly to be commended, according to my judgment. It is comprehensively thoughtful and just toward all parties.

Personally, I am glad to commend this editorial as heartily as I condemn some of the paper's utterances on the prohibition situation.

A New Writer Makes Bow to Readers Today

"Amber Satyr" Is Story of Southern Negro.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Amber Satyr," by Roy Flannagan [Doubleday Doran]. Published today.

A NEW writer is presented to the American reading public today in the person of Roy Flannagan, a young man who grew up in Jefferson country, Virginia, and who, like Du Bose Heyward and Julia Peterkin of South Carolina, has chosen his black neighbors rather than his white ones to chronicle.

ROY FLANNAGAN.

"Amber Satyr" is about a Clark country swamp "nigger" who is one of the black-Indian half-breeds whose status is (at the beginning of the book) the cause of much controversy. The Negroes, who stem back to the Indians, are banded together and have secured a shyster lawyer to prove that they are Indians, not Negroes. To every one in the neighborhood they are no more Indian than the well known kitten born in an oven is a biscuit, but the lawyer makes a pretty penny out of them, and their conceit is thus fanned by his attentions.

The "amber satyr" himself is a great bronze creature named Luther, who really does look like an Indian. His daughter is likewise "high yellow," and it is for her sake more than his own that he keeps at the task of proving that he is not a Negro. He wants to send her to Indian school. He is inarticulate and groping, a typical swamp Negro, with a gift for song and a strength that never weakens. His fate is written the day that Sarah Sprouse, a great full bodied, amorous woman for whose crippled husband Luther labors, sees Luther for the great amber satyr that he is.

Unadorned Record of Simple Lives.

The poorest of poor white trash, she has no standards, and she does everything in her power to make Luther conscious of her as a woman. The fact that her brother-in-law has seduced Luther's daughter and that the daughter is to have a child by him seems nothing out of the usual to the amazon any more than it does to the black community. But even she is deterred from any overt pursuit of Luther until after her husband's death. Then she writes to him—love letters which come into the hands of her brothers-in-law, one of whom has become her lover.

"Amber Satyr" is a simple tale, told without flourishes, but it has a certain moving quality that all unadorned records of simple lives always do have. It is not, to my mind, a masterpiece, as "Porgy" was, but it shows an intimate understanding of one of the strange races that are as alien to the norm of the American as the actually foreign born. Mr. Flannagan's restraint in never getting sentimental over his characters is, I should say, a major blessing. There are no sloppy sentimentalities about "Amber Satyr."

"Miserable Sinner" Is Sentimentality.

So much cannot be said about "The Miserable Sinner," by Dolf Wyllarde [Macaulay], also published today. It is about a man who can't stand anything unpleasant, and, being a handsome and irresistible creature, manages to do his sinning very successfully for a while. Then suddenly misery does overtake him and he lives up to the title of the book. His abandoned wife, meantime, is seen by the author with as much sentimentality as the hero himself, and what a reckoning for every one!

And as for "The Village Pompadour," by Joan Conquest [Macaulay], also published today, it is fruity with sentimentality. I, for one, am just on the verge of mal de mer over books about ravishingly beautiful creatures who give themselves to be "kind," who barter their bodies to help support their own and other people's children in a luxury to which they need not be used and who talk with grand gestures about love.

"The Mother," by Naomi Royde-Smith [Doubleday Doran] has, on the other hand, real sentiment in its pages, sentiment about gardens and motherhood and wifehood and the iron-grip in a human being's life of the fundamental personality that is often so different from the person that the world sees. The heroine of "The Mother" is a shy woman who finally sees herself exactly as she is without any sentimentality whatever.

'Tis with our judgments as our watches, none
Go just alike, yet each believes his own—Pope.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

Here is one of those touching little pictures that occasionally descends on the loop like a dove.

From the title you'd imagine "The Strange Case of Clara Deane" to be a mystery story. But it's not. It's a tale of mother love, dragged through the mire of courts and jail by the cruel machine of circumstantial evidence.

Just before the wedding ceremony, Frank Deane, her husband-to-be, is accosted by a quiet gentleman with a warrant for arrest. Failure to turn in insurance collections is the charge against Deane. Poor Clara believes his protestations of innocence. The wedding proceeds and t. charge is withdrawn when Clara, from her savings—or maybe she uses the check given as a wedding present by her former employer—makes up the deficit.

The heroine's parting from this adorable child—played by little Cora Sue Collins who is so much as "Baby Peggy" was—had everybody in the theater weeping. It's one of the realest, most pitiful incidents I've ever witnessed on a screen.

1931. Parole. Where is Clara Deane's daughter NOW . . .?

You must learn the rest from the movie.

I was greatly impressed by Wynne Gibson's performance in the title rôle. She rings so true. In the first scenes she's mighty pretty—one of those warm, genuine blonds. As the screen years pass and time and sorrow take their toll, she ages believably. A sincere and polished actress!

Pat O'Brien is excellent as her worthless hubsand—but you hate the ground he walks on. Dudley Digges as Inspector Garrison, who figures prominently in the lives of Clara and her daughter, gives one of his customary, sterling performances. Lee Kohlmar is fine as Clara's loyal employer. The entire cast is satisfactory.

The story has been simply but expertly screened and springs a number of surprises.

Of its kind—heart-throb melodrama—"The Strange Case of Clara Deane" is a little gem of purest ray serene. [Even if I did call it a dove in the first sentence.]

See you tomorrow!

Slips Become Indispensable for New Styles

Makers Do Wonders in Achieving Fits.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

SINCE practically every daytime and evening costume for the next ninety days are things of shadow sheerness, even the most rebellious soul will seek out the nearest and newest supply of slips to wear under them!

Much as you detest and have defied the ancient and maidenly custom of wearing sufficient underlayers . . . this year you'll gracefully bow to the inevitable and buy slips for nearly every summer dress that you will have.

After years of careful avoidance on your part of anything superfluous in the way of clothes, it may seem rather strange to wander into an appointed place and casually request a suitable display of slips, but you'll get used to it before you know it, and the smartest, best dressed women in the world will shop beside you!

Park your dislike and distaste outside, and listen to the persuasive whisper of these lovely silken sheaths that cling closely to the fashionable silhouettes. The newest and most distinctive street and evening clothes cling closely over these well designed slips that never so much as wrinkle a hint of their close proximity.

Slip makers have accomplished wonders with the smallest yardage ever used . . . it's almost a problem in higher mathematics as to how they reduced the square to triangles of geometric proportions . . . but the correct answer is . . . super-slips that never slide upwards because they have been cut on the bias.

This manner of sewing and cutting makes a sleekly fitted underlayer that suavely follows the fashionable 1932 curves . . . a flawless perfection seldom achieved in long past underskirt history. These bias-ly fashioned costume slips are available in many forms . . . the simple tailored design superlatively made with sturdy shoulder straps that don't have to be re-anchored after a couple of shopping trips . . . new models now are particularly noticeable for the double bodice top that may be used for double duty. Most of these feature the new longer length as suitably shadow proof—for the new longer dress length.

The free striding and extremely active sportswomen will grab the new bifurcated costume slip and after the first successful wearing will burst into bragging praise about its grand comfort, ease, and simplicity. These as you surmise are tailored to perfection with the minimum amount of material and guiltless of anything that even looks like embellishment.

And another tricky bit of magic is a slip that does the body covering of three garments.

Some perfectly ladylike slips are ready for your approval with fine French motifs of lace and embroidery and edgings of real Val lace. These are the very slips to wear with your smart black and dark colored street frocks that need a lovely white contrast at the V neckline. One stunning model has rows of exquisite hemstitchings as the only motif with a fine half inch lace flatly outlining the tiny top hem.

Little Tricks of Makeup Find Favor

Try These to Make Your Eyes Glisten.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

A simple little makeup trick that would make many a face look fresher, younger, is to oil the finger tips ever so lightly with a wee bit of olive oil or white vaseline or cold cream and trace it lightly over the eyebrow and upper eyelid. Avoid a greasy look, but add just enough oil to make the surfaces mentioned glisten.

It does something especially nice to the eyes. Some women extend the good office to a light dab of oil under the lower lid, but this is unnecessary for the effect we have just mentioned. It's comparable in effect to the youth that a glossy head of hair gives as compared with the oldish look to hair that is dry.

The eyebrow brush might be employed for eyebrow glistening and it will be serving two purposes with one stroke. Also, the wee dab of oil or cream added to the lid will not hurt the skin there, either. This is usually a pretty neglected bit of skin surface compared to the greasing that the rest of the facial skin gets.

And speaking of makeup, we would like to protest against that common habit of dabbing on rouge and powder over a face that has not been cleansed for hours—perhaps for the better part of the day. It does so little to the spirits [and the flesh] compared to applying makeup over a freshly cleansed skin. You'll argue that there are moments during the day when you can't very conveniently disappear to use a cleanser. But if you think about those moments you can convince yourself that it is inertia more often than lack of facilities that inspires the daubing over of soiled surfaces.

The point is that you rouge and powder to make yourselves look prettier or feel better, or both. Just a minute devoted to actual skin freshener will do this far more effectively than without the basic operation. Too, it is a trick we would advocate for skin preservation. It is known that piling rouge on unclean surfaces is not a wholesome practise for the skin. And small vials of skin freshener, tiny containers of cold cream, can be tucked in the bag for this emergency work.

Or, one might quite sanely use water and a towel to remove the surface grime before freshing up with rouge and powder.

Elizabeth Galt Will Be Bride in West Today

Chicagoans in Arizona for Ceremony.

BY JUDITH CASS.

AMONG the Chicagoans in Tucson, Ariz., for the wedding today of Miss Elizabeth Galt and Rodman E. Griscom Jr., are Mr. and Mrs. Arthur G. Cable of Hubbard Woods, Mrs. Joseph T. Bowen of Lake Forest, and Mrs. Peter Dudley.

The wedding is taking place at 1 o'clock in the patio of the house Miss Galt's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Galt of Santa Fe, formerly of Chicago, have had in Tucson this year to be with their son, Thomas, who is attending the University of Arizona.

The service will be read by the Rev. Ernest C. Tuthill, rector of Grace Episcopal church, in the presence of about 75 guests. In the absence of her father the bride will be given in marriage by her brother and her only attendant will be Mrs. Norman McGee of Santa Fe. Rodman E. Griscom Sr. of Philadelphia will act as his son's best man.

Immediately following the ceremony there will be a buffet luncheon and reception, after which Mr. Griscom and his bride will leave by airplane for California to sail for New York via the Panama canal. They will return to Tucson about Sept. 20 and will reside at the Evans school, of which Mr. Griscom is the owner. Clement A. Griscom III., brother of the bridegroom and husband of a former Chicago girl, Olga Lihme, accompanied Mr. Griscom Sr. from Philadelphia to Tucson for the ceremony. Miss Florence Noyes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest High Noyes of Chicago, was to have been her cousin's attendant, but illness prevented her leaving home.

Symposium on Architecture.

The Association of Arts and Industries' dinner tonight in the Florentine room of the Congress hotel promises to be very interesting, for after dinner there is to be a symposium on modern architecture and interiors—as to whether they are conducive to livable American homes.

Frank Lloyd Wright, Alfred H. Granger, Ernest A. Grunsfeld Jr., and Mrs. Irene Sidley will discuss the subject. Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Small, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Otis, Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey B. Borland, Dr. and Mrs. Edwin W. Ryerson, and Mr. and Mrs. William N. Pelouze are among those who will attend the dinner.

Drawings by sculptors loaned from private collections of Chicagoans and two loan exhibitions of sculpture by Charles Despiau from Frank Crowninshield's collection will go on view at the Arts club next Tuesday afternoon. The show, which will be the last of the season, will open with a tea from 4 to 6 o'clock.

Among the Chicagoans who are loaning drawings or sculpture are Mrs. Duncan Hodges, Robert Allerton, Arthur Heun, Miss Alice Roullier, John Alden Carpenter, Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed, Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Brewster, Mrs. Frank R. Lillie, Mrs. Robert R. McCormick, Mrs. Robert M. Hutchins, Mrs. Potter Palmer, Honore Palmer Jr., Frederic Clay Bartlett Jr., Samuel Marx, C. J. Bulliet, and William N. Eisendrath Jr.

There will also be some pieces from the Art institue and the Arts club's own collection.

"Breadline Frolics" Closes Saturday.

"The Breadline Frolics" at the Majestic theater will complete its run this week. On Saturday afternoon the jobless actors will give a performance for crippled children and children of the orphanages. This performance has been paid for by officials of Sears, Roebuck & Co, Mrs. Ernest R. Graham and Mrs. Tillie Frankenthal are in charge of the tickets.

Surplice Effects Found on Newest Evening Frocks

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—The newest evening gowns in Paris fashions this season are the ones that emphasize the figure. Not unduly, mind you, but curves are taken into account, if not slightly emphasized, particularly above the waistline. Bosom accentuation is achieved by high waistlines, sometimes marked by flowers, etc., but the method that such famous houses as Vionnet, Bruyere, and Augustabernard employ is the way of the surplice line.

Vionnet makes the bodice of some of her evening dresses in two wide bands which cross high in front, at the throat, and make a V in back. Augustabernard gives a surplice effect in front to some of her evening dresses, with twisted shoulder straps for the back décolleté.

By looking at the sketch shown today you will see what Mme. Bruyere does with the surplice line evening dress. This dress, which is in heavy black canton crêpe, has a triangular piece set in above the waistline to just below the point of the bust. Two wide, slightly curved bands start from the sides of the waistline at the back, are joined to the triangular inset, and mount to the bosom, where they are crossed. Near the shoulders, at the front, these bands are split in two and descend to the waistline in back, leaving most of the back exposed.

There is a scarf in silver lamé which comes around the neck and down the sides of the bodice in front, and is attached to the surpliced bands, giving the bodice a more modest air. The triangular yoke above the narrow belted waistline has its counterpart just below the waistline. The skirt, cut on the bias, is attached to this yoke, and is very slim to the knees, where it falls into graceful folds to the floor.

Texas Guinan Starts for Paris Second Time

New York, May 4.—[U. P.]—Among the passengers aboard the Bremen sailing tonight for Paris is Mary Louise Cecelia (Texas) Guinan, off on her second invasion of the city which forbade her entry last year. "I want to get one good look at that town," said the night club hostess, "and this time I'm not going to have any police escort. It's just a pleasure trip, see. I'm going alone and I'll be back late this month."

Brighter Days for Orchestra, Opera Appear

Petrillo Pledges Aid of Musicians.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

PROSPECTS for the continuance of the Civic Opera and the Chicago Symphony orchestra became distinctly brighter yesterday when it became known that the Chicago Federation of Musicians was willing to accept a reduction in the pay scale of the orchestral players employed by the two organizations, thereby lowering one of the great items of expense in their operation.

Just how deep the cut will be and how much will be saved therefrom is to be determined by future negotiations. Matters have not yet arrived at the point of definite offer and acceptance. In fact, as far as the opera is concerned, there have been no negotiations at all, since that company continues to adhere to its announced policy of doing nothing on the new season until the guaranty drive of $500,000 a year for the next five years is finished. But James C. Petrillo, president of the federation of musicians, announces his desire to do his share in the matter of pay scale. Referring to Herbert M. Johnson, vice president in charge of business of the opera company, he said:

"Mr. Johnson has said that unless there is a cut in every direction the opera cannot go on. I am willing to meet him on that basis. I want to see the opera continue. It would be a great loss to Chicago if it were not able to continue, and we of the federation of musicians will do our share to help meet conditions.

Wants Orchestra to Continue.

"Neither do I want to see the Chicago Symphony go under, and certainly the members of the orchestra do not. Some of them have been there for many years. We do not think it fair, however, that the whole deficit of the orchestra, $82,000, should come out of the salaries of the players. We are willing to go part of the way to meet this loss, but we should not be expected to shoulder it all. This is the smallest orchestral loss in the country, anyway. The deficits of symphony orchestras in other cities run from $100,000 up.

"I was in conference with the orchestral management until half-past ten the closing night of the season, hoping that we would be able to announce then that the orchestra would continue next season, but we could not come to terms."

Henry E. Voegeli, manager of the orchestra, was noncommittal, but optimistic. He said, "Negotiations have been proceeding along friendly lines. We have not reached a solution yet, but I am not without hope."

Hope to Reach Opera Quota.

Regarding the operatic situation, Vice President Johnson stated that the total of guarantees had reached $346,825 yesterday morning. "It is a long pull," he said, "but I do not believe that it is any slower than we anticipated when we began. I have sincere hopes that we will reach the mark, because I believe that there are enough people in Chicago who want the opera to continue.

"We made many cuts in costs last year. We are making many more deep ones for the coming season, if it works out as we hope and there is a coming season. The cost must come inside of the guaranty limit. I have not talked to Mr. Petrillo yet, but I believe that he understands the situation and knows what we have to face."

In the meantime the campaign for the guaranty fund goes on, both by the Friends of Opera and a masculine organization.

Louis Eckstein Offers Ravinia.

And now comes Louis Eckstein with an offer to the Chicago Symphony orchestra. He found it inadvisable to continue his operatic season at Ravinia this summer, but he offers the whole Ravinia equipment free of charge to the orchestra for a series of concerts this summer.

"I do not want a cent out of it," he said yesterday. "I will donate the park and pay all the park expenses. Mr. Stock and the orchestra can go in there for as long or as short a season as they want, and take every cent that comes in at the box office. This is an offer only to the orchestra, because I will not allow Ravinia to be used for any purpose that will lower the artistic standing it has built up during twenty years. But for the orchestra it stands."

Mr. Stock expressed a desire to confer with Mr. Eckstein on the subject, and stated that he would do so immediately after the negotiations between the orchestra and the federation of musicians had been concluded.

Wherefore there is hope for the continued life of two of Chicago's leading artistic enterprises.

Cermak Calls Upon Chicago to Observe Day for Mothers

Following the designation of May 8 as Mother's day by President Hoover, Mayor Cermak yesterday issued a proclamation urging a city-wide observance of the day in Chicago.

"It is proper and fitting that all individuals observe Mother's day in some manner which may serve to quicken their hearts and stimulate their minds in service to or remembrance of their own mothers, and in gratitude for the blessings of maternal love," the proclamation stated.

In preparation for Mother's day florists were making arrangements for the demand for flowers which will accompany the observance of the day. Mother's day gifts were displayed throughout the stores and thousands of the immense crowd that thronged the business districts yesterday bought remembrances.

On Sunday church services will be devoted to the theme of "Mother" in many denominations. Special pageants and music will be given and in some churches Sunday school classes and young people's groups will attend in a body.

Hughes Slated for Place of Senior Bishop

Highest Honor of M. E. Church.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Atlantic City, N. J., May 4.—[Special.]—Bishop Edwin Holt Hughes of the Methodist Episcopal area of Chicago will be assigned to succeed Bishop William Fraser McDowell as senior presiding bishop of the church and head of the Washington, D. C., area. This was revealed this afternoon at the close of the meeting of the episcopacy committee of the general conference of the church, holding its quadrennial sessions here.

BISHOP HUGHES.

The Washington area, together with the presidency of the board of bishops, is the highest office in Methodism. Strong pressure, however, will be brought by Chicago Methodist leaders to retain Bishop Hughes in Chicago. This was announced by George W. Dixon of Chicago, a member of the subcommittee on episcopal assignments in charge of the placement of bishops.

Mr. Dixon said that "a number of Bishop Hughes' best friends have urged him to request the conference to return him to Chicago," despite the advancement of the proposed appointment. He added that in view of the temper of the conference to omit the election of new bishops at this session, together with the program to reduce the number of episcopal areas through consolidation, there will be a general shakeup of the bishops.

Bishop James E. Baker, former head of the Wesley Foundation, University of Illinois, and present bishop of Corea, is scheduled to go to the St. Paul, Minn., area.

It has not been announced who will succeed Bishop Hughes. Bishop Ernest L. Waldorf of Kansas City is prominently mentioned for the Chicago post. Bishop H. Lester Smith of Chattanooga is scheduled to succeed the late Bishop Theodore Henderson at Cincinnati.

"Marrying parsons" drew fire this morning in the committee on family relations. The term is applied to pastors who perform the marriage rites of the church for persons who obtained divorces on grounds not recognized by the church. This came as result of a memorial to the general conference from the Omaha annual conference seeking greater clarity on the church's stand concerning divorce.

The Omaha query seeks specific pronouncements on what constitutes "moral equivalents" of adultery. The committee called on the Rev. Dr. Ernest C. Love, Watertown, N. Y., to draft a tentative statement in answer to that question for tomorrow's consideration by the committee. The Rev. Dr. Ralph W. Sockman, pastor of the Madison Avenue church, New York City, will introduce consideration of birth control to the conference tomorrow morning. He told the committee on family relations that the church "must not be silent" on this issue in view of recent statements on the subject by the Federal Council of Churches of Christ and various denominations.

Dr. Sockman is a noted Methodist liberal and he is expected to lead a fight in the general conference favoring birth control as well as a more liberal attitude toward divorce. Dr. Clarence True Wilson, secretary of the board of temperance, prohibition and public morals, Washington, D. C., made his official report before the standing committee on that work this afternoon. He declared he answered the opposition to the board's headquarters near the national capitol by buying additional adjacent property and erecting an apartment building on it. This property, he said, will yield endowment income of $55,000 annually as soon as the new building is paid for.

Hits Studio Politics and Demands Character.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., May 4.—"Why are most big movie companies staring at receivership and what can they do to recoup?" was the theme of a meeting of 500 persons called by the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Science here.

Pronouncement by men of such prominence within the industry as Sidney R. Kent, new president of Fox; Jack Warner, production head of Warner Brothers, and M. A. Lightman, president of Motion Picture Theater Owners of America, are interesting enough to pass on.

Kent, who is considered one of the most experienced leaders in the film business, told the movie men they could not merely blame business depression for their terrific financial jolts in the last three years.

He expressed freer criticism of the industry within which he has made his rise to fortune and power than an outsider would dare to express before such a gathering.

"Not enough honesty," Kent said. "Too much studio politics. Too much mistrust, the executives mistrust one another and everybody else does the same. Hidden agreements! Selfishness and greediness, starting with top executives and running down the line. The industry won't begin to get on its feet until more character enters into it.

"Too many cycles in pictures, all studios following the lead of one success by making another picture of an imitative nature. Motion pictures have too long walked the beaten path. The picture business should be more like a laboratory. Experiments should be made all the time and when the experiments bring business success we will have the art side of the business taking an equal or dominating position over the commercial side."

Lightman said all movie theater operators would benefit when means should be found to shut a certain number of the oversupply of theaters in all bigger American cities.

Warner asked for cooperation within the employé ranks in Hollywood studios in accepting salary reductions. He said he was sorry to admit that much movie distress had its source in wastefulness and incompetence at the top but added that magnates and executives have been paying the price for this and believed it was square dealing for employés to help shoulder part of the consequences. Warner said, "receivership and bankruptcy are harsh words to use about our business but they are necessary." Warner blamed the movies' financial flop in great measure to the overexuberant, overbuilding, overleasing, and overbuying of theaters during peak years.

Reri, the Tahitan girl from the film "Tabu," who starred in New York musical comedy for a year, put on one of her dances for the Wampas membership last night. Reri brought her own Tahitan orchestra to provide music.

Mary Pickford has caused a whole wing to be built onto the Fairbanks-Pickford hillside home to care for titled and otherwise prominent guests expected for the Olympic games.

The Monogram Film company is using Rex Bell for hero in a cowboy story and is making the picture 100 per cent Bell by filming it on Rex's (and Clara's) ranch, the Clarita.

Monte Blue is back in pictures after a couple years of retirement, by starring in "The Stoker" for Producer M. H. Hoffman. Dorothy Burgess will be the leading lady.

Woman's Daytime Dress Designed with Smart Light Topped Bodice

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

Here is a chic day dress with the light topped bodice that is so well liked. The bodice is cleverly cut, suggesting length and slimness with its diagonal lines. The sleeves are attractive and are equally pretty in the short puffed effect. Printed and plain silk crêpe or two shades of the same color are equally smart.

The pattern, 2713, comes in sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20 years and 36, 38, and 40 inch bust measure. Size 16 requires 2⅞ yards of 39 inch material with 1¼ yards of 35 inch contrasting.

All Children Pass Through Savage State

Baby of 22 Months Likes to Bite, Pinch.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

The first of today's questions is one that has come in often lately.

Question: "My little boy is 22 months old, and for the last two months he has turned so that I cannot let him near children unless I watch him constantly. He bites and pinches, sometimes for no reason at all. I cannot understand it. He is not vicious. He does not do it in self-defense, and it is so humiliating that I feel like spanking him. What can I do?"

Answer: I have letters by the dozen describing just the sort of thing you mention. It is usual for children the age of your little boy to go through this biting and hitting phase.

Of course, he is not vicious—it has nothing to do with ugly feelings. It is an experiment—feeling his strength, noticing cause and effect, relishing the excitement created, and so forth.

Of course, you have to protect the other children. Segregation is about your only resort there. Happily, this phase doesn't last long. Then, be sure to provide plenty of playthings for vigorous play to use up his energy. This is a time when babies feel all their new powers. Give him things to punch and to hammer with. See that he has some rough and tumble play and, incidentally, hard things to chew which come within his dietary.

Question: "What is the weight of a child of 6? I cannot seem to build my little girl up."

Answer: I would not think of answering your question merely for the sake of your peace of mind. Your little girl might be far below the weight I would mention and you would begin to worry. If, for instance, she were short and slender with small bones she would be light for her age, but still might be in perfect physical condition.

If you are in doubt yourself as to her physical condition, consult a good general practitioner who is experienced with children, or a good child's doctor.

When You CAN'T QUIT

Fatigue is the signal to rest. Obey it if you can. When you can't, keep cool and carry-on in comfort.

Bayer Aspirin was meant for just such times, for it insures your comfort. Freedom from those pains that nag at nerves and wear you down. One tablet will block that threatening headache while it is still just a threat. Take two or three tablets when you've caught a cold, and that's usually the end of it.

Carry Bayer Aspirin when you travel. Have some at home and keep some at the office. Like an efficient secretary, it will often "save the day" and spare you many uncomfortable, unproductive hours. Perfectly harmless, so keep it handy, keep it in mind, and use it. No man of affairs can afford to ignore the score and more of uses explained in the proven directions. From a grumbling tooth to those rheumatic pains which seem almost to bend the bones, Bayer Aspirin is ready with its quick relief—and always works. Neuralgia. Neuritis. Any nagging, needless pain.

Bayer-Tablets of Aspirin Genuine

Get the genuine tablets, stamped with the Bayer cross. They are of perfect purity, absolute uniformity, and have the same action every time. Why experiment with imitations costing a few cents less? The saving is too little. There is too much at stake. But there is economy in the purchase of genuine Bayer Aspirin tablets in the large bottles.

NO TABLETS ARE GENUINE BAYER ASPIRIN WITHOUT THIS CROSS

Girls! DON'T REDUCE

Until I tell you of the wonderful new way I discovered in

BATTLE CREEK

You eat all you want of delicious foods—take no harmful drugs like thyroid—no back-breaking exercises—Yet you lose excess fat so fast you can hardly believe the scales—you wear clothes sizes smaller as inches peel off bust, hips, limbs, neck, arms, and face—Oh! it's so wonderful—you'll never realize how thrilled you are going to be until you actually see what it does for you. You feel so peppy—and you look years younger. If you don't win love after this—you are just hopeless, girls.

Here's the recipe—and be sure to cut it out of the paper—You just get yourself a big bottle of BonKora—enough for a month or six weeks. It never costs over a dollar. Eat three square meals a day—four if you prefer—but cut out starches and fats and eat more of the good strength and tonic foods that the directions in the package tell about.

This BonKora is different from every other treatment you ever heard of. Doctors tell us fat is 66 per cent water anyhow and this treatment simply makes the fatty parts of your figure throw off enough of the heavy water to make you more nearly NORMAL in weight.

Now let me warn you—when you have reduced your weight and measurements to normal, be satisfied and quit taking BonKora, except occasionally as a conditioner. Don't let yourself become too thin.

BonKora is free from any harmful drugs, is not habit-forming and may be taken by any one according to directions. Remember the name BONKORA—Beware of imitations!

How are the egg appetites holding out at your house? Still going strong—or are they a little wearied by these eggful spring days?

From April to hot weather is the season for eggs. They're best and they're cheapest during this period. And the wise household economist is going to take advantage of low priced eggs and ring them into the family meals in as many pleasant ways as imagination can devise. But sometimes about this time of year imagination balks at the very thought of concocting another egg idea—and that is where we come in, with a few egg suggestions you may have overlooked in your delving, and which will tempt back the family appetites and insure that "egg a day" for growing-ups and grownups alike.

You will find it an inexpensive way to save on the meat bill and at the same time supply the family with an excellent source of protein, fat, phosphorus, iron, and the vitamins A, B and D. It's even more than that. For egg cookery is relatively simple and well standardized, once we learn the first essentials.

Here is a group of interesting egg ideas I recommend to you as veritable spring tonics and appetite raisers. The first is one I just came across and tried out myself—scrambled eggs with tomatoes. To prepare it, skin fresh, ripe tomatoes, cut in thick slices and dredge with flour, pepper, and salt. Melt a generous amount of butter in a frying pan and pan fry the tomato slices in it. When brown, remove to a hot platter and place around the edge to form a border.

Put into a bowl one tablespoon of flour, add slowly one-half cup of tomato juice, then six eggs, three-fourths teaspoon of salt, one-eighth teaspoon of pepper, and a dash of paprika. Beat slightly and scramble over a moderate fire. Heap in the center of the platter and sprinkle the whole with chopped parsley. You'll like this dish for luncheon one of these days. Serve it with beaten biscuits, hearts of lettuce, fresh strawberries, and milk or coffee.

Chocolate souffié is something else again, and is an interesting way of camouflaging the daily egg. For this make a sauce of one cup of milk, five tablespoons of flour, four tablespoons of butter, and one-fourth teaspoon of salt. To this add two squares of melted chocolate, mix well, and cool thoroughly. Now add one-third cup of sugar, one-half teaspoon vanilla and three egg yolks, well beaten. Finally fold in three stiffly beaten egg whites and turn into a buttered casserole. Place the dish in a pan of hot water and bake in a moderate oven [325 degrees F.] for one hour.

SCALLOPED EGGS, MUSHROOMS, AND HAM.

1½ cups medium white sauce.
1 cup chopped cooked ham.
¾ cup chopped mushrooms.
1 cup cracker crumbs.
3 tablespoons melted butter.

Fill a buttered baking dish with layers of crumbs, eggs, white sauce, mushrooms, and ham. Cover the top thickly with buttered crumbs and bake about thirty minutes in a moderate oven [350 degrees F.].

BAKED EGGS WITH PARSLEY POTATOES.

4 eggs.
¼ cup finely chopped parsley.
Strips of pimiento.

Whip the potato until very light and creamy. Mix in chopped parsley, and pile evenly in a buttered baking dish. Make four cavities in the potato and into each slip a raw egg. Add a bit of butter to each egg and season the whole dish with salt, pepper, and papkrika. Arrange strips of pimiento over the mashed potato and bake in a moderate oven [350 degrees F.] about ten minutes or until the eggs are set.

Bride in Fashion Show

Mrs. Louis C. Sudler (Mary Barnes) is to be the bride and Miss Alice Mae Dickinson, a debutante of the last winter, is to be the bride's attendant in the summer fashion pageant to be given next Tuesday afternoon and evening by the "Tuesday Nighters" of St. Chrystostom's church in the parish house for the benefit of Camp Oronoko. There will be bridge in the afternoon, too, and dancing at night.

and Florence Carr and Mrs. Louise C. Sudler will be the mannequins in the fashion pageant to be given next Tuesday in the parish house of St. Chrysostom's church by the "Tuesday Nighters" of the church.

The pageant and bridge will be the afternoon's attraction and the pageant and a dance will entertain those who go in the evening. The proceeds of the affair will go to Camp Oronoko, which is maintained by some of the parishioners of St. Chrysostom's for a summer outing place for poor children.

The annual meeting of Kaskaskia chapter of the D. A. R. will be held next Tuesday at a luncheon at the residence of Mrs. William C. Winton at 10 Indian Hill road, Winnetka. Assisting hostesses will include Miss Elaine Blackman, Mrs. Thomas A. Quan, Mrs. Hobart P. Young, Mrs. Henry W. Bryant, Mrs. John H. Coulter, and Mrs. Leon J. Willien.

Drama League Breakfast.

The last of the Drama league's activities this season will be a breakfast for the stars of "The Devil Passes" next Wednesday at 12 o'clock in the Blackstone Crystal ballroom. Guests at the speakers' table will include Arthur Byron, Robert Loraine, Cecelia Loftus, Eric Blore, Basil Rathbone, Mary Nash, Diana Wynward, and J. Malcolm Dunn.

The Women's auxiliary of the Chicago Yacht club will hold a card party on Saturday, May 14. Mrs. Haven A. Re Qua is chairman.

Mrs. James H. Douglas Jr. is leaving in about two weeks for Washington to join her husband, who went there as first assistant secretary of the treasury several months ago. She will leave her little sons, James H. III., two and a half years old, and "Bobby," born on March 18, with their grandmother, Mrs. James H. Douglas, in Lake Forest until autumn for the Washington climate in summer is not so good for babies, and she will spend the summer commuting between Washington and Lake Forest, waiting until fall to move her household to the capital city. Mrs. Douglas Sr. returned to Lake Forest yesterday after having been away all winter, first in Florida and then visiting her son in Washington.

Mrs. Edward G. Pauling has returned from Boston, where she visited her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. John Morse Elliott, and stayed with their little daughter while they took a trip to Bermuda. Mrs. Pauling's other daughter, Mrs. Pauling Donnelley, still is abroad.

Summer Plans of Society Folk.

Mrs. Charles S. Williamson is planning to go to Peterboro, Ont., next month for another visit to her new grandson, the baby of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Hammond [Betty Williamson], who was born on Feb. 28.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph R. Richardson are expected back at their Astor street apartment next Monday from their country place at Gaylord, Va. Their Wheaton residence is leased to Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Lindsay III., so what the Richardsons' warm weather plans are we will not know until they arrive at home.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip D. Armour have moved out to their Lake Forest estate for the summer and their apartment at 1200 Lake Shore drive is in the process of being closed for the season.

The Joseph E. Otises are planning to open their residence at Harbor Point, Mich., early in June, and they expect to have their daughter, Mrs. Nathaniel Owings [Emily Otis, whose marriage took place there last summer] with them for a part of the season. Raymond Otis and his wife are trying to rent their house in Santa Fé so they can take an European trip this summer, but so far renters out there seem to be scarce.

Mr. and Mrs. Duncan Hodges are visiting in New York and will return to Lake Forest around the 15th of this month.

Mr. and Mrs. John C. Marshall of Hubbard Woods are motoring to Bryn Mawr, where their daughter, Janet, is in her junior year. She is to have a part in the production of the "Midsummer Night's Dream" in the May day festivities tomorrow and Saturday, and she also has assisted in the costuming of the various productions. Janet is news editor of "The College News" and has been awarded the Evelyn Hunt scholarship at Bryn Mawr for her senior year.

Paintings in Art Exhibit

Mrs. Lloyd A. Laflin of Lake Forest will have some of her paintings included in the spring exhibition of the Hubert Ropp School of Art, which will open with a tea Friday afternoon at the school, 100 East Chicago avenue. Mrs. Laflin is the former Beatrice Clow, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Clow Jr., also of Lake Forest.

Annual Exhibit of Camera Club Given Praise

Many Remarkable Prints on Display.

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

The annual exhibition of prints by members of the Chicago Camera club has just opened in the club gallery, 137 North Wabash avenue. It is a successful show, one of the best the club has yet hung. From now until the opening of the Chicago Exposition these Camera club exhibits may be considered in the light of preparatory tuning up for that affair. All of the members are keyed to a high pitch to have that exhibition the world's finest.

One of the most remarkable of the prints is Dr. Maximilian Kern's "Seidenberg," an amazing study of the flexible hands of the Chicago Symphony's first cellist. The quality and depth of tone of the cross-cut of the cello in the print is as beautiful as the sensitive fluency of the hands. Dr. Kern has another unique print in the portrait of his little daughter, under the title "Pensive."

George H. High shows an exquisite and delicate line portrait, "Cousin Betty," a beautiful profile of Miss Elizabeth Galt, whose parents are former Chicagoans. Mr. High is successful again with a different type of picture, "The Farm Lane," a rich bit of landscape. There are so many unusual prints in the exhibit that it is almost impossible to find room for them in this review. The "Goldfish," by Paul D. Meyer, should not be overlooked, however, nor the still life of fencing foils and mask by Alfons Weber, nor the "Butterfly and Flowers" by John S. Kara, a particularly decorative and effective picture.

"The Flamingo," by M. J. Kelly, is a fascinating composition. Dr. Poundstone shows three beautiful prints, perhaps the most important "Lake of the Hills." "Tranquility," by W. C. West, is an intriguing pastoral of sheep and lambs in a summer meadow. "Forest Preserve," by Shirley High, is well carried out. "Homeward the Ploughman," by Albert B. Pacini, is possessed of a sensitive quality. "The River Road," by W. F. Wienecke, president of the club, is thoroughly delightful.

All in all this exhibit is intensely interesting. No camera fan should miss it. It will continue through May.

A Princess Finds Shopping Interesting

"The King is in the counting house
A-counting out his money
The Queen is in the pantry
Eating bread and honey."

Where is Princess Rostialav? Why, she's gone shopping. This alert young woman has determined to create a business career for herself in America. She has a way with clothes and what's more, can impart this knowledge to others in her own gracious manner. Wisely, she plans to develop her career around this talent.

"You know," she said, "your American stores are like large cities, in their comprehensive selections of everything you need for any occasion."

If you covet the luxury of beautiful Imperial "Quin-Shan" Chinese Rugs. The Fair presents a wonderful collection, gorgeous in their colorings and rich and thick, the kind you sink in when you walk.

Then, to turn to something entirely different. Just go to The Fair and you'll be fascinated by the many different kinds of creams, lotions, perfumes, powders, and all the other aids to enhance your beauty. The Fair carries one of the largest Toilet Goods selections in Chicago . . . the finest imported toiletries as well as American makes.

I could continue my shopping survey, but it would take too long. But I do second the assertion that "You save when you spend at The Fair."

Catholic Student Body Will Hold Session Today

Thomas J. Downey Jr., president of the Chicago Catholic Student Conference on Religious Activities, will preside at the 16th general meeting of the organization today at Immaculata High school. Ascension Thursday today marks the fifth anniversary of the founding of the conference. Following the reports of officers in the morning the afternoon session will be given over to a symposium on "Catholic Social Action and Bolshevism" and addresses by members.

ENGAGEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. William T. Byrd of Baton Rouge, La., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Hasseltine, to Archer Taylor of Chicago, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lowndes Taylor of Philadelphia, Pa. Miss Byrd is a research assistant in the Graduate School of Social Service Administration and head of Blake residence hall for women at the University of Chicago. Mr. Taylor is chairman of the department of Germanic languages and literature. The wedding will take place next fall.

THE STAGE

Guthrie McClintic, New York theatrical producer, is now in Chicago visiting his wife, Katharine Cornell, star of "The Barretts of Wimpole Street." His next assignment as her stage director will be "Alien Corn," by Sidney Howard, and they have already decided upon the casting of the major rôles in the play. Rehearsals will begin next October and November.

At the conclusion of her present tour, in San Francisco in July, Miss Cornell will put aside "The Barretts." The play will probably be sent on tour again next season with another actress in the rôle of the romantic poetess.

Mr. McClintic's plans for his own producing program are centered, for the time being, on "I Was Waiting for You," a comedy from the French of Jacques Nathanson. He will stage this piece, a recent Paris success, in New York late in the summer, if he can assemble a suitable cast. His productions this season have been S. N. Behrman's "Brief Moment," Dan Totheroh's "Distant Drums," and A. N. Milne's "The Truth About Blayds."

"The Blue Mask" will end its run at the Grand Opera house and its life as an organization with Saturday night's performance. The plan to move it to another theater in Chicago has been abandoned.

The program of "Stringing Broadway," a puppet show revue to be given by the Tatterman Marionettes at the Goodman theater next week, beginning Sunday night, will include a number representing "Little Red Riding Hood," as its story might be told in the manners of A. N. Milne, Mae West and Eugene O'Neill. Another skit of topical interest bears the title of "The Columnist."

The "Friars Frolics," an entertainment to be staged by an actors' and managers' club in New York, is a possibility for Chicago late in the spring or early in the summer. This show will have its first performance next Sunday night in the Metropolitan Opera house, and will then proceed on a tour long enough to be announced as "transcontinental." The company includes Pat Rooney, Eddie Leonard, Georgie Price, Walter C. Kelly, Joe Frisco, and other personalities of the vaudeville shows, past and present.

Charles Kingsley's "Water Babies," dramatized by Alice Gerstenberg, will be given by the Jack and Jill Players at the Chicago Woman's club theater next Saturday and Sunday afternoons.

Michigan Crowns Blossom Queen as Festival Opens

St. Joseph, Mich., May 4.—[Special.]—Marjory Noble Crampton of Grand Rapids was crowned queen of southwestern Michigan's tenth annual blossom festival at Shadowland ballroom here tonight by Mayor John D. Karel of Grand Rapids. An audience of 5,000 persons witnessed the coronation, the opening event of the festival.

The blossom queen was attended by two maids of honor, Dorothy Allerton, "Miss Benton Harbor," and Ione Merrill, "Miss Battle Creek," and a court of twenty-three princesses, representing various southwestern Michigan cities. A banquet preceded the ball.

The festival continues tomorrow with a parade of 3,000 school children in St. Joseph and Benton Harbor, which will be headed by Jean Bestar, 7 years old, queen of St. Joseph school children, and Gertrude Gartz, 6 years old, queen of Berrien county rural schools.

Aid to Hutchins Engaged to Graduate of U. of C.

The engagement of Walter G. Preston, assistant to President Robert M. Hutchins of the University of Chicago, to Miss Marguerite Nelson, a graduate of the university, was announced yesterday at Omaha, Neb., where Miss Nelson is visiting. They will be married next week at the home of Preston's parents in Omaha. Preston, who is 29 years old, was graduated from Yale university in 1925.

Sunk!

Planning . . . hoping . . . and then—the thing she dreaded

Nature won't postpone her process to accommodate social engagements! Two weeks ago she was sure she could go. Then—just an hour before the party—it had started. That excruciating pain which is now avoidable.

Expected. Dreaded. Those muscular pains reckoned by the calendar. You can't always tell to the day and hour when they'll begin. But you can count on their relief seven minutes after taking Midol!

The periodic process is natural, but the painful part is not. Midol is non-narcotic; it never interferes with the process, but it does banish the pain. These tablets take effect in five to seven minutes. Better yet, the woman who takes them beforehand will experience no pain at all. Midol relieves headaches, neuralgia, neuritis, too. Always to be had at any drugstore.

World's worst job ended by KLEENEX

MADAM, if you like to wash dirty handkerchiefs, don't read this advertisement. We are going to tell you how to get rid of this disagreeable job. We are going to tell you about Kleenex, a handkerchief to use and destroy.

Of soft rayon-cellulose

This disposable handkerchief, Kleenex, is made of softest rayon-cellulose. It is many times more absorbent than cotton or linen, is always gentle and soothing. Kleenex is destroyed instantly after using.

The cost of a big, generous package of Kleenex is about that of one inexpensive handkerchief. So you can see that Kleenex is an economy.

Since the cost is so low, you need use each tissue but once. This means no self-infection from soiled handkerchiefs. No storing handkerchiefs in laundry bags, to scatter germs through clothing.

Buy a package today . . . or better, buy several—a package for every member of the family.

At all drug, dry goods and department stores.

KLEENEX disposable TISSUES

Germ-filled handkerchiefs are a menace to society!

THE WHISPERER

By ROY VICKERS

SYNOPSIS.

"The 'Whisperer' Crimes" have held London terrorized for months. Numerous wealthy persons have been kidnaped and held for ransom. The ransom victim is sent a small wireless receiving set by means of which the "Whisperer" speaks, using his own short wave, and gives directions for delivering the ransom demanded. Police dare not interfere because death results for the captive if directions are not carried out.

Joyce Morrow, engaged to Roland Blatch, secretary to Sir Henry Glazeborough, M. P., leading philanthropist, is taken captive. Roland is forced to steal jewels which are in his keeping for the bandit to insure the safe return of his beloved. When Joyce is again safely home, Roland decides to accept an offer from the bandit to join his band and try to recover the jewels. He is sent to an address where a woman named Connie gives him a facial treatment which alters his appearance. Roland reports every day to Connie, where the Whisperer talks to him through a telephone loud speaker, but remains hidden from view. He is sent to collect ransom from Lord Whiddon, and is involved in the killing of Lady Whiddon when her husband fails to meet the Whisperer's demands. Roland finds the Whisperer's hideout. He sees Sir Henry leaving and is faced with the staggering truth that the Whisperer is Sir Henry. Prowling through the house Roland becomes locked in the room used to imprison the captives. The Whisperer's next victim is the young daughter of Renbold Harner, minister of development in Australia, who is in London with special credit from his government to place orders for British made farm machinery. Harner refuses to use his government's money for ransom. Miss Harner is thrust into the room where Roland is also a captive. Roland saves Miss Harner's life.

INSTALLMENT XXII.

IN THE HANDS OF THE ENEMY.

Connie knew who he meant but she could not bring herself to say.

"It was No. 6—Roland Blatch," said the Whisperer.

"O, chief! gasped Connie. "Then you—are you going to hand him over?"

"No. Hanging is a painless death. I have—other plans—for that traitor. Attend carefully, please. He will read the paper and conclude that he is safe from me. He will almost certainly return to your flat with some lying explanation of his absence. You will contrive to take his revolver from him. Having done this, you will ring No. 2 on the exchange telephone and order some champagne to be sent to you at once. You may leave the rest to me."

She repeated the order, then shut up Maviste's with a new terror.

She dared not disobey the Whisperer—dared not warn Roland of the peril that awaited him if he should return to the flat.

When she let herself into the flat, Roland was waiting for her.

His head and neck were bandaged and his left arm was in a sling.

"Hullo, Connie! Jove, you look as if I had come back from the dead! So I have jolly nearly! A newspaper van caught me a few minutes after

"My orders are—to kill you at once if you shout."

Connie had stood staring at Roland shrinking from the task that now lay before her. From the path which Connie trod there could be no turning back.

"O, what a relief!" she gasped. Her acting was perfect and few men could have seen through it. "We all thought you had been arrested. But, my poor boy, how dreadful you look in those bandages! Are you badly hurt?"

"Only scratched—but I'd look rather more unsavory without the bandages," Roland laughed back.

She prattled for a little, then excused herself. Ten minutes later she found him in the black and gold sitting room.

Roland looked up as she came in.

"How wonderfully quick you've been!" he exclaimed. "I always thought it took hours to dress like that."

"Does it suit me? It's the first time I've worn it."

"You look fine! But, I say, are you going to a party?"

"We're going to have a party here to celebrate your return. A party of two—you and I, Roland!"

"Splendid!" he ejaculated. He must do anything to reëstablish himself in the confidence of the gang—and it would be hopeless to begin by snubbing Connie. "But how am I going to live up to that wonderful dress?"

"You look very nice as you are—if only your tie were straight." He stood up and she affected to straighten it. "The bandages give a picturesque touch. . . . But you're rather bulky—here."

She tapped the pocket that held his revolver.

"I'll put it in my room."

"No. Sit down. What's the good of your being an invalid if I'm not allowed to wait on you?"

She took the revolver. In the hall she quickly removed the cartridges, then put the empty revolver in a drawer of his dressing table.

She came back to the sitting room, a soft smile on her face.

"It's almost too good to believe, Roland!" she said. "Much too good to celebrate on lemonade!"

She went to the telephone on a side table and dialed a number. She watched him as she gave an order for a case of champagne to be sent to her immediately—and knew that he had no suspicion that this was a signal.

Some half an hour later there came a knock on the outer door of the flat.

"That's the champagne, I expect!" he said. "Let me go!"

"No. That was a code knock," she said frowning. "I'm afraid it's No. 2 with a couple of recruits. What a bore—but you won't mind very much, will you? I'll soon get rid of them."

"I don't mind in the least," he assured her. He was really rather pleased, for he had resigned himself to a rather difficult evening alone with Connie.

"Hullo, No. 6!" No. 2 grinned cheerily. "We thought you were pinched. Brought a couple of new chums to see Connie!"

The two men were on his heels and were introduced by their numbers and their first names. Connie hovered by the doorway.

"The chief gave us orders about you," said No. 2. "If it turned out that you weren't pinched after all, I was to tell you as soon as I saw you."

"Right!" said Roland. "What are the orders?"

My orders are—to kill you at once if you shout."

No. 2 had whipped out an automatic and now held the muzzle pressed over Roland's heart. The other two closed round him. Connie, her immemorial rôle played out, disappeared.

In a couple of minutes they had his arms lashed to his side, a gag in his mouth, and canvas bands around his thighs and ankles.

They went through his pockets, taking everything except his money and his watch. There was little enough. There was a pipe and pouch, some cigarets, and an engraved match case that Joyce had given him.

They carried him bodily down the stairs to the garage. They put him in a saloon and then bandaged his eyes.

So the Whisperer had found out after all—knew that it was not a detective who had rescued Miss Harner, and he must believe he had killed No. 4. This presumably would be the end. He began to wonder whether the Whisperer would do it painlessly.

. . . . . .

As she heard the men carry Roland away, Connie flung herself on the bed.

There was no one of nature so utterly base as to be a loyal lieutenant of the Whisperer. There was not one of his gang who would not have betrayed him if they dared.

The Whisperer knew this. Though he paid them fairly well and treated them courteously, he drove them all with the lash of fear. They all knew that he would punish disobedience and treachery by giving anonymous evidence against them. And on the other hand, he protected them. He would provide a new home for any of them at a moment's notice.

Roland Blatch alone had broken through the bonds of fear. For this, Connie who had admired him from the first now adored him. And she had played the rôle of Delilah and handed him over defenseless to his enemies.

She buried her face in the pillow while terrible sobs shook her frame. It was hardly sympathy for Roland's fate that prostrated her. It was rather the loss of her self-respect—she had marked this man down for her lover and at the word of the Whisperer she had meekly given him up to death.

In the midst of her abandonment the bell sounded.

An emergency put her on her mettle. She dabbed make-up on her face and went to the door.

Before her stood a young girl with a white and rose complexion her expert eye knew to be natural, and wide gray eyes. Yet when the girl spoke her voice was firm and determined—held even a suggestion of defiance.

"Good evening! I am Joyce Merrow. Can I come in and talk to you?"

The girl Roland had wanted to marry! An emergency indeed. To Connie the most alarming thing was that the girl should be there at all. How could she possibly have found the flat?

"Of course! Do come in!" Connie's manner was wholly correct as she led her caller into the black and gold sitting room.

The girl glanced round the room without interest. Satisfying herself that there was no one else present, she came at once to her point.

"I want to speak to Mr. Blatch, please."

"Mr. Blatch! I know no one of that name. And really, Miss Merrow, this is all rather extraordinary. May I ask how you found your way here?"

"Does it matter? If you don't know him by the name of Blatch, I think you know the man I mean, Miss—or is it Mrs.—Maviste. He joined you—on the staff of the Whisperer—a few days ago."

Connie was terrified but did not show it. The only explanation of the girl's knowledge was that Roland must have communicated with her.

"He is not here!" she faltered, trying to laugh at the reference to the Whisperer but failing. "I tell you, he is not here! If that is all you've come to see me about——"

Bright Sayings of the Children

Bobby, 2 years old, had built a playhouse and began another construction. He said, "Now I'm building a catalogue."

Mother—A catalogue?

Bobby—Yes, a lo ghouse for my cattle. A. N. L.

"Emily had been to school for the first time.

"Well, darling, and what did you learn?" asked her mother on Emily's return.

Selfish Fellow Makes Wife's Life Unhappy

Thinks Woman's Place Is in the Kitchen.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"I am a mother of two children of fine type. I have a husband who is of the old country type: selfish, no worries, no care. All he wants is his stomach filled. Never asks how, when, or where I pay my bills. Gives me so much per week, asks no questions, goes to bed at nine, gets up at seven, never says 'Goodbye,' never kisses me or the youngsters. Never offers a word of praise, thanks, or even approval. I have worked in business to give him a chance to make good.

"We have been married thirteen years. He is not interested in women. There's no complaint on that score. It's the man's selfishness that is intolerable. MRS. X."

Thus is presented a picture of the husband no woman wants. Better he'd come home rip snorting drunk once in a while, or even throw another woman scare into the domestic works now and then than to be one of those cold fish mates. Not that we're advocating drink orgies or other woman complications. We're just saying that the average woman, if reduced to a choice, would take the man with those faults rather than one who consistently and continuously denies her affection, appreciation and praise.

Were a woman serving as a domestic in some other man's household, beside her pay, which she could spend as she chose, she would get a word of praise for the coffee, the steak, or the pie, once in a while.

However, if you have a man of this sort on your hands, better not waste any time sitting down wringing said hands. Better face the crisis and figure out just what may be done about it. A woman may marry a man and not discover his selfishness until after the knot is tied. However, she does not have to go on nurturing the vice. True, the task of reforming one of that old country school in whose eyes the wife is more or less of a servant, is no easy one. At least, in our country, sympathy is with the wife. And, indeed, courts are open to her for lesser strain on the domestic emotions than this.

Two ways lie open to the woman of such a husband. Either she accepts him for what he is, keeps his stomach filled, lets him retire at nine and goes ahead and works out a life for herself, or else she pries around the gentleman to find out if there is not some weak spot that may be penetrated and a change for the better ensue. Maybe the man might be cajoled, flattered or bullied into a better semblance of a loving mate.

Maybe a campaign of telling him what a swell husband he is compared to other husbands, hinting how much more generous he is, how much brighter, better looking and all that he is might awake something inside the hard shelled soul. Or, maybe, just standing up and asserting a wife's rights to a few of the pleasantries might serve.

Doris Blake Answers

A Misconstruction.

"Dear Miss Blake: When with him my boy friend acts very nice to me, but when I'm not I never hear from him. What is the matter? DOLLY."

Is it possible you misconstrue ordinary friendship to mean something else?

A Foolish Gamble.

"Dear Miss Blake: I have known a boy for two weeks—my family objects to my marrying him. He wants me to elope. Please advise. FAN."

Don't. You shouldn't gamble on an elopement with a two weeks' acquaintance.

WIDOW'S DEATH RECALLS DISPUTE WITH ROOSEVELT

Storer Forced to Resign by Then President.

Washington, D. C., May 4.—[Special.]—News of the death yesterday in Paris of Mrs. Bellamy Storer, 83 years old, widow of the former American ambassador to Austria and aunt of the late Nicholas Longworth, today recalled her part in a major political scandal during the administration of Theodore Roosevelt.

Mrs. Storer was one of the leaders of Cincinnati society. Her daughter had married Count Jacques Adalbert de Chambrun and her nephew, Nicholas Longworth, later became the husband of Alice Roosevelt. Mrs. Storer met Roosevelt when her husband was a congressman in the early '90s and Roosevelt was civil service commissioner. The two families became intimate so that to each other they became Theodore, Alice, Bellamy and Maria [Mrs. Storer].

Sought to Elevate Archbishop.

Mrs. Storer had two ambitions, first to advance her husband politically, and second, to obtain the elevation of Archbishop John Ireland of St. Paul to the cardinalate. The latter she pressed while Roosevelt was still Vice President, securing letters in which he said the appointment would be well received in America.

On the death of McKinley Mrs. Storer urged the naming of her husband to the cabinet, but contented herself with gaining him the post of ambassador to Austria. There she resumed her efforts in behalf of Archbishop Ireland in frequent visits to Rome. She was a convert to Catholicism and in turn made a convert of her husband.

She and her husband obtained further letters from Roosevelt in which, with reservations, he recommended the appointment. The archbishop was popular throughout the country. The Storers, in pressing the appointment, drew the wrath of Roosevelt by announcing they had the sanction of the President in presenting their request to the pope.

Letters Brought to Light.

In very plain language Roosevelt addressed a letter to the Storers in which he scored them for their actions. When he received no reply he demanded the resignation of Storer, which was received March 7, 1906. Newspapers hinted at the cause of the resignation, but it was not until eight months later THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and the Boston Herald brought the correspondence to light.

Roosevelt was forced to make a statement in part an apology and in part a counter attack in which he described one of Storer's assertions as "not only an untruth but an absurd untruth." As the story burst it provoked great discussion and much jesting.

"Dear Maria" became a phrase to describe an indiscreet letter throughout the country. The entire episode was summed up by a wag in the phrase, "Dear Maria, you're a liar."

For Archbishop Ireland—an innocent victim—the situation was no comedy, as it precluded him from the red hat.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Here and There

MUSICIAN DIES

CARLTON COON.

The body of Carlton Coon, orchestra leader, was taken last night to his home in Kansas City, where funeral services will be held tomorrow. The body was viewed by friends yesterday in a chapel at 3409 West Madison street. Coon died early yesterday morning in the Henrotin Memorial hospital of poisoning, which developed from a jaw infection.

O. K. BILL TO GIVE $5,000 TO WIDOW OF DRY VICTIM

Washington, D. C., May 4.—(AP)—President Hoover today approved an award of $5,000 to a woman whose husband was slain by customs officers hunting smuggled merchandise. He signed without comment a measure to award that sum to Senelma Virkkula, widow of Henry Virkkula.

Virkkula, his wife, and two children had gone to Big Falls, Minn., on June 8, 1929, for a shopping tour. As they drove homeward Customs Patrol Officers Emil V. Servine and Emmet J. White attempted to stop them two miles south of Little Fork.

Apparently not seeing the "Stop—U. S. Officers" sign in the road, Virkkula drove on. Just as their machine passed the sign, Mrs. Virkkula said, four or five shots were fired into the automobile.

The house claims committee found "there was no evidence to show that Mr. Virkkula was a smuggler or bootlegger, for a search of the car after the shooting disclosed no liquor."

Hold Mother Who Shot Sheriff to Grand Jury

Mrs. Alma Miller, 35 years old, 1238 West 74th place, mother of five children, was held to the grand jury yesterday by Judge Howard Hayes in the Felony court, for shooting Deputy Sheriff Frank Rollins in the hand when he attempted to serve a replevin writ in her home. She said that Rollins tried to climb through a window and she thought that he was a burglar. Rollins said that he had a uniformed policeman with him.

$1,305,377 ESTATE OF ERLANGER IS WORTH BUT $124

$1,270,252 Listed as Uncollected Debts.

New York, May 4.—[Special.]—The net estate of Abraham L. Erlanger, late theater owner and producer, is $1,305,377.19, according to an intermediate accounting filed in the surrogate's court today.

CHARLOTTE FIXEL.

The present assets of the estate, according to the accounting, consist almost wholly of debts that remain either uncollected or uncollectable. These debts total $1,270,252.99. The accounting involves the administration of the estate between May 1, 1930, and March 31 of this year.

Actually Worth but $124.

The estate actually was worth but $124.25, plus $1,270,252.99 in debts "uncollected or uncollectable," according to the interim accounting.

Saul J. Baron, who filed the accounting, stated that when he became temporary administrator of the estate he found himself in control of an estate valued at $2,223,479.51. Funeral and administration expenses totaled $22,556.80 and $896,045.52 was paid out to creditors. Of this amount none was paid to legatees. Of the cash balance of $35,124.20 the sum of $35,000 is now in the form of a certificate of deposit held in escrow by the Bankers' Trust company for the benefit of the internal revenue department.

"Common Law Wife" Asks Share.

The accounting showed that on March 7, 1930, cash on hand in 11 banks and credited to the Erlanger estate totaled $849,950.38.

At the time of Mr. Erlanger's death his estate was estimated between $2,000,000 and $75,000,000.

Charlotte Fixel, former actress, is contesting for a "widow's" share of the estate as the common law wife of Erlanger. Her claims were the subject of a Surrogate court hearing lasting for 11 weeks, with the decision yet to be announced.

PLAN MEMORIAL FOR MRS. KELLEY, JULIA LATHROP

Friends of two humanitarians beloved in the social service world and by the thousands they served, will gather at Jane Addam's Hull house at 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. There they will pay tribute in a memorial service to Mrs. Florence Kelley, resident of Henry Street settlement, New York, and Miss Julia Lathrop, director of the children's bureau in Washington, D. C., who died recently.

Both were at one time associated with Miss Addams at Hull house. Mrs. Kelley was the first state factory inspector in Illinois. She was instrumental in obtaining the first factory bill, and the first child labor bill. She had been resident at the New York settlement for the past thirty years.

Miss Lathrop was the first chief of the children's bureau. At one time she was head of the charities commission of Illinois and she helped Graham Taylor found the first school of philanthropy here. She served the league of nations as a child welfare advisor.

Miss Addams will preside at the memorial. Speakers will be Mrs. Andrew McLeish, Miss Edith Wyatt, Judge A. A. Bruce, Miss S. P. Breckinridge, Mrs. Kenneth Rich, and Dr. Graham Taylor. Three songs composed by Eleanor Smith will be sung by the Hull House Music school. a cooperating committee planning the memorial was formed from representatives of twenty civic and educational organizations with which Mrs. Kelley and Miss Lathrop were closely associated.

VETERAN DIES

New York, May 4.—(AP)—Rear Admiral Colby M. Chester, retired, last commanding officer of the frigate Constitution while it was in active service, died tonight at the home of his son, Arthur T. Chester, in Rye. He was 88 and had been ill since March 1.

A graduate of the United States Naval academy, class of 1863, Admiral Chester participated in the battle of Mobile bay, the capture of Fort Morgan, and the capture of Mobile during the civil war.

In 1886 Admiral Chester was transferred from his command of the U. S. S. Galena with his crew and officers to the Constitution, which was then laid up at the navy yard in Portsmouth, N. H.

Chester figured prominently in the international complications of 1923 that grew out of the "Chester concession," which he obtained from Turkey. Had the concession been carried through successfully it would have placed Americans virtually in economic control of the new Turkey.

In 1925, however, it was announced the Ottoman-American Development company, the Chester organization, had accepted the offer of a British syndicate for its rights under the concession.

Funeral services will be in Washington and burial will be in Arlington cemetery.

Woman Who Came to Illinois in '52 Is Dead

Mrs. Ann Downey, 98 years old, died yesterday at her home at 7120 Coles avenue, after an illness of more than a year. Mrs. Downey came to Illinois as a bride in 1852 and her husband settled in De Kalb county as a pioneer farmer. They moved to Chicago in 1890. Mrs. Downey is survived by a son, Fred E. Downey, and a daughter, Mrs. Mary McGlenn.

Rites Held for H.W.Mallen, Furniture Manufacturer

Funeral services were held yesterday for H. W. Mallen, 75 years old, who died Monday in his home at 304 North Euclid avenue, Oak Park, after an illness of several months. Mr. Mallen was head of the H. Z. Mallen & Co., furniture manufacturers, at 346 St. Johns court. He is survived by four daughters and eight grandchildren.

Jose Mardones, Spanish Opera Singer, Dies at 63

MADRID, May 4.—(AP)—José Mardones, Spanish opera singer, who was connected with the Metropolitan opera in New York for a number of years, died today at the age of 63. Mardones made his first appearance on an American stage in 1908 in Boston.

PLOT TO POISON BRITISH MILITARY UNITS REVEALED

Use Common Weed of India in Scheme.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 4.—The discovery of a terroristic plot to poison wholesale the British cavalry, artillery, and engineering detachments at Wanowree and Kirkee in India was reported in dispatches from Delhi today. As a result, army orders have been issued to buy no more flour or cereals from Indian dealers.

The discovery was made by the army intelligence department at Poona, it was reported. A ton of flour which was sent the two posts last Saturday was discovered to contain two hundredweight of powdered datura, a deadly poison made from one of the most common weeds in India.

Rats Bare Plot.

The plot was revealed through the death of a hundred rats and mice which had reached the stores and nibbled at the sacks.

It is estimated that not more than one man out of five would have survived had the weed, known to Indians as "dunthura," been eaten. All contracts with native dealers were terminated and none will be renewed. Hereafter, all dominion supplies landed at government docks will be taken directly to army storehouses.

Costs Increased.

The action will increase the provisioning costs of the army and will mean a loss of millions of dollars annually to Indian grain dealers. Government supplies throughout India are now being subjected to scientific analysis. No arrests have been made thus far.

MILITARY RITES FOR INGERSOLL AT ARLINGTON

Washington, D. C., May 4.—[Special.]—The ashes of Robert G. Ingersoll, "America's great agnostic," were buried today with military ceremonies in Arlington National cemetery thirty-three years after his death.

Upon the tall, bronze urn which contained his remains was the inscription, "Learn God." And on the other side the epitaph, "This urn holds the heart, the dust, and the memory of Robert G. Ingersoll."

Only a small group attended the ceremonies. Added to a scattered remnant of his admirers in Washington were a few relatives from New York and a few men and women from Ingersoll's home state, Illinois.

Three speakers delivered eulogies. Representative William E. Hull of Peoria, Ill., spoke for the city where Ingersoll started the practice of law. Representative Kent Keller of "Little Egypt," Ill., represented the district in which Ingersoll was born, and Senator Royal S. Copeland of New York delivered an address.

Ingersoll's ashes rest in Arlington because of his service in the civil war. He organized the 11th Illinois regiment, commanded it, and raised and equipped two others. A squad of soldiers from Fort Myer fired a salute over the grave and a bugler blew taps as the urn was lowered into the ground.

MEMEL GERMANS BALK LITHUANIAN BID FOR POWER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MEMEL, May 4.—Early returns indicate that Germans in Memel-land have won a sweeping victory in the election of a new parliament today.

With 120 of 230 voting places reported, the returns indicate that the Lithuanian agitation has failed and that the Germans, by holding twenty-four of the twenty-nine seats, have successfully repulsed Lithuania's attempt to gain the upper hand.

The election was sharpened by the tense Lithuanian and German relations. The German minister at Kaunas today protested strongly against demonstrations in front of the Gtrman consulate in Memel and granting of citizenship to several thousand Lithuanians in the Memel district recently.

The elections passed with only minor disturbances. Heavy voting was reported and in some districts a 100 per cent vote was cast. The Germans were especially bitter at the recent decision of the present Lithuanian administration to expel twenty-one teachers holding German passports who have taught for years here. They were discharged because they do not speak Lithuanian.

Germans Relieved.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TILSIT, East Prussia, Germany, May 4.—Results of the Memel district elections were hailed with relief and satisfaction here as they disclosed a remarkable growth in the strength of pro-German parties. The combined Lithuanian parties, on the other hand, had fewer votes than in 1930. The Socialists also had small losses to the communists.

FIVE SPECIAL TRAINS TO CARRY CHICAGOANS TO DERBY

RAIL TRAFFIC TO RACE LIGHTEST IN FIVE YEARS

Interest Wanes with Stars' Withdrawal

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 4.—With Universe now listed as a doubtful starter in the Kentucky Derby on Saturday, it appeared probable tonigh that a field of 14 would go to the post. There still are 20 horses which might be started, but besides Universe there are five that are expected to be withdrawn before post time. The probable field:

Fewer special trains carrying Chicagoans to Louisville for the Kentucky Derby will leave the city this week-end than at any time in the last five years, railroad officials said yesterday. Only four have been chartered. A fifth will be chartered by a railroad.

Airplane transport companies likewise declare a pronounced decrease in passenger traffic. Interest generally is so light in comparison to other years that many of the city's leading clubs, which formerly operated their own Derby specials, have not even handled admission tickets for the race this year.

The Monon railroad in 1929 operated 11 special trains to Louisville. Last year only three were run and this year the company reports not a single request. The company will operate its own all expense Derby train for the first time. Reservations for this train are said by Monon officials to be light. Two other roads have announced only four chartered trains.

Withdrawals Kill Interest.

General economic conditions and the withdrawal of Burning Blaze, a Chicago owned horse, and Top Flight, the eastern favorite, are held responsible for this marked decrease in patronage. Top Flight and Burning Blaze were the outstanding horses in the race until injuries last Saturday precluded any chance of their participation. This eliminated the traditional New York vs. Chicago rivalry, and is said to have had a noticeable effect on requests for reservations.

Track officials, however, expect the crowd at Churchill Downs Saturday to compare favorably with that of other years. They point out that more persons are making the trip by automobile this year and expect the motor hegira to bring the customary crush at the turnstiles.

Requests for hotel accommodations at French Lick, Ind., whence most of the Chicago motorists will drive to Louisville Saturday morning, have not been as heavy as in former years, H. J. Fawcett, manager of the French Lick Springs hotel, said. But the customary last minute demands are being made and driving Derby fans are expected to exhaust accommodations tomorrow night.

Chicagoans at French Lick.

Among the prominent Chicagoans who have reserved rooms at French Lick for tonight are:

Mr. and Mrs. William Yager, Mrs. Jacob Baur, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Plamondon, C. H. Lydall, Bernice Challenger Bost, Judge and Mrs. Thomas Taylor, Judge and Mrs. Philip Sullivan, Mrs. C. E. Sceleth, Mrs. H. F. Morris.

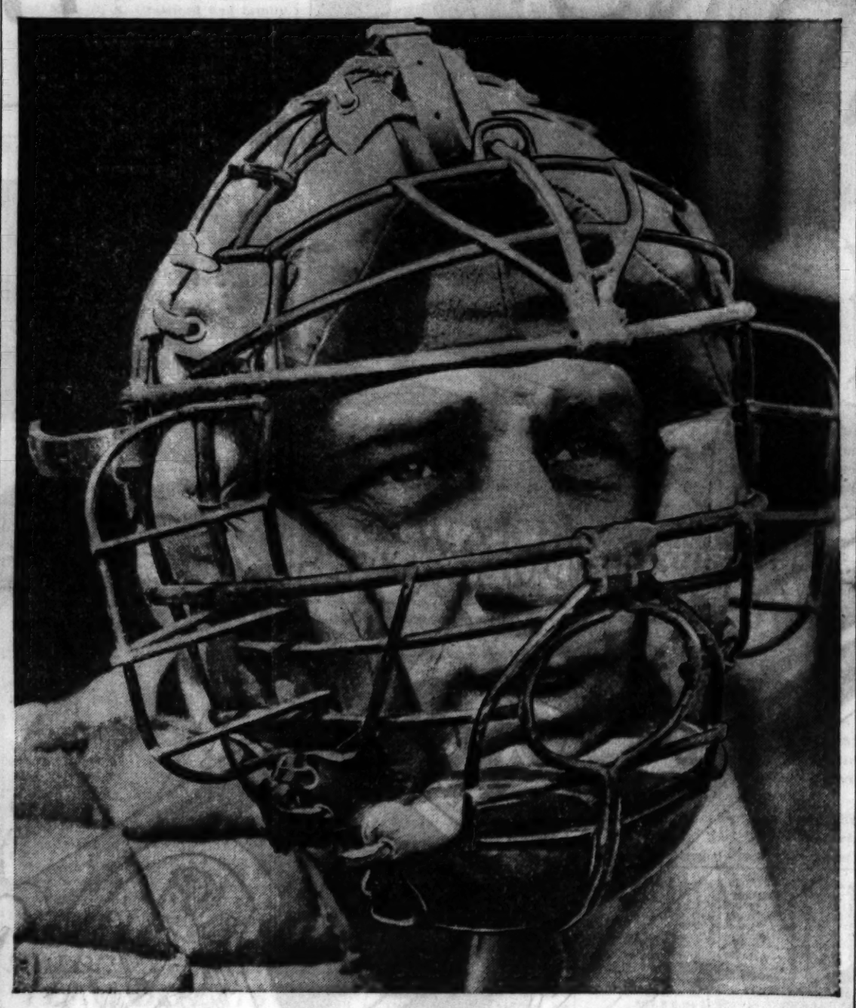
WATCHING THOSE HOMERS SAIL INTO STANDS



Charles Berry, new White Sox catcher, peers through his mask, following the course of a batted ball as it arches out toward the outfield. Berry, who came to the Sox from Boston in the deal for Watwood, Jolley, and Tate, is proving a valuable addition to the Comiskey club, even though the team continues its losing ways. UNIVERSE HURT IN DRILL; MAY BE OUT OF DERBY

BY HARVEY WOODRUFF.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Louisville, Ky., May 4.—Universe, winner of the Wood Memorial stake at Jamaica last Saturday in which Top Flight received the defeat which caused her withdrawal from the Kentucky Derby, today joined the list of casualties to which Burning Blaze, besides Top Flight, has already succumbed. Universe pulled up limping after a slow workout this morning and the report spread that the Infinite colt had spread a hoof.

Examination at the stable afterward disclosed the injury was a sprain of the coffin joint wherein are the small bones just above the heel. Trainer Bauer said final decision whether the colt would start would be reserved until tomorrow after a night of tubbing which was producing favorable results this evening. Owner Cassidy was apprised of the injury by telegraph and was asked for advice. Those old turfmen to whom a mishap to a Derby colt, judged by years of experience, always is something serious, are unanimous that Universe will be an absentee.

Workout Is Slow.

In his workout Universe breezed over the full Derby route in 2:13 2-5, one of the slowest of the day. He did not act full of run at the finish, which no doubt was due to his injury.

Final workouts of other candidates for the Derby, with the exception of Lucky Tom and Liberty Limited, took place this morning. From now until Saturday trainers who have spent FEED BOX DOPE.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 4.—[Special.]—"Well coming around to see a Derby winner at last, are you?" was Adobe Post's jovial greeting as we strolled up to the Knebelkamp and Morris barn this morning. "I'm your baby, just the kind you've been looking for, Wake."

The Cherokee gelding was in rare good humor by reason of his unexpected victory in the Derby preparation yesterday as he extended his foreleg to shake hands. "Have a cigar while we talk it over and if that groom moves away, I'll slip you an eyeful of that Indiana stuff from Jeffersonville. I keep a little medicine in my locker and sneak a nip now and then, but, of course, I'm in training so have to be careful.

"Harve, I'm the fellow all you chaps say may cop the Derby this year on the theory it's an open race. No, I wasn't so hot as a 2 year old although I did win four times out of 21 starts, and only eight times outside the money. Of course, I didn't meet these so-called champions, but just take this dope sheet and see if you notice anything."

"Well, you always seemed to be finishing strong," we ventured.

"That's it," Adobe Post beamed. "There's not a race in that whole list of 21 in which I was not placed much better at the finish than at the head of the stretch. This Derby, Harve, is a route. I came from 'way back yesterday and won going away. I read you spoke lightly of it because of the time, but that was as fast as I had to go."

"Yes, but how about those races you lost to Brother Joe and Burning Blaze?"

"No excuse for Brother Joe race," the frank gelding responded. "Perhaps some mountain dew I had the night before didn't help any, but let's offer no alibis on that. I was only 3½ lengths back of Burning Blaze in a sprint and that also is no disgrace. Perhaps, Harve, I'm another Spanish Play, always finishing up there but not eating the cake, and then again I might be a champion. I'll wager 100 shares of Middle West common that more finish behind me than in front of me Saturday.

"Nice thing for Chicago, if I'd win, now that Burning Blaze is out. You know Dick Morris, one of my owners, in the C. A. A. crowd. You must know his brother Tom, too, out at Skokie. Well, if I do cop, just consider yourself invited to a victory celebration out at the Edgemere where Charlie will fix us up one of his Turf and Field club dinners with trimmings. There, the groom's gone now, help yourself."

"Give me a rain check. Too early in the morning. Good luck Saturday," we replied as we took our departure.

This Wake Is Conducted By Harvey T. Woodruff. Help! Help!

Sande On Over Time.

After conversing with Adobe Post, the Wake trekked to the barns of Mrs. John Hay Whitney expecting to find Stepenfetchit. Instead, Over Time, a stable mate, also by The Porter, was on duty.

"Where's the other chestnut?" we asked.

"Why, hello, Wake," said Over Time. "It's good to see an old friend out here where I'm a newcomer. Steppy? O, he's a fast worker, at least I mean socially," and the good looking chestnut emitted what sounded suspiciously like a horse laugh. "We were hardly off the cars before he fell for one of these good looking western fillies and they're out on the track cantering together. Imagine, he insisted on wearing a topcoat and spats.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

White Sox pitchers continue to swoon despite juicy leads and the Sox continue to lose, the only difference yesterday being that Tommy Thomas swooned in installments instead of one big faint. The score of the latest humiliation was Tigers, 8; Sox, 7.

In making it 13 flops in their last 14 starts, the Sox dissipated a lead of 5 to 0 which they enjoyed at the end of the second inning and a 7 to 4 edge which they possessed at the end of the sixth.

Thomas pitched his home run and double ball almost exclusively. Of the nine hits off Tommy three were homers, and four were doubles. He did not allow a single until the seventh.

Gehringer hit a homer with two on in the fourth; Walker got one with none on in the sixth, and Stone provided the runs essential to victory when he cracked the ball into the right field stands with two on in the seventh.

More Pitching Inefficiency.

As usual, the setback yesterday was purely the fault of pitching inefficiency. The new Sox team played errorless ball and every one in the starting lineup, except Manager Fonseca, contributed to the 13 hits amassed by the Chicagoans. Manager Fonseca—and who can blame a man so beset?—had a sad day personally. He was at bat four times and each time furnished the third out with runners on second or on second and third. In all Boss Lew permitted six of his hirelings to perish on base when a single in any instance would have scored the hindmost fellow.

The team did not quit after Stone's homer put them in arrears, 8 to 7, in the first of the seventh. Appling, the team's leading hitter, tripled to the centerfield wall with one out and the chance of tying the score seemed imminent. Then Charley Berry tapped one toward third. Third Baseman Richardson came in a mile a minute, grabbed up the ball with his bare hand, and throwing off balance, slammed the ball to Catcher Hayworth in time to sink Luke at the plate, a most depressing bit of efficiency on the part of a second string infielder.

Great Start, But Alas!

The Sox were leading 5 to 0 at the end of the second inning by virtue of one run obtained in the first inning and a much larger bunch in the second. Seeds started the Sox offensive with an infield single, but was forced by Selph. Selph went to second while Gehringer was throwing out Blue and scored on Kress' single to left. Red reached second on the throw in, but died when Fonseca flied to Johnson.

There was much excitement at the

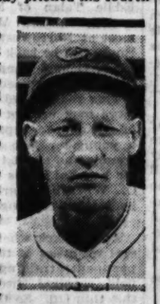
Warneke Rewards Cubs' Faith After Three Years

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pittsburgh, Pa., May 4.—If Lon Warneke, who today pitched his fourth straight victory, keeps up a pace even close to that people are going to ask where he came from and how the Cubs happened to stumble on to him.



LON WARNEKE.

It wasn't a case of stumbling. It was the result of keen judgment of a scout. But the young man who was raised on an Arkansas farm and never knew what a baseball was until he reached high school, wasn't a bargain in dollars. To get him the Cubs handed over $10,000 to the Shreveport Texas league club, which had been shunting the then gangling kid back and forth between Shreveport and its affiliate, the Alexandria, La., Cotton States league team.

That fabulous price was paid not because Warneke had done anything exceptional, but because the scout saw an unusual prospect for development. He proved to be just what the scout had said about him.

Mr. Flaherty on the Trail.

For several years now it has been the job of Patsy Flaherty, himself an old pitcher of one time consequence, to drift around in the leagues of the southland to see what he could see for the Cubs. In his travels as an ivory snooper he happened into Alexandria in the summer of 1929 and Warneke caught his fancy. The lad had a world of speed and fair control. He was the loose, rangy type all scouts seek for pitchers. Flaherty kept on the trail for a time and then, more enthusiastic than he had been the first time he watched the prospect, suggested to headquarters that a deal be made. It was.

Warneke was carted to the Catalina Island camp along with the other green peas in the spring of 1930. Right from the start, merely because of his physical appearance and his manners on the ball field, he was picked as the prize of the pack. But except for throwing a fast ball he didn't know exactly what pitching was all about. So he was turned over, under option, to the Reading International league team so that he might pick up a few pointers. He came back that fall and hasn't been away since, but he almost escaped.

Newark Wants to Seize Him.

Late in 1930 the Cubs developed a need for a pitcher, especially a left hander. The minor league rosters were combed and the best to be found was Jess Petty, a former Robin, pitching at Newark. The veteran was purchased on the installment plan. A certain sum was paid down at the time of delivery and $12,500 or a player was to be turned over during the winter months between the seasons of 1930 and '31.

Al Mamaux, the former National league pitcher who was managing Newark, told the Cub officials that he would rather have Warneke than the cash. Mamaux had seen the youngster work in a few International league games and didn't hesitate to inform the Cubs that he thought Warneke would become one of the greatest pitchers in the game. To prove that they respected Mamaux's judgment, the Cubs immediately presented a $12,500 check to close the Petty transaction.

Develops Great Curve.

In the training camp a year ago Warneke was given plenty of instructions on a curve and change of pace. For the latter he developed a "screw ball," and the curve improved until it now is about as sharp as you can get 'em. After that course of tutoring Manager Rogers Hornsby thought the pupil about ready for work on the big time circuit. He was shoved into a game against St. Louis, and a legacy of three men on base proved too much. He failed to live up to expectations.

That experience almost shattered his confidence, so for the rest of the season Hornsby had to nurse him carefully. He finished his first big league season with two victories against four defeats. This year the spring course of instructions was continued, and it must have helped, as evidenced by his 8 to 2, 2 to 1, 5 to 3, and 4 to 1 victories. He's only 23 years old, so he has a long road ahead.

How Come We Can't Get Rich on Horses? Tips Cheap

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Copyright: 1932: By The Chicago Tribune.]

New York, May 4.—This is a fine time for any one having no scruples against betting on a sure thing to solve the depression by wagering on the Kentucky Derby. Of course, it would be necessary to know the name of the winner in advance, because otherwise the wager might leave one more depressed than ever, but I see by some of the horse track publications that several noble altruists, gifted with secret sight, have secret information which they are willing to impart to one and all for a nominal fee.

This is kind and generous of them, especially considering that in all cases the information is backed by their guarantee and also by their personal reputations. Then, also, there is another reassuring circumstance. That is that these horse track publications are devoted to the improvement of the breed of horses and would not be likely to entertain any advertisement concerning extravagant or unreliable promises.

Certainly Is Amazing.

Sometimes I am amazed that the mutuels and the handbooks which carry on dealings on the races are not bankrupted by people wagering on sure things obtained from these sources for a nominal fee, but it seems never to happen. It may mean that the majority of American citizens are too honest and sporting to wager on a sure thing and therefore refuse to avail themselves of the opportunity to become independently wealthy.

Or—and I advance this thought with the utmost reluctance—it might just possibly be that this information is not always reliable. But I do not like to make this suggestion, because the advertisements sound so enthusiastic and sincere.

I have a friend in the horse paper business whose journal is constantly crowded with advertisements of this character, and it would be a great blow to my faith in human kind to learn that he had ever knowingly permitted the publication of an ad offering advance information on a race which did not come true. There are about a dozen steady clients who run advertisements in his publication, and by an interesting coincidence they all operate at the same address.

It Just Can't Be So.

By a still more fascinating prank of chance this address is the same as the address of the publication office from which the journal is issued. There have been malicious rumors to which I have always refused to listen that the expert handicappers or fortune tellers named in these ads are fictitious characters and that my friend is all of them, picking a different horse under each name each day. But I know this is not the case, because he has told me so personally.

He has even offered to introduce me to some of them, personally, some day when it can be arranged, although it has never happened yet, because they are all very busy men, constantly on the go from early morning until late at night attending to the thousand and one details of a business conducted solely in the interests of the public. Moreover, if my friend had his information himself he would be likely to wager on some of those sure things. That would soon make him excessively rich.

Always Back Home and Broke.

I regret to say, however, that he is not excessively rich. On the contrary, when he returned from Florida a few weeks ago his greeting to his friends was "back home and broke." In fact his greeting to his friends every time he returns from a horse meeting is "back home and broke."

I do not suppose there is any class of altruists in the world so selfless as the horse track altruists who foretell the names of the winners of races for a nominal fee. One sees poor but

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pittsburgh, Pa., May 4. — Lonnie Warneke, the 23 year old Arkansas wisecracker, still is sitting on top of the world. He came through with another pitching masterpiece, his fourth of the infant campaign, today and was supported by enough hitting to enable him to lead the Cubs to a 4 to 1 triumph in the rubber game of the three day stay in the Pirates' den.

In adding another chapter to his brief but so far sensational career as a major leaguer, Warneke held the enemy to six hits. Five of these came in the first four innings, but that merely added to the luster of his performance. In two of these four innings the first batter reached base.

In the other two a pair of batters survived with none out. But Warneke's skill, linked with the dashing inner defense, kept all except one of these fellows from getting as far as third. That was the man who scored. After that there was only one Pirate hit.

French Is Good, Too.

The nonchalant young Lonnie now has three teams on his personal list of victims. He started making himself known the second day of the season when he defeated Cincinnati, 8 to 2, on an allowance of eight hits. When the Reds came to Chicago he gave them another whipping, 2 to 1, on nine hits in 12 innings.

The world champion Cardinals staggered in for a visit and Warneke cold shouldered them, 5 to 3, on seven hits. Add all this to what little the Pirates did to his curve ball today and you have a grand total of seven runs and 30 hits in 39 innings of pitching.

Warneke today was pitted against a fellow almost as clever as himself and it was only by getting the maximum results from limited opportunities that the Chicagoans were able to win. Larry [Lefty] French furnished all the trouble. He was relieved for a pinch hitter after eight innings. During that time, only five Chicago hits were recorded.

Two of these were paired for a run in the second inning. Two more along with a walk and boner furnished another tally in the third. And then nothing more happened until the ninth, when with Leon Chagnon pitching, Bill Jurges made victory doubly sure by tripling with two on base.

They Like Chagnon.

Warneke started by assuring the Pirates it took more than men on base to annoy him. Little Waner opened the Pirates' first inning with a single off Lonnie's shin. Brother Paul walked. Piet bunted, but Warneke's throw to Hack forced Little Waner at third. Then Traynor fanned and Suhr grounded to Grimm. The first two men in the second also reached base, both on singles, but Hartnett picked Dugas off second with a perfect throw and Brenzel bounced into a double play.

Stephenson and Hartnett pieced together the first Cub run in the second inning. After Richbourg flied out to center, Stevie drove French's first pitch down the left field line for a double. Hartnett singled through short and Stevie scored. Grimm hit one squarely enough, but Suhr grabbed it, pegged to Vaughan to force Gabby and Vaughan shot it back to Suhr long before Grimm arrived at first base.

The Cub run in the third was attained with a little Pirate assistance. With two out, Hack singled to center and raced to third when Herman singled past Piet on a hit and run play. Moore ran the count to 3 and 1 and on the next pitch Herman dashed for second.

Brenzel Wasn't Thinking.

The pitch was wide, entitling Moore to first, but Brenzel didn't wait to learn what the umpire thought about it. He whipped a throw to second. Meanwhile Hack was racing home and scored easily. Hack was credited with

BIG TEN BOXING CHAMPS ARRIVE FOR LEGION SHOW

33 Title Holders on Big List of Entries.

Thirty-three boys, champion amateur boxers from seven Western conference universities and Lewis institute, Loyola university, and Armour Tech of Chicago, have entered the intercollegiate boxing tournament, which starts tomorrow night at the Stadium. There will be 16 bouts each night, it was announced yesterday from the headquarters of the American Legion, which is sponsoring the meet.

The competitors, many of whom will arrive today for final drills, are outstanding in the sport, which, while it never has been recognized by the conference, is a part of the intramural program at nearly all the universities. The University of Wisconsin, which will be represented by four boxers, is an example. Five thousand students and townspeople saw the finals of the intramural tournament at Madison early in March.

Schmeling Kin Enters.

Wisconsin's entry includes that of Max Knecht of Germany, a relative of Max Schmeling, the heavyweight professional champion. Knecht will compete as a heavyweight, although he is not over the 175 pound limit for light heavyweights. Elmer Apple of Purdue, the only other heavyweight in the meet, will fight Knecht for the title.

Warren Sandstrom, Armour Tech's only entry, is one of the favorites in the 118 pound class. Sandstrom, who lives at 6258 Wrightwood avenue, never has been knocked down in six years of competition.

Three Not Represented.

Joe Oakley, featherweight champion of the University of Michigan's team of five, comes heralded as one of the best in the 126 pound division. He lives in Youngstown, O. Oakley will meet, among others, Bud Marcy of Loyola university. Marcy was an alternate on this year's intercity Golden Gloves team.

Indiana, Northwestern, and Chicago will not be represented in the tournament.

According to an announcement from the Chicago Stadium yesterday, Jimmy McLarnin, Vancouver, B. C., junior welterweight, will be sidetracked for Tony Canzoneri, lightweight champion. A recent Stadium announcement said McLarnin would meet the winner of the Billy Petrolle-Bat Battalino encounter May 20. The latest information is that Canzoneri has agreed to fight the Petrolle-Battalino winner. Battalino, who has started training at Hartford, Conn., will be in Chicago a week before the match. Petrolle will arrive May 14.

LOTT, DAVIS CUP TRIO TO DISPLAY SKILL SATURDAY

Harry Knox, vice president of the United States Lawn Tennis association, yesterday was predicting that Chicago tennis fans will see the best net performances of the season Saturday afternoon at the Chicago Town and Tennis club. George Lott, Chicago's greatest player and former member of the Davis cup team, will appear in a program that will give Chicagoans a chance to see three members of the 1932 Davis cup team in action.

Saturday's matches will give Ellsworth Vines, national champion; Frank Shields, and John Van Ryn further opportunity to tune up for the Davis cup campaign. The cup is held by France. Only Wilmer Allison of the United States team which turned back Canada recently will be missing Saturday at the Town and Tennis club, located at Ridge and Granville avenues.

Two singles and a doubles match are scheduled. Lott is paired with Vines in the featured singles number and Shields will oppose Van Ryn. Lott and Van Ryn will pair for the doubles against Vines and Shields.

BROOKS WITH MILWAUKEE.

Mandy Brooks, former Cub player, will be in the lineup of the Milwaukee Red Sox when they invade Shewbridge field Sunday afternoon for a Wisconsin-Illinois league game with the Duffy Florals.

How Come We All Don't Get Rich Betting?

honest newsboys on the street corners offering envelopes containing the winners—most of them long shots, too—and it is perfectly plain that these newsboys do not abuse their fortunate position to wager on this information themselves and wipe out the mutuels and books. They are not any too well dressed and they toil long hours in the cold of winter and the heat of summer selling newspapers, horse papers, and winners, which are called specials.

Special and More Special.

Once, in Saratoga, I thought I had caught a newsboy in a dishonest evasion of his solemn promise to make good his guarantee of a superspecial. He had two kinds of specials, the ordinary 50 cent specials in green envelopes and the superspecials, which cost a dollar, in red envelopes. He explained that the superspecial was more special than the ordinary special because it was a longer shot, although his ordinary specials were pretty long at that.

I bought a superspecial for a dollar and could hardly wait for the race to bet $10 on the horse. It was really no honorable thing to do, because all those unfortunate other people who were wagering on the race were ignorant of the information which I had picked up for a dollar. Something detained by superspecial, however, and he did not finish in the money, but I reflected that, after all, the guarantee was my protection.

Everything Becomes Clearer.

The next morning I requested the return of my $10. He refused to make good the loss, but my resentment disappeared when he explained how the guarantee was meant. The guarantee meant that I could keep on coming back for superspecials until I got one that would pay off. It was quite fair, after all. He just hadn't been explicit enough in the first place; but then I hadn't asked him to explain in detail. Still, I began to understand why he was still a newsboy and not a millionaire.

Misunderstandings are always occurring. I was induced the other day to serve as a judge in a contest represented to me as a national dog contest to select the most beautiful pair of dogs in the United States. Arriving at the scene of the contest, I was surprised to learn the the term dogs had been used in the colloquial rather than the literal sense. They were selecting the most beautiful pair of feminine feet and, moreover, the entrants were all Ziegfeld ladies, whose feet, when they took their shoes and stockings off, were all pretty badly spavined from toe and tap dancing.

Like Tris Speaker's Dogs.

I sincerely trust that there was no great volume of betting on the outcome of this dog contest, because it was my judgment that they were the most gruesome dogs I had ever seen since I was out on tour with Mr. C. C. Pyle's bunion Derby and that the contest was no contest. There were two famous artists on the jury and they finally voted for a little brunette with big blues eyes, but I will have to insist that all the feet in the contest reminded me of Tris Speaker's feet in the latter days of his outfielding career when he was suffering from fever in the dogs.

Don Bennett Seen as New Ohio Hope in Sprint Events

BY WILFRID SMITH.

DON BENNETT.

When George Simpson was graduated from Ohio State university in 1930 it was thought that the Buckeyes would yield first place in the sprints for a long time. Simpson, you will remember, ran the 100 yards in 9 4-10 seconds and the 220 yards in 20 8-10 seconds, phenomenal marks notwithstanding that he used starting blocks.

Ohio State did yield last year to Eddie Tolan of Michigan, but this spring, in the Western conference meet at Northwestern on May 21, the Bucks will be back again with a sophomore, Donald Bennett, for whom new honors are claimed.

This red headed 22 year old sophomore took up foot racing for the best of reasons, to improve his health. As a youngster Don suffered from lung trouble and spent two years in a fresh air hospital in his home town, Toledo, O. When he returned to grade school he started running.

At the park where he practiced several members of the Toledo police department, training for a track and field carnival, became interested in this thin lad. So they pooled together and bought him his first pair of track shoes. Don has been at the game ever since. Recently he noticed an article in a magazine by a prominent physician who declared athletics are detrimental to health. Bennett will argue this conclusion at any time.

Bennett gained national recognition when, a student at Libbey High school, Toledo, he entered the Olympic sprint trials at Cambridge, Mass., and ran second to George Simpson.

Just recently, competing in one of his first meets, he gave promise of what may be expected. He ran the 100 meters in 10 4-10 seconds, one-fifth of a second faster than the Olympic record which Percy Williams of Canada tied in the 1928 meet. His time also equaled the accepted world mark set by Charles Paddock in 1921 and tied by Eddie Tolan in 1929.

In the 200 meters Bennett was timed in 21 6-10 seconds, which equals the Olympic mark and the accepted world record. This distance is Bennett's favorite.

Bennett is a "straight" runner, not unlike Simpson, except that he carries himself more erect.

Western State Defeats Notre Dame Nine, 4 to 1

Notre Dame, Ind., May 4.—[Special.]—Vic Neigenfind pitched a four hit game for Western State Normal here this afternoon to give the Hilltoppers a 4 to 1 victory over Notre Dame. Al Johnson, Kalamazoo first sacker, hit a home run inside the park in the third inning after Charley Pait had walked two men. The Notre Dame run was scored by Denny O'Keefe on three consecutive errors.

Mr. Crow's a Smart Bird, but Owl Decoy Fools Him

BY BOB BECKER.

Many groups of sportsmen in the central states are taking time these spring days to cut down the crow population in their territories. C. L. Keohen writes that sportsmen of Oskaloosa, Ia., have been active lately in trying to decimate the crows and have had success shooting over mounted owls.

"The sportsmen feel," he writes, "that they would like to vary their 'lures,' which in the main are stuffed owls. I recall that recently you had an article on crow hunting. If you have any suggestion on methods which you have found successful, wish you would relay them to us."

Owl Decoy Called Best.

The mounted owl decoy, plus skillful use of a wooden crow caller, still is the best combination that we know of to lure crows within gun range. Some of the boys use regular crow decoys, but we never have tried such a stunt.

Briefly, a set of rules or suggestions for crow hunting might be drawn up like this:

1. Use a crow call. If you do not know the calls, better go out the first time with some one who can teach you how to call up crows. Above all, remember it is better at this time of the year not to call too much because the birds respond quickly and easily. The other day we found that on three different occasions crows came up immediately following three high pitched alarm notes from our caller.

2. Keep out of sight and sit still until you shoot. Crows are smart and have good eyes. If they can see you they are likely to stay out of gun range, although the sight of an owl frequently causes them to lose their heads and dive low and close to your blind.

Place Decoy in Open.

3. Place the owl decoy where it can be seen easily. Last week we sometimes placed our mounted owl on the ground and in two different places we used the tops of fence posts near our hideout for an owl "perch."

4. Don't hold your fire until too many crows have arrived around your owl decoy. Start shooting as soon as the first birds come, for as soon as you shoot the crows will shy away. So it's much better to open up on the first ones rather than frighten off 15 or 20. Don't hesitate about moving several times to new blinds and sets. On our recent hunt west of Wheaton we moved three times in an hour. But it paid in shots obtained and birds downed.

CARDS SHUT OUT REDS, 7-0.

St. Louis, Mo., May 4.—(AP)—The world champion St. Louis Cardinals climbed back into the first division of the National league today when Flint Rhem shut out Cincinnati, 7 to 0, and forced the Reds into fifth place. It was Rhem's third victory this season and came on the heels of Dean's shutout of the Reds yesterday.

Catcher Gus Mancuso made a hit in each of four times at bat today and knocked a home run his first time up. Blades also slammed out a home run, with one on, in the fifth inning during which the Cards scored five times.

Fenger Hands Bowen First Defeat, 1 to 0

Bowen suffered its first defeat of the City Public High School Baseball league season yesterday when it lost to Fenger, 1 to 0, in a south section game at West Pullman park. Bowen, defending sectional champion, had scored five victories.

Bowen was held to one hit by Flesvig. Fenger pitcher. Fenger scored the winning run in the sixth inning on an error by Catcher Tucker. Jimmy McKirchy and Frank Plack pitched for Bowen and yielded three hits.

Tilden strengthened its lead in the central section by defeating Lindblom, 5 to 2, at Normal park. Joe Pichler of Tilden allowed five hits. Oliva made a double and a single in three times at bat for Tilden.

In north division games, Schurz won from Lake View, 7 to 5, at Welles park, and Senn shut out Roosevelt, 4 to 0, at River park, for its first victory of the league season. Scores:

How to Drive There.

The Chicago Motor club recommends US-41, US-30, Ind.-53, and US-52 to Indianapolis and US-31 and US-31E to Louisville, to those who desire to drive direct from the loop to Churchill Downs.

The Midland club and Morrison hotel will run special trains over the Pennsylvania system. Both will leave tomorrow night. These are all-expense trains and are operating at a slight reduction from the prices in previous years.

Approximately 50 persons will make up the Morrison hotel party, which was originally planned for nearly three times that number. Only 25 have made reservations on the Midland section.

The first trains to leave the loop will be Edward J. McCabe's 11th annual Derby special, which will carry the Democratic club of Chicago out of the Union station over the Pennsylvania tonight, and the Bloom-Skidmore special over the Baltimore and Ohio.

Special Train Lists.

Joseph B. McDonough, Hugh Connelly, Edward McAvoy, J. J. Touhy, M. J. O'Connor, Thomas D. Nash, Joseph Drell, Leonard Lange, Otto Woertar and party, and George Woodward.

John Gordon, M. J. Long, Clarence Beautell, Abe Shiffman, Edward Steinberg, Dr. D. E. Meaney, Edward Hartigan, Dr. Otto Kolar and party, M. Bunyan, Charles D. Duffy Jr.

Frank Carroll and party, James T. Shealy, J. J. Brown, Edith Taggart, Sylvia Anderson, Roger Kiley, William J. Menally, Capt. M. Grady, Thomas Burke, Thomas Maloy, and Ralph O'Hara.

Among those in the Midland club party which will leave tomorrow night are:

Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Nelson Jr. and family, Walter Kemp, Margaret Schwenk, John P. Noonan and daughter, Thomas W. Dower and party, Agnes Ryan, and Gertrude Roache.

MAROON TENNIS TEAM DEFEATS PURPLE, 5 TO 1

The University of Chicago tennis team defeated Northwestern in a dual meet on the Midway yesterday, five matches to one. Nelson Dodge, playing No. 1 for the Purple, won his team's only match by defeating Paul Stagg, 6-2, 6-4. Summaries:

SINGLES—Dodge [N.] defeated Stagg [C.], 6-2, 6-4; Davidson [C.] defeated Tetting [N.], 2-6, 6-4, 7-5; Ries [C.] defeated Fuller [N.], 6-4, 8-6, 6-3; Schmidt [C.] defeated Olson [N.], 6-3, 6-1.

DOUBLES—Stagg and Davidson [C.] defeated Dodge and Tetting [N.], 9-7, 6-1; Schmidt and Ries [C.] defeated Fuller and Hails [N.] 4-6, 7-5, 6-4.

Illinois Wesleyan Beats Normal for Three in Row

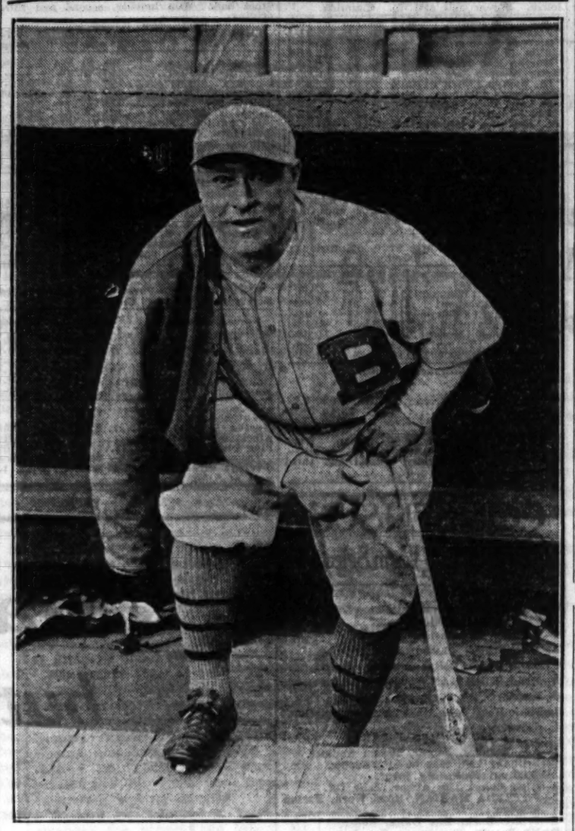
GREETINGS, HACK!



Hack Wilson will be back in center field at Wrigley field this afternoon, but he's going to look a bit different in a Brooklyn uniform. Hack has not hit so many home runs this season. Perhaps he's been saving them for a special occasion, his return to an old stamping ground.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

How can a chap do any work togged up like that?

"Suppose you want to know about the Derby? Well, we're Whitneys. So by marriage at least, we're related to Top Flight. You know the history of Whitney colts in the Derby—always trying and always game, whether beaten or not. That's the tradition we have to uphold.

"Stepenfetchit didn't race much last year, but he's greatly improved. I always was entered among the good ones without getting many bows, in that Pimlico Futurity which cousin Topsy won I was eighth, pretty far back, but I was away poorly, then made up a lot of ground.

"Now, Harve, do you go in for sentiment? If so what a great thing it would be for me to take down the blue ribbon. Owned by a Whitney of the third generation, a family always a credit to the turf, and ridden by Earl Sande, once the most popular American jockey and now attempting a comeback, what a combination that would be! Sande rode Zev in 1923, Flying Ebony in 1925, and Gallant Fox in 1930. No jockey ever has ridden four Kentucky Derby winners. That's a setting for what you newspaper fellows call a great human interest story.

"Let's hope it happens. I'm thinking of the Whitneys, Earl, and perhaps just a little of my own oats. Come in again when Steppy isn't our breezing with his filly."

Moline Valley League Club Wins from Illini, 5 to 4

Champaign, Ill., May 4.—[Special.]—The Moline club of the Mississippi Valley league defeated Illinois, 5 to 4, today. Moline scored three runs in the fifth to even up an Illini lead. Mills weakened and was succeeded by Dave Smith. In the sixth the professionals scored two more and Sivley checked the collegians in the eighth.

Indians Get 15 Hits; Whip Browns, 8-3

Cleveland, O., May 4.—[Special.]—Clint Brown, young Cleveland right hander, held the St. Louis Browns to six hits today while the Indians pounded out an 8 to 3 victory.

The Indians collected fifteen hits off Sam Gray and Wally Hebert. Gray was charged with the defeat.

Warneke Wins Fourth in Row; Beats Pirates

Warneke had to contend with the bad Waner boys in the home third, but they didn't get away with anything. Little Waner filed to left and Brother Paul hit into a double play after French had led off with a single.

Well, Pirates Finally Score.

Then the Pirates finally solved Lonnie for a run in the fourth inning. Piet led off with a double against the fence in left. He went to third while Herman was throwing out Traynor and scored on Suhr's fly to Moore in deep center. There was only one Pirate hit after this. That was a single with which Traynor opened the ninth.

After the third and until the ninth, the Cubs were not very productive. It was mainly a matter of walking up and walking back. Jurges walked to start the fifth. Warneke fanned and Hack forced Jurges. In attempting a double play, Vaughan set a local record for distance throws. He pegged the ball into the rear of the grand stand, putting Hack on second.

Hack went to third on French's bad throw to second, but Herman flied to right. In the sixth Stevie doubled with two out and Hartnett fanned. Herman survived on an error in the eighth, but a double play retired him.

As soon as Chagnon appeared in the ninth, the Cubs concentrated on run-making. Richbourg opened with a single to center and Stephenson sacrificed. Three strikes finished Hartnett. Grimm singled, but Vaughan's one handed stop of the ball back of third forced Richbourg to halt at that base. Then Jurges tripled to right center to score Richbourg and Grimm

MISSOURI SEEKS CARIDEO AS HEAD FOOTBALL COACH

Lafayette, Ind., May 4.—[Special.]—Frank Carideo, back field coach at Purdue, today was offered a position as head football coach at the University of Missouri. The former Notre Dame star was interviewed here by Chester L. Brewer, athletic director at the Columbia, Mo., school.

Carideo said he was considering the offer, but declined to go into details.

The vacancy of head coach at Missouri was created by the resignation of Gwyn Henry.

Root or Bush to Pitch Today; Cubs Home to Dodgers

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pittsburgh, Pa., May 4.—Charley Root, if he has fully recovered from the attack of tonsillitis which prevented him from participating in the junket to Pittsburgh, will be used in the opener against Hack Wilson and the other Brooklyn Dodgers at Wrigley field tomorrow. In the event Root is not available the job will go to Guy Bush. The Cubs expect to look at Lefty Clark.

Pitchers Abe Miller and Sherwood Mackenzie, who bounced back into the Cub fold because the Los Angeles club couldn't use them, probably will be shipped to the Reading International league team. Mackenzie injured his elbow when he fell while fielding a ball at the Catalina Island training camp. Hornsby intends to have him examined by a bone expert.

Leo Dixon, a Chicago boy formerly with the Browns, arrived today to help out the Pirates' crippled catching staff. Grace is out with a split finger and Finney suffered a broken bone when hit on the arm by Malone during Monday's game here.

Local scribes are suggesting that if the Cubs need outfield strength they might give a pitcher like Pat Malone to the Cardinals for Orsatti and Hendrick. The Card bosses undoubtedly would welcome an offer of that kind, but the Cubs are not playing Santa Claus.

The Cubs have played 18 games so far and in 12 of these the starting pitcher finished. Warneke has pitched four complete games and Root, Smith, Malone, and Bush two each.

This was one day the Waner boys didn't commit their usual amount of nuisance. Lloyd, the baby of the pair, enjoyed a scratch single in four trips. Brother Paul was at the plate four times, three with a man on, but couldn't collect anything more than a pass. Once he grounded into double play.

Indiana, Purdue Tennis Teams Play to 3 All Tie

Lafayette, Ind., May 4.—[Special.]—Purdue and Indiana fought to a 3 to 3 tie here this afternoon in a Big Ten tennis match. Emmet Lowery of Purdue defeated Dick Bastian of Indiana, 2-6, 6-1, 9-7, in the No. 1 singles match.

Sox Select Caraway to Face Senators

The Sox will get to Boston on May 15. Hopes are running high for a victory during the four game series in that city. The Sox will visit Washington, Philadelphia and New York before going to Boston.

Manager Fonseca personally ended the first, second and sixth innings in the midst of production, and also the fourth with men on third and second. Maybe Lew didn't want his boys to run themselves tired, what with the big eastern invasion so nigh.

Charley Berry was getting pretty sore about tapping to the shortstop every time up every day. He got so mad that he hit a single to left in the third inning, his first hit in behalf of Mr. Comiskey.

There is no rule in baseball under which Sox pitchers can be awarded a 10 run lead to give them heart. A legal seven run lead is the largest they have been able to blow.

The Sox will return to Comiskey Park on May 20 to open series with Detroit and Cleveland, two teams which have just whipped them for six in a row.

SOUTH BEND IS BEATEN, 2-0, IN CENTRAL OPENER

Fort Wayne, Ind., May 4.—[Special.]—Fort Wayne played air tight ball behind Herb Bradley today to defeat South Bend, 2 to 0, in the opening game of the season in the newly formed Central league.

Bradley allowed five hits, all singles. Jack O'Keefe, the South Bend pitcher, was touched for seven hits and walked three. Drager led South Bend with two hits. Mihalic of Fort Wayne had a like number. It was the first time since 1917 that a team representing South Bend has competed in organized baseball. Score:

BIG LEADS MEAN NOTHING TO SOX; LOSE AGAIN, 8-7

Tigers Trail, 5 to 0, Then Make Thomas Swoon.

outset of the Sox second. Fothergill led off with a single to center and went to third on Appling's single to right. Fothergill scored on Berry's grounder to Rogell, and when Gehringer dropped Rogell's throw to force Appling both runners were safe. The bases were full when Thomas bunted, and Wyatt's throw to third was too late to get Appling. Seeds singled to right, Appling scoring. Gehringer tossed out Selph and Berry scored. Then Blue singled to left, scoring Thomas and putting Seeds on third. Seeds and Blue pushed off on an attempted double steal. Seeds was trapped between third and home, but managed to slide back to third, thus giving Blue credit for the theft of second. Kress popped to Gehringer and Fonseca again ended the works, this time with a fly to Stone.

Open Home Run Attack.

In the fourth the Tigers busted out of the goose egg row with a bang. Rogell opened with a double and Stone walked, after which Gehringer smacked Detroit homer No. 1 into the right field stand, scoring Rogell and Stone ahead of him. Walker fouled to Berry. Davis doubled to left, but Richardson popped to Berry and Hayworth fanned.

In the sixth Walker knocked Detroit homer No. 2 with two out and none on to set the score at 5 to 4, still in favor of the Sox.

In their end of the sixth the Sox scored two runs to take a 7 to 4 lead and complete their run manufacture for the day. Thomas doubled to right, paused while Seeds went out, and went to third on Selph's single to left. Blue doubled to right, Thomas scoring and Selph stopping at third, whence he scored on Kress' fly to Stone. Fonseca supplied the third out with another tap to Rogell.

Sox Lead Vanishes.

There were two out in the seventh when the White Sox advantage flew out of the window. After Richardson had filed to Seeds, Hayworth knocked the first single off Thomas, after which White, batting for Wyatt, beat out a bunt for a single. Johnson forced White at second and then Rogell got his second double, scoring Hayworth. The count was two balls and two strikes on Stone when he hit the ball into the right field stand, scoring Johnson and Rogell ahead of him. Gehringer fouled to Selph.

Faber pitched the last two innings and prevented further scoring.

- Do you know any worthy charity to which I can contribute my garters?
- What's the idea—are you going back to college?
- No. I'm going in for those new Slack Socks that Spalding developed for wear with Slacks. They're short, with fold-over tops. They make garters as obsolete as black silk watch fobs. And they're the last word in comfort for golf and all sportwear. 50c

BY FRENCH LANE.

There's a budding jockey star kicking winners home at Aurora these days and he's liable to be the toast of all the town's racegoers if he lingers around Chicago long.

Charley King is his name and if he hasn't looked as good as any youthful prospect in the last half dozen years, then you can come around and get a 21 ruby jeweled solid gold split second alarm clock.

He looked even better than that in a couple of winning trips around the Aurora course yesterday. And the one in particular that impressed the 6,300 spectators came in the first race when he kicked, yelled, and pushed Verity Ballot, a 3 year old daughter of Ballot-Verity, to victory in a very muddy 6 furlong sprint.

They Can't Quit on King.

King is an Illinois youngster hailing from Shelbyville. He was taught his early horsemanship out on Charley Irwin's ranch in Wyoming. Last winter he had an argument with Cowboy Irwin and his contract was transferred to J. D. Mikel of Bloomington, Ill.

King didn't have to ride brilliantly to win the fifth race on Foolhardy, but he had to show some excellent judgment of pace and know just when to let his mount take it easy and when to start him driving.

He did this to perfection. He took Foolhardy back off the fast pace Jeanne Wachs was making down the back stretch. He saved ground round ing the last turn. Then in the mid dle of the stretch he turned Foolhardy loose, called on the old plater for his best effort, and Foolhardy came on to triumph handily by half a dozen lengths. Blue Law was third.

Horses Like Little Charley.

This wouldn't have been a bad parley, the King kid on Verity Ballot and Foolhardy. Verity Ballot paid $8.22 for a two dollar investment, and Foolhardy, $9.08. Folks hankering for winners will have to watch this little King. Horses run kindly for him.

Old Bill and Luke Connell won the second and third races, which made up the daily double. There were twenty ticket holders and each collected $130.04 for two dollars.

Takes Sportsman Feature —Jockey Injured.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Semester, a 3 year old son of Sir Barton, which has not exactly set the world on fire during his short racing career, trotted over to his room after the running of the fifth race at Sportsman's Park yesterday and sent the following wire to his famous pa: "Just won the Grant Park purse here. Is all forgiven?"

Sir Barton probably would forgive the youngster if he could have seen him in action in the Grant Park purse, feature of the day at the new half mile oval. The crowd of 4,500 had rallied around Chief's Camille in the early betting, but around post time there was a plunge on Semester.

Semester went out in front as soon as they left the barrier, and, although Jockey Mickey Harrison was larruping him heartily at the finish of the race, he stayed there all the way. Vanity Case, a long shot, came up in the last few strides to take the place money from Chief's Camille.

Two Jockeys Thrown.

Newcomers to Sportsman's Park were given a thrill in the second race, in which two jockeys were unhorsed when the field came up to the first turn in a bunch. Jockey J. Ellsworth, riding the 11 to 10 favorite, Dorita, was thrown first, but rose uninjured. Then Matthew, a long shot, reared up and tossed D. E. Froggate, his jockey into the dust. Froggate, a son of the veteran D. Froggate, was unconscious when he was picked up by the ambulance. He suffered a fracture of the thigh.

Form players were rewarded throughout the afternoon, although long shots crowded them in every race. Aside from Vanity Case's second in the Grant Park purse, Venarock returned 13 to 1 to place in the third race and Southland Belle, which ran second to the favorite, Haramzada, in the sixth, paid $31.22 to place.

The favorite players had the first race all to themselves, all of the mutuel play being concentrated on Hieover, Chattahoochee, and That's All, which finished in that order.

Dorita Keeps on Running.

Dorita, after throwing Jockey Ellsworth, went on to finish third in the second race by herself. Ultimate Vote, ridden by Johnny McLaren, won the race with Noon Play, which had almost fallen in the first turn melee, finishing second, and Princella third.

Fans who had seen Mrs. O. Bagley's King Halma win the first race of the meeting Monday by four lengths made him the favorite in the fourth race on the program, but they reckoned without Shasta Lad, a new arrival from Lexington. King Halma allowed Shasta Lad to set a dizzy pace for too long, for by the time he was ready to catch him in the middle of the stretch The Engineer and Infinitus dashed by him and he wound up fourth.

AGUA CALIENTE REORGANIZATION REPORTED NEAR

San Francisco, Cal., May 4.—(AP)—Reports of an impending reorganization of the directorate of the Agua Caliente Jockey club led to gossip in racing circles today that Joseph A. Murphy and William P. Kyne, officials of the Tanforan track, will be asked to direct racing activities at the Mexican track next fall. While neither would commit himself today, Murphy said he had been approached in the past with a similar proposition.

Murphy is vice president and general manager of Hawthorne track in Chicago and is connected with the Thistledown track of Cleveland.

UNIVERSE HURT IN DRILL; MAY BE OUT OF DERBY

months in preparation of their charges for the Kentucky classic will seek only to retain the condition now reached. Mild canters and breathers will constitute the routine work.

These final workouts did not change materially advance estimates of the probable result. Workouts were good, in several instances surprisingly good, but no newcomers came to the fore with anything bordering on the sensational to cast a new element of speculation into a picture already confused and uncertain. Thus, Tick On remains the favorite with the Bradley entry second choice, and the possibility that western sentiment and Kentucky loyalty may send the Bradley pair to the post an almost equal choice with the Kaufman colt trained by Maxie Hirsch.

Tick On's Time Is 2:07.

Tick On, ante post favorite, turned out the fastest drill of the day, when he stepped the Derby route of one mile and a quarter in 2:07. He was saddled by Trainer Hirsch with Jockey Pete Walls, who will pilot him Saturday, aboard. Tick On was accompanied by Brandon Mint, also a probable starter.

Bradley's pair of Burgoo King and Bother Joe were scarcely less formidable when they worked together, with L. Hale on Burgoo King and Fator on Brother Joe. In this test, Burgoo King proved superior to his stable mate, reversing the recent result when Brother Joe was first on a heavy track. At the end Brother Joe acted a little lame, but Owner Bradley, who arrived from Idle Hour farm at Lexington for the work, said this was usual after his works and that the colt had cooled out all right.

Burgoo King's time for the route was 2:08, a second slower than that of Tick On. The fractions were 24 1-5, 49 1-5, 1:15 2-5, 1:40 2-5, 2,08, a slow last quarter, but Burgoo King was going easily at the end, while Brother Joe, under the whip, was several lengths back.

Cathop Takes Final Drill.

Stepenfetchit and Over Time, stable mates under the ownership of Mrs. John Hay Whitney, stepped off 1⅛ miles, finishing with heads nodding together in 1:55. The former seemed to go easily, while Over Time was driving.

Cathop, from the Chicago owned stable of R. M. Eastman, also took his final prep with Jockey C. Meyer aboard. The route was traversed in 2:09 4-5, with the mile in 1:41 2-5.

STEEL OUTPUT GAINS SLIGHTLY, REVIEW FINDS

Upturn for Chicago Plants Seen.

BY O. A. MATHER.

Mild improvement in steel production in the last week and the likelihood that steel plants in the Chicago district will show a decided upturn next week are the salient points in the midweek review of the Iron Age. Moreover, some expansion in buying by the automobile companies is expected to be a sustaining influence for the next two or three months.

Against these favorable factors are the recession in pig iron production to the lowest level since 1921 and a test of steel prices coincident with further wage reductions by steel companies. The declines in gold prices for European steel and higher tariffs in England also are adding to the competition from foreign steel in American markets.

Ingot Output Gains.

"Steel ingot production for the country as a whole has shown a further increase of 1 point this week to 24 per cent of capacity," the Iron Age says. "However, the situation is very irregular in that gains at Cleveland, Detroit, Buffalo, Wheeling, and Birmingham are to a large extent offset by losses at Pittsburgh and Chicago. Increased production is expected at Chicago next week, as business there has shown the first real spurt in many weeks and reports from some cities in the middle west indicate that mild recovery is in progress.

"It now appears that the peak of automobile production will come in June at the earliest, but possibly in July or August. Having attained an output of 1,000 cars a day, the Ford Motor company now has as its objective a daily schedule of 2,800 by the middle of May. The Ford program for the remainder of the year contemplates a minimum production of 550,000 cars, which would mean 3,000 cars a day on a five day week basis.

Touches New Low.

"Pig iron production touched a new low point in April, the daily rate of 28,430 gross tons having come within striking distance of the minimum output of 1921, which was 27,889 tons a day in July. The April total was 852,897 tons, compared with 967,235 tons in the preceding month and 2,019,529 tons in April, last year.

"Wage cuts byt the steel companies, which are expected shortly, will give the price situation its first crucial test. Plans for further advances for the third quarter are being held in abeyance, as some steel companies presumably will be well satisfied to hold present levels against the pressure that may be expected from consumers following wage reductions."

While the production of electricity for the country underwent the expected seasonal decline last week, the output made a more favorable comparison with a year ago than did that of the previous week. The output last week was 11½ per cent below the corresponding week in 1931, whereas the preceding week showed a comparative recession of 12.3 per cent. The Chicago district made more progress than the country as a whole. Output in this district was only 10.6 per cent below a year ago, while the previous week had shown a comparative decline of 14.8 per cent.

DEMAND HIGH GRADES

The highest grade bonds monopolize the investment market at present to a degree that seldom, if ever, has been witnessed before, according to replies of investment bankers throughout the country to a questionnaire by Lawrence Stern & Co., Chicago investment bankers.

"Without exception, investment dealers reported that the principal public demand is for the highest grade of bonds," the analysis says. "Many replies indicate that no other class of bonds is salable under present conditions. Among classifications, municipals lead by a wide margin, with high grade public utilities second. Public financing today is possible only where the very highest credit rating exists.

"New security offerings in the United States in April consisted of $113,425,545 in bonds and $1,083,800 in stocks—a total of $114,509,345. The April volume shows a fairly substantial decline from March, but is considerably in excess of the minimum volume registered in December and February."

Reserve Bank Buying Little Aid to Trade

BY SCRUTATOR.

The federal reserve system has been buying United States government securities on a large scale since the middle of April. For several weeks the purchases have been at the rate of 100 million dollars per week.

On Feb. 24, 1932, the reserve banks held $740,556,000 of government securities, on April 27 they held $1,191,232,000. This was an increase of $450,676,000. If these purchases continue at the rate of 100 million dollars per week for a total of eight weeks, as it has been intimated they may, the holdings of government securities by Federal Reserve banks would amount to $1,678,000,000.

The principal argument voiced in support of these open market operations is that they build up the cash resources of member banks and start them looking for places to invest their money.

There is little doubt that large scale purchases of United States government bonds by the Federal Reserve banks force cash on member banks. It has worked that way in the past and is doing that now. But that this cash will take the next jump and reach industry, the only place where it can do much good, is questioned.

Bankers Want Safety.

Bankers express the opinion that the making of a loan in times like these depends on the soundness of the business proposition that asks it, rather than on the bank's need of a place to put the money.

The reserve banks' purchase of United States government securities thus far has produced no appreciable expansion of credit insofar as business is concerned. Of course, it is only fair to expect a lag between the reserve banks' operations and the evidence of a change in credit conditions. It may be too early to judge.

In another direction, however, the result of the reserve banks' new policy is shrouded by no doubts.

At a time when the United States treasury faces a deficit of more than two billion dollars for the year ended June 30, 1932, and ways and means are being sought to drain another billion from taxpayers the 100 million dollar weekly purchases of United States government securities by the federal reserve system provide an artificial stimulus to the market for such securities.

Keeps Prices Up.

Aside from the securities actually absorbed by the reserve banks the heavy buying has another important effect. It keeps prices up and enables the treasury to borrow at a lower rate of interest than would otherwise be the case. Late in April, for instance, the treasury was able to sell 91 day treasury bills on a bank discount basis of only .62 per cent, whereas two months before it had sold treasury bills on a discount basis of 2.71 per cent.

The treasury has been taking advantage of this crutch. In March $994,146,000 of certificates of indebtedness were sold, of which $370,000,000 represented new money. On April 24 an additional $450,000,000 of certificates were announced.

This financing follows the program announced by the treasury last January when it was estimated that, in addition to refunding operations, one billion 500 million dollars would have to be borrowed during the remainder of the fiscal year.

To date, therefore, the most noticeable result of the reserve banks' open market operations has been the prop supplied the treasury in its job of borrowing to meet the deficit. The hoped for stimulus to general business has not yet materialized.

Stone & Webster Reports Profit for First Quarter

Net operating income of Stone & Webster, Inc., and subsidiaries for the quarter ended March 31, was $496,369, equivalent to 24 cents a share on the outstanding common shares. The earnings excluded net profit of securities owned on Jan. 1, 1932 and sold during the quarter, such net profit being carried to surplus account. Because of restatement of assets of the parent company and certain subsidiaries at the end of 1931 no comparison for the March quarter last year is available.

184 MILLION IN STOCK; ASSETS ARE $164,000

Kreuger Story Told in New York.

New York, May 5.—Three secret match monopolies valued at nearly $70,000,000, which had been regarded as of such international consequence that they could be referred to only as "agreements with countries X, Y, and Z," were described today. They were cited during the inquiry into the tangled financial affairs of the late Ivor Kreuger, Swedish industrialist, before Oscar W. Ehrhorn, federal referee in bankruptcy.

Accompanied by testimony indicating that the complete account of Kreuger's activities, up to his recent suicide in Paris, may furnish the most bizarre financial story of modern times, the three agreements were depicted as representing a possible shrinkage of $66,000,000 in the assets of the International Match corporation, the bankruptcy of which is the issue at the hearings. Other evidence, coupled with the statements by James N. Rosenberg, counsel for the Irving Trust company, receiver, showed that the International corporation has on hand only $164,000 in cash and unlisted securities of doubtful value to meet its $184,000,000 of obligations.

Kreuger's Own Ambassadors.

On its more fictionlike side today's testimony dealt also with:

Secret codes and the dispatching of private ambassadors by Kreuger to "negotiate" with foreign powers.

For under this system, according to the day's testimony, Kreuger apparently assumed paternalistic control of his International Match empire, keeping nearly all of his assets in Europe and paying American stockholders by "gifts" from European subsidiaries in which the American companies had no interest.

Besides Mr. Rosenberg, those who attended the proceedings before Mr. Ehrhorn included Sanford H. E. Freund of counsel for the debenture holders' protective committee, of which James H. Perkins is chairman and David L. Podell, attorney for a second protective committee of which William C. Redfield is the head.

U. S. Attorney Watches Case.

In addition it was reported that United States Attorney George Z. Medalie is watching the testimony to determine whether any action to punish for fraud shall be instituted by his office. Accountants present included representatives of Klein, Hinds & Finke, which has made a study of the affairs of International Match and has been unable to trace its assets,; agents of Price, Waterhouse & Co., which is investigating for the Swedish government the Kreuger financial setup from headquarters at Stockholm.

The witnesses today included Donald Durant of Lee, Higginson & Co., Kreuger's American bankers, and B. Tomlinson, treasurer of the International Match corporation.

Kreuger's "Castle in Spain."

Interrogating Mr. Durant on the secret concessions, Mr. Rosenberg brought out that Kreuger still owes $4,000,000 to four American banks as the result of loans which he promised to pay with returns from his Spanish concession, since found to be nonexistent.

In connection with this loan, and with the floating of a $50,000,000 bond issue for the International Match corporation, Kreuger was asked by the banks for more information on his assets.

Mr. Durant admitted that, so far as he could recollect, he had received no documents to substantiate Kreuger's statement as to the countries that had granted secret monopolies, but had promised to make an investigation.

70 Millions in Doubt.

"I have not found anything up to this time," Mr. Rosenberg said. "I

Court Forbids Banks to Sell Insull Stocks

Judge Walter C. Lindley entered an order late yesterday in the United States District court restraining four New York banks from disposing of the collateral which they hold against loans made to the two big Insull investment trusts, Corporation Securities company of Chicago and Insull Utilities Investments, Inc.

The injunction was issued by Judge Lindley on petition by Russell F. Locke, attorney for Raymond F. McNally and Patrick J. Lucey, receivers for Corporation Securities.

The New York banks had announced their intention of offering the collateral today at public auction for a minimum price of $10,325,000. The collateral consists of large blocks of stock of the Commonwealth Edison company, Peoples Gas Light and Coke company and Public Service Company of Northern Illinois. The banks which planned the auction are the Chase National bank, Guaranty Trust company, Commercial National Bank and Trust company and the Central Hanover Bank and Trust company.

Plead Intrinsic Values.

The four banks hold 77,516 shares of Peoples Gas, 50,981 shares of Commonwealth Edison and 24,554 shares of Public Service.

In the petition for injunction it is alleged that the intrinsic value of the stocks is in excess of the present market prices. Disposal of the holdings at the present time would be detrimental to the welfare of the other creditors and stockholders of the trusts, the petition claimed.

The order entered by Judge Lindley restrains the banks from selling or otherwise disposing of the collateral.

The order enjoins all the New York banks holding collateral of the trusts from disturbing the status quo until further notice of the court. The order was telegraphed immediately to the federal authorities in New York and the banks which are involved.

The Chicago banks which hold stocks of the three Insull companies against loans to the two trusts are not involved in the proceedings. The Chicago banks have given no indication that they will attempt to dispose of such collateral at the present time.

Hold Middle West Collateral.

There is little likelihood that Chicago banks will make any move in the near future to foreclose on the loans to the Middle West Utilities company and its various subsidiaries, according to reports in banking circles yesterday. It is reported that the banks are working in harmony with the receivers.

It was pointed out that the collateral held for loans to Middle West is made up of securities of the various subsidiary properties, which are not readily marketable. The collateral is held by relatively few institutions, while in the case of the two investment trusts the security for the loans is scattered among several banks here and in New York. The fact that Middle West is a holding company for operating properties also makes its situation different from that of the two investment companies.

Gen. Motors Reduces Size of Dividend

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 4.—With the declaration today of a quarterly dividend of 25 cents a share on its common stock directors of the General Motors corporation reduced the annual rate on the shares from $2 to $1. That was the second cut this year, the annual basis having been reduced from $3 to $2 on Feb. 8. The regular quarterly dividend of $1.25 a share on the company's preferred stock was declared.

Sloan Explains Change.

In announcing the reduction of the common dividend Alfred P. Sloan, president, issued the following statement:

"At their meeting today the directors felt that a reduction in the common dividend from 50 cents to 25 cents, equivalent to a change in the annual rate from $2 to $1, was in keeping with the fact that, due to the downward trend in business, the corporation's earnings have not met expectations and was in harmony with the corporation's policy of maintaining its present strong financial position."

The action, announced after the stock market had closed, was in line with Wall street's expectations. General Motors common had closed unchanged at 10⅝, at which level the yield on a $2 dividend basis was approximately 20 per cent. The price of the stock forecast the reduction in the dividend.

Bullock Fund Action.

The first quarterly report of Bullock Fund, Ltd., sent to shareholders with the initial dividend of 20 cents per share, shows several portfolio changes.

On April 20, 1932, the funds were invested as follows: 49.68 per cent common stocks, 10.92 per cent preferred stocks, 13.50 per cent bonds, and 25.90 per cent cash, as against 67.85 per cent common stocks, 13.76 per cent preferred stocks, and 18.39 per cent bonds on Jan. 27, 1932.

In making payment of 20 cents per share the company reported that actual income received amounted to 23.4 cents per share.

RAINEY'S TALK GIVES RESPITE TO WALL STREET

Traders See Rift in Tax Cloud.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 4.—Stocks didn't look quite so woebegone at the close of today's five hour trading session. Washington advices quoting Representative Rainey of Illinois, Democratic house leader, as saying the soldiers' bonus bill "hasn't a chance of becoming law this session" were made the excuse for a flurry of buying which wiped out a large proportion of the general losses suffered earlier in the day. Various issues of pivotal rating indeed managed to finish fractionally above their previous closing.

Rally Was Expected.

Many traders came down this morning anticipating a rally on the overnight news that the senate had voted to reduce the stock transfer tax, but the market paid no attention whatever to the changed outlook of this

TRUSTWORTHINESS

Every organization has an ideal which guides its early development and eventually distinguishes the service that it renders in its mature years.

In this Trust Department, the guiding ideal has been Trustworthiness in its fullest sense, including ample financial strength, assured continuity of organization, experienced judgment, conservatism and integrity.

When you select a trustee to act in all your personal financial affairs after your death, Trustworthiness becomes the decisive factor in your choice.

From its origin in the First National Bank of Chicago, this trust organization has been built and molded to meet that test. We invite you to become acquainted with our trust officers and trust methods.

TAX WARRANTS

BOUGHT—SOLD—QUOTED

Corporations can avail themselves of the present opportunity to purchase warrants at an attractive discount. In South Town, which includes the Loop, 1930 tax warrants with accrued interest are acceptable on the basis given below. In other Townships, percentages are not the same.

CITY OF CHICAGO		COOK COUNTY
Corporate Fund	20.3%	Corporate Fund	4.7%
Bonds and Interest	9.4%	Highway	1.8%
BOARD OF EDUCATION		SANITARY DISTRICT
Sch'ls—Educational	20.0%	Bonds and Interest	5.3%
Schools—Building	7.4%	Corporate Fund	2.2%
Bonds and Interest	1.2%	SOUTH PARK
		Corporate Fund	3.4%

We maintain a specialist to advise corporations and individuals on tax warrants. We are prepared to discuss with those interested the breakdown into percentages of the 1931 tax levy recommended by the Kelly Committee.

To the Holders of

Savoy-Plaza Corporation

Ten-Year Five and One-half (5½%) Percent. Sinking Fund Gold Debentures

Due February 1, 1938

The UNITED STATES REALTY AND IMPROVEMENT COMPANY will purchase a limited amount of the above described debentures, at par and accrued interest to June 1, 1932 ($1018.33 for each $1,000 debenture), $1,000 to be paid by the 6% debenture note of the United States Realty and Improvement Company, and the $18.33 in cash.

Such 6% debenture note to be dated May 2, 1932 and in the principal amount of $1,000; due February 1, 1938, payable to bearer; registerable as to principal; interest from June 1st, 1932 payable semi-annually on the first days of February and August in each year, on presentation of coupons annexed to the note; principal and interest payable at the office of the Company, in the Borough of Manhattan, the City of New York. Such note will provide that on default for thirty days in the payment of interest, the principal will become due at the option of the holder thereof and also contain a provision for prior payment on any interest day, at the option of the maker.

Holders of said debentures of the Savoy-Plaza Corporation, who desire to sell same on the above terms, should present their debentures with August 1, 1932 and all subsequent coupons attached, at Room No. 1115, Trinity Building, No. 111 Broadway, Borough of Manhattan, New York City. Registered debentures must be duly endorsed in blank for transfer.

Tenders of said debentures will be received on and after 10 A.M., Friday, May 6th, 1932. Debentures so presented, if accepted, will be paid for on presentation.

Dated May 2nd, 1932.

Securities of Lakeside Plaza Sought.

If you have a defaulted real estate bond and haven't been able to get the desired information regarding it from the bondholders' committee or from other sources, The Tribune may be of assistance to you. Write to "The Tribune Real Estate Bond Service, Chicago Tribune." Don't ask for information regarding more than one issue at a time. Give name of underwriter and full title of the bond. Inquiries must be accompanied by stamped, self-addressed envelope for personal reply.

Holders of first mortgage bonds of the Victory Ice and Ice Cream company, underwritten by the American Bond and Mortgage company, yesterday were requested by the Bondholders' Protective committee to deposit their securities in order to facilitate a reorganization of the property. Craig B. Hazlewood is chairman of the committee. The Chicago Title and Trust company is the local depositary for the bonds.

This issue is secured by the Victory ice cream plant, built in 1920, together with fixed equipment and the site, comprising 25,700 square feet in Keeler avenue, between 16th and 18th streets. It was brought out in August, 1928, in the sum of $300,000, to refinance the property at the maturity of a previous loan.

Bonds totaling $19,400 have been redeemed, leaving an outstanding first mortgage indebtedness of $280,600. Sinking fund payments of $11,900, due Feb. 2, 1932, are unpaid, while 1928 and 1929 taxes aggregating $11,044 have not been paid pending objection. Real estate taxes for 1930 totaling $6,236 also are unpaid.

Wadeford Apartments.

The committee for the protection of the holders of first mortgage bonds sold through the American Bond and Mortgage company is composed of Mr. Hazlewood, chairman; Frank W. Blair, Frederick G. Curry, H. K. Hallett, Dayton Keith, Joseph E. Otis, Walter J. Sugden, and Charles W. Weston. George L. Wire is secretary.

The thirty flat building at 3414-24 Elaine avenue, known as the Wadeford apartments, yesterday was conveyed by master's deed from Samuel Bushwick and others to Milton S. Yondorf, as trustee. This building was financed by means of a $115,000 S. Yondorf & Co. bond issue. Mr. Yondorf has taken title for the bondholders and will operate the property for their benefit until such time as it can be advantageously sold, according to Decker & Golden, attorneys.

Lakeside Plaza Apartments.

The protective committee for Straus Brothers Investment company issues, of which Barnet L. Rosset is chairman, has called for the deposit of defaulted bonds on the Lakeside Plaza apartments, 817-821 Lakeside place. Of the original issue of $325,000, there now is outstanding $310,000.

The trustee now is in possession of the property, a foreclosure bill having been filed. A tentative reorganization plan submitted to the bondholders several months ago by the Straus Brothers Investment company was declared inoperative because of the present low rentals, and the protective committee was asked to act for the bondholders.

The building contains 80 furnished apartments, which have been occupied approximately 80 per cent during the period May 27, 1931, to March 31, 1932. Gross receipts for this period were $43,203. Expenses total $31,245. They consisted of operation, $26,915; repairs and maintenance, $1,870; replacements, $1,905, and insurance, $553. Taxes for 1928 and 1929, totaling $11,500, are unpaid. The Phillip State Bank and Trust company is depositary for the committee.

ALIEN MONEY GAINS AT COST OF U. S. DOLLARS

Fourteen Millions More Gold Called For.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 5.—The flight of foreign funds from this market, accelerated by the action of the house of representatives on Monday in passing the Goldsborough bill, cast its influence over the foreign exchange market today. Gold in the amount of $14,310,000 was withdrawn from the federal reserve bank and shipped to Europe, while $3,418,200 gold was set aside under earmark for foreign account.

Foreign Currencies Rise.

The principal European exchanges were uniformly strong against the dollar. Three of the four gold standard currencies soared to the highest prices witnessed since last October, when Europe's raid upon the dollar was at its height. Even sterling, which on Tuesday had been held down by official selling, today broke away from its caretakers and rallied sharply in terms of the dollar. In London the exchange got up to $3.69 before it was checked, while in New York it reached $3.67¾ and closed at $3.67⅝, up 1⅛ cents.

Swiss francs rose 11 points to 19.60 cents, nearly 12 points above the export gold point and the best price since last fall; Dutch guilders added 1½ points to their spectacular 9 point gain of the previous day, to close at 40.62½ cents, also nearly 12 points above the gold export price; Belgian belgas rose 2 points to 14.05 cents, about 4 points above the gold export quotation, and the franc, although it closed unchanged at 3.94¾ cents, was firm all day and sold at one time at 3.94⅞ cents.

Marks Also Advance.

Marks rose 2 points to 23.82 cents and the Scandinavian currencies were up 5@10 points. Italian lire closed unchanged at 5.15½ cents, but sold a point above that price during the day.

The bulk of the day's gold exports went to the four gold standard countries. France took $5,300,000; Switzerland, 4 million dollars; Holland, $3,750,000, and Belgium, $700,000. A special shipment of $460,000 was sent to Germany and another of $100,000 to England. Against this last an import of $98,900 gold from England was received during the day. The net result of the transactions, including the $3,418,200 increase in earmarkings, which was equivalent to an export of like amount, was a loss of $17,629,300 to the gold stocks of the country.

Sterling Strong in London.

LONDON, May 4.—(AP)—The feature of the foreign exchange market today was a firmness in the sterling dollar rate, which rose from 3.66¼ to 3.68. The Exchange Telegraph agency said this was due largely to "a policy of inflation" indicated in American legislative measures which resulted in a heavy selling of dollars on continental account. The Evening News attributed the movement to disappointment with American economy plans.

Trading was fairly cheerful on the stock exchange and further gains were registered in mining, gilt edged and oil shares, while Argentine rails hardened on satisfactory traffic reports. Tin shares benefited by the restriction scheme. The close was steady. Sterling lost part of its early improvement when dollars were bought.

British Tariffs Average 20 Percent.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 5.—Great Britain's tariffs are likely to remain at the general level of 20 per cent. Any variations probably will be higher duties for particular commodities, if powerful reasons are produced by the industries concerned. The recommendation for a permanent tariff by the iron and steel industry will be considered favorably by the government.

These points were emphasized by Chancellor of the Exchequer Neville Chamberlain in the house of commons tonight opening two days' debate on the new tariffs.

Paris Editor's Opinion.

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, May 4.—The house of representatives' passage of the Goldsborough bill and the wreckage of the economy bill have aroused new fears in Paris regarding the possibility of inflation in the United States. Frederic Jenny, financial editor of Le Temps, tonight says the representatives' "naïveté has no limit. There is only one way to raise prices sharply—devaluation of the dollar. But it is evidently not that kind of measure which the bill adopted by the house intends. The vote has nonetheless produced a most unfortunate effect in international financial circles. The proof is that the dollar again fell below the gold point."

Paris Market Irregular.

PARIS, May 4.—(AP)—Foreign issues were strong following London, particularly South African issues and oil shares. French stocks were irregular due to the unclear political situation and uncertainty over exchange rates. The closing was better but irregular.

Frisco Loan Wins O.K. of Regulators

Washington, D. C., May 4.—(AP)—The interstate commerce commission authorized the St. Louis-San Francisco Railway company today to issue $1,679,000 of its consolidated mortgage six per cent gold bonds to be pledged with the Railroad Credit corporation as collateral for a loan.

The commission also authorized the company to issue $944,000 of prior lien mortgage six per cent gold bonds, series 3, to be pledged with the trustee of the consolidated mortgage. The order also authorized subsidiaries of the company to issue a series of notes to the parent company to cover capitalizable expenditures made on the properties of the subsidiaries.

Rail Officials Optimistic.

New York, May 4.—(AP)—Officials of the St. Louis-San Francisco railway, while waiting for an approved loan of $1,800,000 from the Reconstruction Finance corporation, today expressed the opinion the road's financial picture was not so dark as it had recently appeared.

In addition to the new government loan, which is to be used principally for the payment of over due state taxes, the Chase National bank agreed to extend a sizeable demand obligation until July 1, and assurances were received that further funds needed on that date will be forthcoming.

"After July 1, we will practically be out of the woods," said C. W. Michel, assistant to the chairman of the board of directors. "On that date we must find around $9,000,000, but we believe this has been arranged. We are going ahead to reorganize our fixed charges, as provided by the interstate commerce commission and, if there is even a fair pickup in traffic, we should be able to hold our own nicely."

Plan to Reduce Charges.

The interstate commerce commission, in approving the $1,800,000 government loan, stipulated a reorganization should be effected whereby the road's fixed charges could be substantially reduced. The management is to submit a plan before July 1.

While nothing like a definite plan has yet been considered, it is generally assumed that bondholders will be called upon to take a "temporary" cut in their interest rates with the understanding that, when the road gets back on its feet, they will be reimbursed. The Frisco management points out that, with only a moderate increase in gross revenues which, they say, is certain with any upturn in general business conditions, the road will have no trouble in earning its fixed interest requirements.

Kansas City Southern.

New York, May 4.—(AP)—The Kansas City Southern Railway company, in its pamphlet report for 1931, issued today, shows a deficit after preferred dividends of $253,703. This is comparable with a balance in 1930 of $626,610.

The road's operating revenues dropped from $19,096,693 in 1930 to $14,073,410. At the same time operating expenses were reduced from $13,120,199 to $9,546,396. Gross income amounted to $4,131,470, against $5,760,870, and net income totaled $376,296, compared with $1,466,610 in the previous period.

The company's current assets were reduced from $7,131,464 in the preceding year to $6,722,305. The cash balance dropped from $13,218,691 to $2,628,293. Current liabilities at the end of the last year amounted to $3,347,872.

Canadian Pacific Meeting.

MONTREAL, Que., May 4.—(AP)—E. W. Beatty, president and chairman of the board of the Canadian Pacific railway, told shareholders today that crop prospects in Western Canada are better at this season than at the same time in any of the last three years. He said that a wheat crop of from 400,000,000 to 500,000,000 bushels "might reasonably be anticipated."

SEVERAL DIVIDENDS ARE REDUCED BY CORPORATION BOARDS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 4.—Reductions were announced by several corporations in the course of today's board meetings, which were also productive of regular quarterly payment by three important companies.

The National Dairy Products, stock of which had been under severe pressure in the last two days, pending the outcome of its meeting, announced today the regular quarterly of 65 cents a share on the common and $1.75 on the A and B preferred shares.

Regular quarterly disbursements were also declared on the shares of Drug, Inc., amounting to $1, and Federal Light and Traction. The latter consisted of 37½ cents and 1 per cent in common on the common and $1.50 on the $6 preferred.

Directors of the Timken Roller Bearing company voted today a quarterly dividend of 37½ cents a share, compared with 50 cents previously.

Kreuger Story Told in New York.

Later the attorney said Kreuger had so handled the affairs of his companies, without ever furnishing definite proof of his reputed concessions to Lee, Higginson & Co. or to the American investors, that it was impossible to determine whether the secret monopolies, if they existed, were the property of the International Match corporation, or of the Swedish Match company, or of Kreuger & Toll, the principal companies in the Kreuger combination.

Cable Conveys Dividend.

The testimony concerning secret codes and unusual dividends came together, Mr. Tomlinson testifying that on one occasion, on code orders from Kreuger, $325,000 was made available for dividends here by transfer from the Norden Export company, a European subsidiary of the Swedish Match company, to the Vulcan Match company, an International subsidiary with which the Swedish Match company was not corporately connected.

International Match corporation dividends amounting to $16,500,000 were paid in the same general way on cabled orders from Kreuger, and the amounts involved were booked as interest payments from the European corporations making the contribution. In one case, that of payments from the Continental Investment A. G., the Lichtenstein corporation, the interest so charged was described as 24 per cent per annum.

Mr. Durant insisted in his testimony that his firm and the International Match corporation, of which Durant subsequently became president, had no cause to doubt Kreuger's honesty up to the time of the suicide.

The hearings will be resumed next Wednesday.

Some Further Details.

Mr. Durant returned from abroad only a few days ago after a trip to look into the possibilities of recovering any part of the American money that went into treasuries of the companies operated by Kreuger.

The exact amount of money that Americans invested in the various Kreuger companies was unknown to Mr. Durant. Securities for International Match had been floated to the extent of about $160,000,000, debentures of Kreuger & Toll, the parent company, $50,000,000, and others, not all put out by Lee, Higginson and not all disposed of in this country, made an addition the size of which he was not sure, he testified.

In addition to being a director of International Match and Lee, Higginson, Mr. Durant was the only man not a Swede on the board of Kreuger & Toll. As a member of their directorate he said he never examined the books, but took the word of the accountants for the company's condition.

Although he was a director of International Match, he testified that he never had heard until the hearings today that Mr. Tomlinson had been directed by Kreuger to juggle its funds. Mr. Tomlinson said Kreuger told him to prevent the Vulcan Match company from showing a loss and to place $350,000 in its treasury.

Seek Secret Agents.

STOCKHOLM, May 4.—(AP)—Police are trying to learn of all the secret agents of Ivar Kreuger, Swedish match king, who killed himself in Paris, the newspapers said today. It was disclosed also that Foreign Minister Hellner, who was sent to Rome to clear up the Italian end of the Kreuger tangle, had been informed by Premier Mussolini that Kreuger had forged the name of the Italian finance minister, Mosconi, to an Italian match monopoly which never was granted.

Hellner told Mussolini that from documents already obtained it seemed clear there had been negotiations between Kreuger and the Italian government which resulted in his acquisition of the Italian match monopoly in return for a state loan. The premier told him that those negotiations never were concluded and that there had been no agreement.

Sig. Boselli, director of the Italian state monopolies, also told Hellner that his signature had been forged by Kreuger.

RUSSIAN OIL AGENTS READY FOR SALES PACT?

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 4.—An agreement by which Russia would cease "dumping" petroleum products in exchange for a marketing pact with world distributors is believed to be the goal for which the international oil conference in session here today is headed.

Russia, it was pointed out by observers, has neither the distributing facilities nor the funds to build up a marketing system.

BURLINGTON ROAD REPORTS BACK TO FARM MOVE

Cityward Tide Affected by Depression.

Depression has resulted in a "back to the land" movement, according to Ralph Budd, president of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad. Evidence of this shift of population from industry to agriculture is offered in Mr. Budd's annual report, made public yesterday.

"In spite of low price levels a more favorable attitude toward the business of farming has developed during the last year," he says. "This is in evidence among the farming population, which has proved itself practically self-sustaining, and among a large group of industrial workers whose status has been less independent in comparison.

More Small Farms Bought.

"Proof of renewed interest in farming in the United States as a whole in 1931 is shown in a substantial increase in the number of purchases of small farm units, many of which were made by former farm residents who have been engaged in industrial pursuits during the last decade. Stimulation of this interest in Burlington states is shown in the total of 4,217 inquiries for settlement and farm opportunities, an increase of 40 per cent over 1930 and representing the largest number received in any year by the Burlington since 1922.

"The times have not been favorable for the building of large industries, but there has been a tendency to move some industries from cities to smaller communities. This was noticeable in Burlington territory with the result that there was a net gain of 38 industries on railroad property in 1931."

Suffers Traffic Declines.

Like all railroads, the Burlington suffered considerable declines in traffic and earnings last year. Total railway operating revenues were $111,218,959, compared with $141,379,421 in 1930. Operating expenses were $77,465,969, compared with $98,877,813. Net income was $13,319,735, equivalent to $7.79 a share on the $170,839,100 capital stock, compared with $21,979,855, or $12.86 a share, in 1930.

REALTORS TOLD 1933 FAIR WILL OPEN COMPLETE

BY AL CHASE.

With the announcement made last night at the monthly meeting of the Chicago Real Estate board that 140 of the most influential corporations in America have contracted for exhibit space at the coming Century of Progress exposition, John W. Gorby assured the realtors that Chicago's second World's Fair would open its gates on June 1, 1933, as scheduled, with everything complete.

Mr. Gorby of the science and industry division of the exhibits department of the exposition told of the scope of the great fair and declared that in both architecture, materials used, and in lighting effects it would set a new world standard. He stated that it would be a fair of processes rather than products. Exhibits will emphasize motion, he said.

Architect David Saul Klafter has completed plans and work will start within a week on a two story building at 2710 Devon avenue which will cost a reported $40,000. Dr. Nathan Schwartz, who lives at 1330 North Artesian avenue, is the owner. The new structure, which will be 75x100, will contain two stores on the first floor, with loft space on the second story.

The National Tea company has leased half of the first floor space from Dr. Schwartz for a seven year term beginning July 1, 1932, and ending June 30, 1939, at a term rental of $16,800. Paul Steinbrecher & Co. were brokers. A. A. Yort, attorney for the National Tea company, represented the lessee in the negotiations. The new National Tea store will be of the self-service type, with both grocery and meat market departments.

PACKING SHARES SELLING TARGET IN CHICAGO TRADE

Liquidation Follows Action of Supreme Court.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Packing shares were the targets of heavy selling on the Chicago exchange yesterday. Liquidation swelled in volume and centered in the shares of Swift & Co. and its affiliate, Swift International.

The weakness in the Swift issues was attributed in part to liquidation in connection with the consolidation of two important banks in Boston. The companies have a large number of stockholders in Massachusetts who might be affected by the bank merger.

The selling in this group began before the Supreme court's decision refusing to modify the packers' consent decree and broke out with renewed force yesterday. Brokers reported that the liquidation was coming from scattered sources, with one or two commission houses furnishing the bulk of the offerings.

Blow to Company.

While the court decree will have no reaction on Swift's current business, according to officials, it is known that this firm had laid extensive plans for expansion in anticipation of a favorable ruling. The high court's opinion was naturally a blow to the company. Speculators have capitalized on the situation and helped to depress the price.

After selling as low as 10, Swift rallied to close at 11, with a net loss of 1¾ points. Transactions in the issue reached 25,500 shares. Swift International on sales of 15,900 shares broke to 14 then rallied a point to close at a net loss of 1½ points.

The weakness in the issues led to speculation by brokers on the prospects for continuance of current dividend rates. Both issues are giving an unusually high yield at present prices. Accurate information as to the probable future action of directors could not be obtained.

Edison Up 2 Points.

While other stocks on the Chicago exchange yesterday were generally lower there were a few conspicuous exceptions. Commonwealth Edison advanced 2 points, and Midland United prior lien gained over a point.

News that the New York banks had taken steps to gain legal ownership of the Insull stocks now held as collateral was received calmly. The move was purely a legal one. Working control of the large Insull operating companies will continue to rest with the New York and Chicago banks, which hold their stocks as pledges against loans made to the two Insull investment trusts.

Mengel Co.

I own $5,000 of Mengel company 7 per cent bonds. I wish you would be so kind as to let me know how you consider them. I would thank you very much for information on them. —A. L. R.

Mengel company was incorporated 33 years ago. It manufactures shipping containers used for such products as tobacco, cereals, and soaps. It also manufactures veneers, panels, plywoods, etc.

Sales have dropped sharply since 1929. For 1931 net sales were $6,178,000, against $9,010,000 for 1930, $18,373,000 for 1929, and $16,384,000 for 1928.

Net loss for 1931 was $672,000. This was after interest of $206,000 and inventory adjustments of $305,000. Loss for 1930, after interest of $205,000 and inventory adjustments of $512,000, was $406,000. Net income after all charges was $1,248,000 in 1929 and $903,000 in 1928.

At the close of 1931 current assets were $5,618,000 and current liabilities were $321,000. Cash was $773,000 and notes payable were $74,000. Working capital was $5,297,000, against $5,787,000 on Dec. 31, 1930.

Unfilled orders at the beginning of the year were $1,073,000, against $1,440,000 on Jan. 1, 1931.

The $3,000,000 first 7s, due March 1, 1934, are secured by a first mortgage on all properties of the company. They are somewhat speculative.

Union Electric Light and Power.

Please give me a report on Union Electric Light and Power company of Illinois.—A. J. D.

Union Electric Light and Power company of Illinois is controlled by Union Electric Light and Power company [Missouri]. The latter is a subsidiary of North American Edison company, part of the North American system.

The Illinois company owns two steam electric generating plants at East St. Louis, Ill., and Venice, Ill. It derives its income from leasing them to affiliated companies. The leases provide for a rental sufficient to pay taxes, depreciation, and a fixed return on capital expenditures.

Gross revenues in 1931 were $3,893,000, against $3,889,000 in 1930, $3,757,000 in 1929, and $3,603,000 in 1928.

Net income in 1931 was $1,994,000, or $24.92 per preferred share, against $1,713,000, or $21.41 per preferred share in 1930. Net income in 1929 was $1,634,000 and in 1928, $1,551,000.

Bond charges were earned 3.33 times in 1931, 2.52 times in 1930, 2.47 times in 1929, and 2.42 times in 1928.

At the close of 1931 funded debt was $8,000,000. There were outstanding 80,000 shares of 6 per cent cumulative preferred [par $100].

TO HOLDERS OF

CITY OF TAMPA, FLORIDA

4¼%, 4¾% AND 5% BONDS

(Not including Water Bonds and Refunding Bonds now outstanding)

Maturing July 1, 1932 to December 31, 1935 inclusive.

The City of Tampa, Florida, finds it necessary to refund all bonds (except bonds issued for Water purposes and Refunding bonds now outstanding), maturing from July 1, 1932 to 1935, inclusive.

Holders of present outstanding bonds maturing in that period will be asked to exchange at par, with adjustment of accrued interest, for Fifteen Year Refunding Gold Bonds, to be dated July 1, 1932, due July 1, 1947, redeemable in whole or in part at the option of the City of Tampa, at par and accrued interest on any interest payment date.

Present holders of bonds who exchange will receive new bonds bearing interest at an increased rate of ½% per annum.

The Chemical Bank & Trust Company, 165 Broadway, New York, will effect the exchange when the Fifteen Year Refunding Bonds are ready for delivery.

The City of Tampa has appointed B. J. Van Ingen & Co. Inc., 57 William Street, New York City, its Fiscal Agent to handle all details of the Refunding and Exchange, and requests all holders of bonds coming under the Refunding Plan to communicate direct with that firm.

C. E. HOLTSINGER, Comptroller, CITY OF TAMPA, FLORIDA.

Tampa, Florida, April 23, 1932.

B. J. VAN INGEN & CO. INC., Fiscal Agents.

Foreign Demand for Cash Grain Improves.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Reports yesterday that Russia had entered the world's wheat market as a buyer for shipment to Manchuria, presumably to take care of the increased needs of its army in the far east, came as a distinct surprise to the trade. As a result prices were swept upward in all of the leading markets, although net gains were not large. According to reports, Russia purchased five cargoes of Canadian and one cargo of Australian wheat, or around 1,500,000 bushels, on Tuesday.

The effect of the unusual development was more marked in Liverpool than in the local markets. The former ignored the decline in North American late Tuesday and closed ⅝c higher to ¼c per bu lower, with May there quoted at 57⅛c at the last, or 3¼c over Chicago at the time, the greatest premium in many weeks.

Foreign Demand Active.

The effect of the Russian news on the Chicago market was partly offset by weakness in stocks in New York and all deliveries dipped early to a new low on the current downturn, July touching 55c. There was free selling of July and September by a house that usually is identified with the coöperatives, but the offerings were absorbed by other commission houses and a rally of 1@1⅝c from the inside figure followed, with the close within a fraction of the top with net gains of ⅝@⅞c. May was 54c; old July, 56⅛@56¼c; old September, 58⅛@58⅝c, and December, 61⅝c at the last.

The trade paid little or no attention to the crop reports of the previous day or to the favorable weather which prevailed over a good part of the winter and spring wheat belts.

Cash Wheat Demand.

Foreign demand for North American cash wheat in the last two days has been the largest in some time past. It was estimated in messages from the seaboard that between 3,000,000 and 4,000,000 bu had been sold, including the business with Russia, the bulk of the grain being Canadian. However, there was also considerable American hard winter and some durum included in the total.

Winnipeg wheat again showed more strength than Chicago and closed ⅞@1⅛c higher, with May at 60⅝c in Canadian funds, which were around 10½ per cent discount. Buenos Aires was also strong a good part of the day.

Cash Corn in Demand.

All deliveries of corn, except the May, dropped to a new low for the season early yesterday, while the May touched 27⅞, and equalled the low figure of May, 1897. The nearby delivery received good support due to the development of an excellent shipping demand and all futures rallied sharply toward the last, with the close at the top. Closing trades were unchanged to ⅝c higher, with May leading. The latter finished at 28½c; July, 31⅝c; September, 34@34⅛c, and December, 34c.

Local handlers reported 318,000 bu cash corn sold for shipment to the east and charters were made for 550,000 bu to eastern ports. The country offerings were limited, with only 3,000 bu reported as bought to arrive. There was talk of some export business at the seaboard, but quantities were not given. A bearish construction was placed on a farm reserve report by Nat C. Murray, who estimated stocks May 1 at 740,000,000 bu, compared with 446,000,000 bu a year ago, and five year average of 595,000,000 bu.

May Oats Close at Top.

May oats acted tight a good part of the day, and finished at the top. Closing trades were unchanged to ⅝c higher, with May at 22⅝c; July, 22¼c; September, 22⅝c, and December, 24¼c. There was some export business in Canadian grain but the total was not given.

A liberal amount of Canadian rye was reported as having been sold for export on Wednesday, but failed to have much effect on futures. All deliveries of the latter sold at a new low for the season early, only to rally later with wheat and close ⅝@⅞c higher. May was 35⅝c, July 38⅝c, and September 40⅝c at the last.

Rain Helps Crops.

Rains over a large part of the agricultural regions helped all crops and pastures. Growth was more general especially in the central regions. Winter wheat is jointed in southern states and conditions were improved in the southwest. There is much spottedness in many sections, however.

Spring wheat seeding is practically finished in many northern sections, much reported up to a good stand in northeastern Iowa.

In the southwest winter oats are short and heading nicely in most localities. In central and southeastern sections of the country conditions vary widely.

Corn planting during the week was decidedly inactive because of the prevailing coolness, except in the lower Missouri valley and in the southwest. Some was planted in the southern portion of Indiana and Illinois, but in other sections of the Ohio valley seeding was irregular and tardy. In Iowa considerable progress in preparation was made, but planting was delayed awaiting warmer weather. Corn is mostly up to a good stand in the southwest but growth was retarded.

COFFEE.

NEW YORK, May 4.—(AP)—Despite firmness of Brazilian exchange and reports of somewhat better spot demand, with desirable grades said to be scarce, coffee futures today eased under moderate Brazilian selling. PIT NOTES

Sentiment in wheat was a little more favorable to the buying side at the close. It is said that commission house absorption on all weak spots had shown larger volume than of late, which was taken as indicating that local professionals and possibly some of the outsiders who are becoming more satisfied owing to the low prices and the bullish crop reports, preferred the buying side on breaks. There were indications of shorts being uneasy owing to better export business, including large sales of Canadian wheat to Russia, which had a strengthening influence on local trading in general. Foreign news is rather more favorable to holders.

Traders who have been long wheat and short corn were active in covering some good sized lines, which was said to show fair profits. Trade sentiment in corn is more two sided owing to lighter country offerings and to low prices with larger shipping sales. A great deal of talk about export business was heard, but the seaboard said that no business had been consummated. However, it was said that a local house had made moderate export sales.

It is understood that about 2,500,000 bushels of American wheat owned by the farm board and Red Cross stored at Georgian bay ports is to be moved into the United States, charters having been made within the last few days. The wheat has been in store at Canadian ports where low rates were secured, and it is now being returned and will go to eastern ports for distribution.

LARD PRICES DECLINE

A fair business was on in lard with easier tone in product and in hogs, the latter toward the close. Prices ruled within a narrow range and the close was at net losses of 2½@7½c. Bellies were unchanged. There were deliveries on May contracts of 150,000 lbs of bellies, making them 400,000 lbs in the last three days. Liverpool lard was unchanged to 6d lower and export clearances from New York 88,800 lbs. Cash lard was 4.20c, loose 3.62c, leaf lard 3.75c, short ribs and clear bellies 4.25c. Prices follow:

COTTON MARKETS EASY

Buying of cotton was erratic. Commission houses and hedging sales supplied the demand and prices averaged lower. At no time did they get as high as the previous day's close. The opening was at a break of 2@5 points and the close at net losses of 5@7 points in Chicago, and 7 to 13 points in other markets. Spots in New York declined 10 points and other markets were off 5 points. The price was 5.65c in New York, New Orleans and Galveston, and 5@6c in Houston. Liverpool closed 13 points net lower.

The weekly government weather crop report was on the whole rather bearish. Weather is warming up over the entire cotton belt and conditions are more favorable for growth. Sterling exchange was firmer, and Liverpool was lower with the close at net losses of 10@11d. A private estimate of acreage suggests a reduction of 10 per cent and says the crop start is favorable. Houston reports absence of country offerings of consequence, as holders have little confidence in future prices working materially higher. It is said that mills are doing considerable hedging business against their holdings of cotton. Prices follow:

BUTTER FUTURES STEADY

Butter and egg futures closed steady on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday, November butter easing to a new low mark of 18c after the opening, but recovered the loss at the close. Egg futures moved up ¼c. Butter news varied. The production reports showed a decrease from last year, but the inward movement of stocks was 16,800 lbs greater than last year. Egg reports did not change, receipts and the inward movement of stocks both holding under last year. Sales: Butter, 25 cars; eggs, 36 cars. Prices follow:

Top yesterday, $7.25; average, $6.35.

Estimated receipts at Chicago today: Cattle, 6,000; hogs, 20,000; sheep, 10,000.

The hog market yesterday was dull and uninteresting. Prices worked up a notch at the opening, but were unable to stick, and soon commenced to slip back to Tuesday's levels. Closing transactions indicated that all of the earlier advance had been erased. However, enough stock sold on the 5@10c upturn to hold the average for the day 5c above the preceding session at $3.60.

The peak price at $3.90 also showed a 5c gain. Light supplies and better action on speculative account for a short time during the forenoon gave the trade a stronger appearance, but when many of the local houses balked at elevating initial costs in face of a weaker wholesale trade for fresh pork a draggy market developed.

Cattle Prices Under Pressure.

Good to choice grades of cattle came under pressure again yesterday and prices were forced back 15@25c more. Steers selling at $6.50@7.60 show 25@50c loss compared with last Thursday. Top classes are slightly under the lowest spot of last summer, which was the lowest point for cattle since 1911. Several bearish factors are working against the trade. Beef is moving slowly on sagging wholesale markets. Some branch houses report generous supplies on hand, and there is some fear of a glut unless receipts of live cattle are held down. Hides sank to new low levels. Some by-products have become almost worthless. All this has been contributing to the decline in the cattle market. Three carloads of choice 1,379@1,427 lb steers topped the market at $7.60 yesterday. Yearlings averaging 1,032 lbs reached $7.50. The usual number of unfinished light steers sold at $5.00@6.00, while some 1,210 lb averages with a fairly good "kill" sold at $5.35. Best grades of cows were fully steady, while heifers ruled weak to 25c lower, better grades showing the full loss, in sympathy with steers. Calves advanced 25@50c in value, this branch being influenced by a higher lamb trade.

Lambs Up 25c.

Lamb prices came up 25c on yesterday's lively trade. Supplies were short at all markets and demand better despite discouraging reports from the wholesale lamb trade. About 900 choice California springers averaging 75 lbs raised the top in that class to $7.75. Almost 300 natives averaging 67 lbs reached the same figure. Aged wool lambs advanced to the highest point since April 20, the top going up 25c to $7.25. Aged sheep and yearlings sold steady. Light shorn ewes for eastern slaughter brought $2.25.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 6,000 cattle, 20,000 hogs, and 10,000 sheep, against 5,870 cattle, 29,990 hogs and 16,074 sheep the previous Thursday and 5,124 cattle, 18,000 hogs and 15,302 sheep a year ago.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK OF BOSTON ACQUIRES ATLANTIC NATIONAL

Boston, Mass., May 4.—(AP)—The first National bank of Boston, one of the seven largest banks in the United States, has taken over the assets and deposit libabilities of the Atlantic National bank, one of Boston's largest banking institutions.

Under an arrangement completed last night both banks today operated as one. The First National has guaranteed to pay in full all depositors of the Atlantic in both commercial and savings departments.

The First National's cash is approximately twice the deposit liabilities of the Atlantic and its resources more than triple those of the smaller bank.

In a statement issued last night by the First National its cash was listed at $122,000,000 and total deposits of the Atlantic National were listed at $65,000,000. In addition to its cash on hand the First National bank also has between $90,000,000 and $100,000,000 in government bonds.

Officials of both institutions said that acquisition of the Atlantic was made with that bank in a strictly solvent condition. In explaining the situation, officials of the First National said it was not a question of a larger bank absorbing a smaller one to dominate the field, but rather in line with the general banking movement throughout the country, where the assets of smaller banks are being protected by stronger ones. The action, they said, was taken at the request of both the Atlantic National and the Boston clearing house banks.

Plan to Reopen Illinois Bank.

West Frankfort, Ill., May 4.—(AP)—Depositors and officials of the closed West Frankfort State bank are combining efforts to reopen the bank which closed last December, it was announced today. The city is without facilities as a result of the closing of four banks within the last four years.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, May 4.—(AP)—SUGAR — Raw was more active today and prices were unchanged. Holders were not at first inclined to sell at last paid prices of 2.60c for spots, but as buyers showed no interest above this they later yielded, with the result that about 106,000 bags of Porto Rican and Philippines for May and early June arrivals were sold to refiners at this price. It was also reported that yesterday 45,000 bags of Philippines and 28,700 bags of Porto Rican were sold to refiners for late May and early June arrivals at 2.61c. At the close additional nearby duty frees were still available at 2.60c. Approximate sales, 18,850 tons. Prices follow:

	Open.	High.	Low.	Close.	Prev. close.
May	.52	.52	.51	.51	.52
July	.61	.61	.60	.60	.61
September	.66	.67	.65	.66	.67
December	.73	.74	.73	.73	.74
January	.74	.75	.74	.74	.76
March	.79	.80	.78	.79	.81
May, 1933	.83	.84	.83	.84	.86

In refined the prospective advance to a basis of 3.80c for fine granulated, without allowance in local territory to be effective at the opening today failed to materialize and instead local refiners announced a reduction of 2½ points to the basis of 3.77½c without allowance.

COTTONSEED OIL.

NEW YORK, May 4.—(AP)—COTTONSEED OIL—Bleachable was easier today under renewed liquidation and commission house selling, promoted by the easiness of lard and cotton and closing unsettlement in hogs. Sales were 30 contracts, or 4,500 barrels. Crude oil was 2⅝c bid in the southeast and the Valley, and nominal in Texas. Bleachable spot closed 3.10c; May, 3.20c; July, 3.28c; September, 3.41c; December, 3.60c. There were no sales in the prime summer yellow contract, with closing prices as follows: Spot, 3.05c; May, 3.10c; July, 3.15c; September, 3.20c; October, 3.25c.

LIVERPOOL COTTON.

Traders See Rift in Tax Cloud.

supposedly important factor. Some commentators guessed that the apparent inability of the legislators to agree on where the tax for budget balancing purposes should be placed had tended to offset the good news.

The street has been genuinely concerned, however, over the threat of the proposed bonus legislation. The Rainey statement undoubtedly brightened the outlook considerably for some of those who have been tuning their worries to this score.

Before the afternoon turnabout more than a hundred active stocks had wilted down to new low levels for the year or longer. Included among them were United States Steel common and preferred, American Can, American Telephone, General Electric, Consolidated Gas, Auburn, Coca Cola, Eastman Kodak, Allied Chemical, International Harvester, Du Pont, Woolworth and Western Union.

Rail Shares Weak Again.

Nearly all the rails reached new lows. A fairly long list of preferred issues found a dearth of buyers and broke through the crust of their thin markets.

The weakness lasted until well after the turn of the day, much of the selling suggesting further forced liquidation of collateral behind loans which had gone "sour" as a result of the market's continued failure to display any staying powers against its tormentors.

Individual features of the day were scarce. Traders who took part in the bear drive on International Shoe late yesterday afternoon had to pay through the nose today, the stock proving one of the stronger issues on the board. The closing price showed a net gain of more than 2 points, which was a good 3 points above the level reached when the sellers were trying their hardest to break it through its supposedly "pegged" niche of 36 yesterday. Wags of the floor opined that the "shoe" was pinching a bit, as it were.

In the oil group Standard of New Jersey moved up a point and the gossip was that foreign buying was largely responsible. Royal Dutch also looked up.

MEN

THE ASSISTANT MANAGER OF OUR NATIONAL ORGANIZATION WILL ARRIVE THURSDAY MORNING FROM NEW YORK TO INTERVIEW AND EMPLOY ADDITIONAL MEN FOR BRANCH OFFICES IN CHICAGO AND NEARBY CITIES.

Instructions to employ a number of additional men in this area were given our managers at our recent national convention in New York, in view of extraordinary sales increases this year, surpassing all former records.

Throughout the entire Electrolux organization our new mechanical invention [not refrigeration] is demonstrating the present availability of this opportunity to men who are responsible, adaptable, diligent, ambitious. Many men are finding this to be their real life's work and making good money in it—$4,000.00 to $10,000.00 and up per year regularly.

WHAT IS YOUR FUTURE? ARE YOU GETTING AHEAD? ARE YOU ON THE ROAD TO INDEPENDENCE IN YOUR TRADE OR PROFESSION? CAN YOU EXPECT TO MAKE FROM $40.00 TO $100.00 A WEEK IN 1932? IF NOT, INVESTIGATE THIS OFFER OF FREE INSTRUCTION AND IMMEDIATE EMPLOYMENT. WE HAVE NOTHING TO SELL.

We will take on additional men who wish to learn to do this work and who can get along on earnings of $35.00 to $40.00 a week while studying and practicing. We will train such men free. We will furnish full equipment with no deposit required. There is no expense. No previous experience in any kind of selling is necessary. If you are capable of understanding and following instruction, if you are one who likes to practice to learn skill and judgment in what he does, and if you are willing to work for success, then we will give you a chance. We cannot guarantee you that you will be a star, but we do guarantee you a trial with substantial earnings, practical instruction and guidance.

We have a wonderful invention that renders a very unusual service. Our men are thoroughly trained as to how to conduct our business. Those we believe, in a personal interview, can qualify will be given the opportunity to see our invention, meeting our men, investigating their earnings, our company, and our entire business method.

It is not unusual that men in this organization make $25.00 to $50.00 for one day's work.

This is a straightforward offer of sincere intent to worthy men who are in need of good substantial positions. Please do not apply for these positions unless you can meet these requirements, and these requirements are that you be of neat appearance, of good character and reputation and willing to work.

Applicants will be personally interviewed Thursday morning, 9 to 12. Also 1 to 3. See

J. ALLEN FUSCA, PARLOR "F," MORRISON HOTEL.

CAPABLE MEN.

We are developing the Chicago west side and Kankakee county territory now for our spring campaign and can use several high grade, dependable men. We find our territory to be most productive and our men are making exceptionally big money. New men often make $20 to $50 for a single day's work.

Neat appearing married men over 28 years prove most successful with us. Satisfactory references will be required. Apply Thursday morning, 9:30 to 12, Suite 11-14, 5967 W. Madison-st.

An Attractive Opportunity.

3 men of average intelligence, good personality and neat appearance who would appreciate an opportunity to learn the stock brokerage business; 1 week's intensive training given successful applicants; earnings upwards of $3,000 per year; selling experience not essential. TRADE SCHOOLS.

Advantages of Marinello.

Being a Marinello graduate, your patrons will expect to pay you more for treatments than if you were a product of some obscure school. That's one reason why it pays to be a Marinello Beautician. But—there are many others that our Representative will be glad to tell you about. We want girls right now to fill positions in our beauty shops.

Why not train for a profession that shows you greatest returns? Day and evening classes now forming. Agreeable tuition arrangements. Come in, write, or phone for free 35-page booklet.

Commonwealth Customers—Pay LESS—for LOANS

$2.93 is the average Monthly Cost of a $225 loan under COMMONWEALTH'S Reduced Rate. This allows 25 months for repayment. There is no lower cost than this in Chicago.

THE personal property which nearly every family owns and the signatures of husband and wife enable one to secure any amount up to $300 quickly and easily.

NO FEES. You get full amount of the loan and up to 25 months to repay. Interest at the Reduced Rate is charged only while you keep the money.

Also Salary and Auto Loans
